Souvenir
of our School

Lives of great men all remind us
We can make our lives sublime,
And, departing, leave behind us Footprints on the sands of time.

– Henry W. Longfellow

Naomi B. Putt.

With the Compliments of
Your Teacher
this Souvenir is presented to you believing that it will find a place in your "Treasure Box" and serve as a reminder of our School Associations.

School days are passing
With all their joys;
May we improve them well;
We shall not always
Be girls and boys-
Some day we'll say farewell.

T. B. Weaver.

EFFECT OF EXAMPLE

We scatter seeds with careless hand,
And dream we ne'er shall see them more;
But for a thousand years
Their fruit appears,
In weeds that mar the land,
Or healthful shore.

The deeds we do, the words we say—
Into still air they seem to fleet,
We count them ever past;
But they shall last—
In the great judgment they
And we shall meet.

I charge thee by the years gone by,
For the love's sake of brethren dear,
Keep thou the one true way,
In work or play,
Lest in that world their cry
Of regret thou hear.

WHEN THE SEEDS COME UP

Madeline Bridges

When the seeds come up---oh, the tiny seeds
That look so little and mean so much!
When the green shoots open, we pluck the weeds
To leave full space for the sun's warm touch
And the dew's soft kiss and the rocking breeze, Great Nature's cradle, for such as these!

* * *

When the seeds come up, that we planted deep
With a lofty hope and a willing hand,
The harvest ripened is ours to reap,
In fruit, or grain, or a lovely band
Of flowers and blossoms to bless the sight
And give to the world a new delight.

* * *

When the seeds come up, that our souls must sow
Each day, each year, as we journey on,
God grant we may see them rise and grow
To the grace of a full perfection won---
Harvest of goodness and love and truth---
Seeds we sowed in the heart of youth!

It's the song ye sing and the smiles ye wear That's making the sun shine everywhere.

James Whitcomb Riley.

Life is not so short but there is always time for courtesy.

Knowledge is the only jewel that will not decay.

Naomi B. Putt,

After a year of work and play together, I wish to express to all of you my friendship and well-wishes.

I would not turn time back and live the past again, for the way of youth lies in the future; yet it is but natural to regret the passage of time which brings the hour of parting and farewells.

For each of you I wish the best that life affords.

Your Teacher.

The Silent Bell

The school-bell will not ring to-morrow,
It is the last day of the year;
Feelings both of joy and sorrow,
For the parting time is here.

Another year of study ended,
Problems solved and lessons learned:
School-work for the while suspended,
And a good vacation earned.

Not "what you read but what you remember will make you wise"

Where were life and speech and singing,
Emptiness will reign instead;
Ceased the school-bell's noisy ringing;
Hushed and still as if 'twere dead.

Though you greet vacation gladly,
Happy that your tasks are o'er;
Time will come when mem'ry sadly,
Reviews the days that are no more.

Friendships formed in days of youth,
Are those which linger in the mind;
And school's the very place in truth,
Where one forms friendships of that kind

"He who governs his tongue is perfectly able to control all his passions"

When twenty, thirty years shall pass,
And season follows season 'round;
Perhaps some member of this class,
With fame and honor will be crowned.

What pride will swell your bosom then,
If one of you should glory win;
To say among your fellowmen,
"I used to go to school with him!"

May all of you in years to come,
Look fondly back upon this year;
As one which in the total sum,
Of all your life will stand out clear.

"No power on earth nor under the earth can make a man do wrong without his own consent"

First Generation

1. Benjamin^1 Putt was born between 1750 and 1760. It is known that he married Barbara _____, but he may also have had another wife. Benjamin lived in Heidelberg Twp., Berks Co., PA, in 1800 and 1810[1]. By 1820, he had moved to Norwegian Twp., Schuylkill Co., PA,* possibly after spending some time in Maryland. Several sources give Maryland as the birthplace of his son, John[2]. Benjamin moved to Ohio between 1823 and 1827[3]. He was living in Perry Twp., Stark Co., OH, in 1830, and was enumerated as being between seventy and eighty years old[4]. There is some question about whether Benjamin had more than one wife, based on his wife's age as listed on various censuses. In 1800, she was enumerated as sixteen to twenty-six, placing her birth between 1774 and 1884. In 1810, she was older than forty-five, necessitating a birth year of before 1765. His wife was enumerated as being between fifty and sixty years of age in 1830, making her birthdate between 1770 and 1780. In 1840, Benjamin was living in Plain Twp., Stark Co. His age was correctly noted as between eighty and ninety years old, but his wife was still listed as fifty to sixty years of age. This would mean that she was born between 1780 and 1790. One theory is that Benjamin's wife's age was incorrectly marked for the 1810 census. In that case, he could have had the same wife for all four years,

As I told you in an earlier mail, Mary Agnes Putt is my mother.

I hope this isn't too muddled to for you to figure out. One other thing I have to share is the following, which is an undated newspaper clipping--I think it's a hoot!

"The funeral of Susanna, wife of Levi Putt took place from her residence, 42 Maple, at 10 a.m. Rev. Dr. J.W. Steinmetz and Rev. C.E. Schaeffer held services. The remains lay in a black cloth-covered casket, with oxidized extension bar handles, oxidized trimmings and plate and were attired in a white shroud. The bearers were: James, George, John, William and Joseph Putt and Charles Moyer. Relatives and friends were in attendance from Lebanon, Cornwall, Fleetwood and other places. Internment in Aulenbach's Cemetery. Funeral director, Hunter Henninger"

THE

by

Lurah Putt DeVoe

MY PARENTS

Frank Putt was born August 24, 1869, in Fairfield Township, DeKalb County, Indiana. He was the son of Levi Putt and Harriett Anstett. He was raised on the farm and attended grade school at the Putt schoolhouse on what is now (1996) the Reinoehl farm. He didn't have an opportunity for further schooling but tried to go to Tri-State College in Angola, Indiana. He didn't have high school so failed in his attempt to become a teacher. He was needed on the farm and this is what he did the remainder of his working years. He was an avid reader and we had three newspapers, many magazines and books at home.

Maude Brugh was born in Hudson, Steuben County, Indiana, on September 22, 1882. Because of her father's health, her parents moved to Oviatt, Michigan near Traverse City. When Maude was eighteen years old, she visited her grandmother, Rachel S. Shatto (McBride) Harmes, who lived in the Cedar Lake area of Smithfield Township, DeKalb County. She attended the Cedar Lake Church of Christ and was baptized there, May 5, 1901. She became friends with Lurah Armstrong and they were baptized the same day. This is where my name, Lurah, came from. I was named after her.

When Maude's sister, Nellie, was planning to marry, her fiancee died and Nellie was heartbroken. Her mother, Emma, sent her to visit Grandma Harmes hoping she could cheer her up. This was when Nellie met Purd High and came to Indiana to live. My mother visited Aunt Nellie and Purd. That's how she met my dad. It was probably in the Church of the Brethern where the Highs were members. Later, Frank visited Maude in Michigan and they were engaged. Maude, my mother, came by train to Indiana and they were married at the High home, December 28, 1904. They started housekeeping in the house they lived in during their married life. My mother told me the buildings and house and barn were ready to live in when they married. Dad did most of the work on the buildings.

Much of my parent's life was made unhappy by too much family interference from my Aunt Sadie Putt Doty. My mother begged Dad to move to Canada to get away from it. When my Grandfather Putt heard this, he deeded the farm of forty acres to them.

My parents lived through World War I, when Allen and I almost died from the flu that was prevalent at that time along with whooping cough, and World War II, when Allen was in the Navy and Dwight moved to Illinois to work at Scott Field, a military airfield.

They managed to live through the depression of the 30s because of their hard work to provide for their family. I'm forever grateful to them.

THE CHILDREN

There was a birth before Dwight...a sister. She was never talked about.

DWIGHT--Dwight L. Putt was born March 19, 1908. He was nine years older than me so I don't remember a lot. He always seemed grown up. He went to Shipe School as we all did, then to Ashley High School. Instead of a middle name, he had the middle initial "L." We used to tease him by making up "L" names, the more ridiculous the better. Dwight was very good looking and intellectual. He went on to college and prepared for a teaching career. He was also good at mechanics and could tear car motors down and put them back together again. He majored in mathematics and science. His close friends were Willis "Bill" Reinoehl and Willis "Bill" Brand. They were in our home often. Bill Reinoehl went into teaching and Bill Brand, who had a beautiful voice, became an evangelist. Dwight met Rachel through Naomi. They were in the same class in school. Rachel was the new girl in town and beautiful. They were married December 31, 1931. They had five girls, Lorna Lee, Angie Lou, Jo Ellen, Peggy Ann and Mary Elizabeth. Rachel and Dwight lived the rest of their lives in Illinois near East St. Louis.

NAOMI--Naomi Brugh Putt was born December 18, 1910. She had a difficult birth and was declared dead. My mother wouldn't give up and kept breathing into her mouth until she started breathing. This is something she probably learned from her mother, Emma Brugh. I didn't know until a few years ago that Grandma Brugh was a midwife. Naomi grew up to be a beautiful girl. She had blond, curly hair and blue eyes. She attended Shipe School and Ashley High School. I can't recall all her girl friends but they visited in our home. When she graduated from high school a representative of a beauty school in Ft. Wayne came to our home and tried to recruit her. Naomi had money in the bank but it would take it all so she refused. This was the beginning of the depression. The bank failed and she lost her money. Raymond Rensch was in college with Dwight and became a teacher the same as Dwight. They had one-room schools in the same area. Dwight introduced Raymond to Naomi. They eloped to Angola, Indiana and were married September 2, 1932, by Rev. Rose. They had a daughter, Carolyn Elouise, born November 4, 1933. They lived in Hudson, Steuben County (in town). They moved to DeKalb County and lived there until Carolyn was through high school. They purchased a farm near Butler, Indiana. Raymond had retired from school teaching and went into full time farming. They lived on this farm until Raymond retired. They then moved to Angola, Indiana near their daughter.

PAULINE--Pauline Harriett Putt was born July 11, 1913. Pauline went to the same schools, Shipe and Ashley High. She was full of high spirits and fun and added a sense of humor to the family. She could do things and get away with it....like skipping school and getting in very late from a date. When we washed dishes at night, she would get up on the table and sing. One year the school gave an operetta called "Geisha Girl." Pauline could go through every song. She was always being grounded for something. Naomi and Pauline, though three years apart in age, grew to the same size. Mom made them dresses alike, Naomi's a pink print and Pauline's blue. They made a handsome pair. Mom also made their prom dresses and they were beautiful. Pauline met Roy King when they were in the same class in high school. It was a school romance that lasted and they were married March 18, 1934. They started housekeeping on his grandparent's farm. Mom made Pauline's wedding suit. It was blue-gray wool with a blue silk blouse and she wore gray pumps. They went to Angola and were married by Rev. Rose. They lived with Roy's parents until their house was ready. They had five children. Julie Ann King, who didn't live, was born June 15, 1935. Pauline almost died at this birth. She had uremic poisoning. Then came David Edgar, Daniel Evan, Darrell Roy and Jennie Kaye King. Pauline and Roy lived on their farm the rest of his working days and, after that, lived in a house on the farm across the road until they moved to an apartment in Auburn, Indiana. They were members of the Cedar Lake Church of Christ where Pauline's ancestors were charter members and Roy's were long-time members. Pauline was a bright light in our family.

LURAH--Now comes me. I was cute with white curls when I was three. Then things changed, contagious diseases took their toll and I had a sickly childhood much of the time. I was always told I was too little to do anything with Dwight, Naomi and Pauline. I learned to accept it and played with Allen. I learned to climb trees, ladders in the hay mow and dig caves. I also went to the same schools but had one advantage. I had girl friends that lived within walking distance. There was Olga Reinoehl, Helen and Martha Krueger, Ruth White and Esthel Neidig (Leas), my dearest friend. We went through twelve years of school together. We were the same size and teachers would get us mixed up. We were in classes together, plays together and, when her parents went on a Sunday trip, I was asked to come along to keep her company. Another friend I was close to was Grace Shumaker. I met her as a freshman at Ashley High School. We spent a lot of time together. After we were out of school, she introduced me to Doyle DeVoe, a cousin of her boyfriend, Harlan Shumaker. My first date was a blind one they arranged and we went to Ft. Wayne to an accordion concert. Doyle worked for the Kendallville Post Office. He lived at home and saved his money and bought a new car......saved more money and when we got married December 4, 1938, we had our little rented home in Kendallville all furnished. We were married in the Kendallville parsonage in Kendallville by Doc. Moss. The next day, Doyle went to work as usual. December was a busy month in the post office. We lived in Kendallville for three years and moved to the home farm after Doyle's parents died. Ronald Claude was born in 1941 while we were living in town. Kathleen Gail and Phillip Warren DeVoe were born when we lived on the DeVoe farm. After Phil and Kathy grew up and went to college, we moved to Cree Lake to a new house. After Doyle's death, I moved back to Kendallville.

ALLEN--Allen Oscar Putt was born February 11, 1919 and named for the doctor who delivered him, Dr. Allen Tracy. I loved him from the start. My mother told me I would show him to visitors and call him my "Bo." Allen was a cute blond with blue eyes. He grew up and went to the same schools. We played a lot together. The auto makers used to advertise with glossy pictures of their cars in the Saturday Evening Post. I used to cover the hub caps, hood ornaments and all identifying items and have Allen guess the make of the car. He always got it right. We both married Kendallville spouses and have lived within five miles of each other since. We did many fun things together. He met Evelyn Foster in high school. After high school, Allen went to Wisconsin and worked on a dairy farm. These people were Germans and their sympathy was with Germany in what turned out to be World War II. Allen was disgusted, came home and joined the Navy. Evelyn had taken nurses training and was a registered nurse. She met Allen in New Orleans while he was stationed there and they were married in a church, a wartime wedding. Alana Evan Putt was born in Norfolk, Virginia. After the war, they came back to Kendallville to live. Deedra Jill was born in Kendallville. Evelyn and Allen lived on Road 3 south of Kendallville and, since Allen's death in September, 1996, Evelyn has lived there alone.

THE FARM

The land on the farm was interesting. It was muck, a loose black soil, that was leased to the onion growers. The onions needed to be weeded and topped in the fall. All of us children earned money for books and school clothes by working in the onion field. We would give our money to our mother and she kept it for us until school started.

Next to the muck land was a large vein of gravel. My parents were asked to open this for the graveling of roads. So it became the gravel-pit. This was a fun place to play and look for pretty stones. One year, my parents leased it to a road contractor to do work on State Road 3. They drilled a well for water and installed a gasoline pump for the trucks. It was a busy place and we were warned to stay away from the area by my mother.

My parents put the money in the bank to make the addition to our house. $900 was a lot of money then. All of a sudden, the money was gone. Aunt Sadie, Dad's sister, talked him into buying her share of the home farm where Grandma lived. Grandma had a life-lease. At her death it would go to the children.

To the back of the farm, there was new land, probably two acres. My parents cleared this and planted strawberries. They produced so well that they sold strawberries for several years. Pickers would come and buy them by the crate.

When my parents planted garden, it was an art. All of us children stayed out of their way. The garden was fenced in and had flowers planted around three sides. On the fourth side, there was asparagus, rhubarb, currant and gooseberry bushes and grapes. Small vegetables were planted in this garden. Then they planted a separate area called the truck patch with sweet corn, potatoes, pumpkins, squash, lima beans and melons. Soup beans and popcorn was raised on Grandma's farm.

In the big barn on Grandma's farm, was a "flail" used to flail the ripe soup beans out of their pods. It was a huge stick with leather strips attached. The beans were scooped up from the clean, worn-smooth floor and were sorted and stored for winter use. Any excess was sold to the grocery store. My dad farmed Grandma's farm. The forty acres we lived on wouldn't support a family of seven.

THE HOUSE

The house we lived in was a simple four-room house with a large kitchen, living room, a front hall to tie them together and two bedrooms upstairs. Later my parents shingled the house with green shingles. The house had a tin roof and it was wonderful to lay in bed at night and hear the rain on that roof. Other improvements over the years were a bedroom, bath and kitchen, enclosed back porch, front hall enlarged and small front porch added.

The new kitchen was small....a kitchen cabinet that had sugar and flour bins built in, the cooking range, small table and chairs and a narrow cabinet next to the chimney where we put skillets and pots and pans. After R.E.M.C. brought electricity to the country, we had a refrigerator.

The old kitchen was converted to a dining area where we put the square oak table and chairs, an oak glass door cupboard and a huge corner cupboard with glass doors. This is where Mom kept her pretty dishes that she collected over the years.

When my parents purchased their first radio, an Atwater-Kent, it was placed in this room. It was operated by battery and we listened to only our favorite programs. When the battery ran down it meant a trip to Hudson to have it charged. This room was heated by a wood and coal stove.

The living room was furnished with a day bed, two oak rocking chairs, a mission oak rocker with leather seat and an oak library table with bookcase ends. After Great Aunt Mary Brugh Tussing willed us the player piano, it was in this room. We had an Aladdin lamp that made a nice white light. The lamp was on the library table and we would sit near it to read at night. There was no radio or TV then.

The downstairs bedroom was where my parents slept. It was off the livingroom and, if you opened the door enough, heat would come from the living room stove. Upstairs, one bedroom was for the boys. It was furnished with one bed, a bookcase-desk combination and a very large chest of drawers. In the closet was my mother's trunk that she brought from Michigan. When we helped her clean house, she would go through things and tell us about the past. The girl's bedroom had two beds, a marble top bureau and a desk-bookcase. There was also a wicker rocking chair. This room had a long closet and the three of us girls had an area to hang our clothes. We shared drawers and shelves for books.

One side of our basement had a dirt floor. Empty canning jars, potatoes and apples were stored on this side. The other side had a cement floor and wide cement shelf to store canned vegetables and meat. There was a cherry wood dry sink where Mom stored special fruits, jams and jellies. At the foot of the stairs were the vinegar barrels. This basement had a very strong long trap door that could be fastened up when we used the basement. There was an antique drop-leaf table where we stored milk, butter or anything we wanted to keep cool. We had a square metal butter churn painted blue that was really neat. A handle was turned to move the paddles and it worked very smooth. We never saw another one like it.

THE ORCHARD

My parents planted an apple orchard next to the house. They planted many varieties of apples and they ripened at different times. At one time I could go through the orchard and name them. An Early Transparent was my favorite. It ripened in August. It was yellow, thin-skinned, a little tart but mellow. It made a great eating apple and was good for applesauce and pies. It was a great tree for climbing with wide branches and Allen and I could climb all over it.

When the trees were small, my parents raised geese. They ate the weeds and bugs in the orchard. My mother made pillows from the down from the geese. We also used the eggs for baking and cooking. A mulberry tree was planted in the center of the orchard to feed the birds. Later a martin birdhouse was put in the center next to the mulberry tree, high above all the trees. At the edge of the orchard was a raspberry patch that produced year after year.

The apple orchard produced all the apples we could use. My dad would take a wagon load of apples to Helmer and have barrels of cider made. "Vinegar mother" was added to the cider to make vinegar. We had barrels full to sell. Customers....usually neighbors and friends....would bring their gallon jugs to be filled. It sold for ten cents a gallon.

Another interesting tree was the yellow cherry tree in our backyard. It was very large and loaded with cherries. They were beautiful, a pale yellow with pink cheek. No one we knew had cherries like this. My mother canned them for winter use. We also ate all we could while they were fresh.

The garden, truck patch and orchard produced a lot of our food. Chickens, beef and pork was raised on the farm. We always had balanced meals and a large variety of food. My mother purchased sour cherries, peaches and pineapple for canning. None of our neighbors had so many fruits produced on their farms. I think my mother learned all these things from her parents, William and Emma Brugh.

BARN, HORSES, BUGGIES, PHONOGRAPH

Our barn was so simple. It had stalls for the horses, a few cows and calves. It had a hay mow up above and Allen and I loved to go up and down the ladder. It wasn't as steep as the ladders in my grandmother's barn. The barn had a lean-to addition that we called the shed. Garden tools and small tools were stored in this. Farm tools were at Grandma's. A loaded shotgun was hung on a nail in the shed to scare away wild animals that got in the chicken house. One day Allen got the shotgun down and shot a rooster. He hadn't expected the kick the gun had and it came back and hit him in the mouth. Knowing he'd be in trouble if he told the truth, he buried the rooster and told his mother he got hurt falling down the gravel pit bank. Doubting it, she kept asking him over and over until finally his story broke down. No food was ever wasted, so she dug the rooster up and cooked it for supper. Allen's mouth was so swollen he couldn't eat it.

One time someone talked Dad into buying an antique car. I think Dwight told me it was a 1914 Ford. It had oil lamps for headlights. It was never driven and was later sold. It set in the shed for a long time and Allen and I would spend hours looking at it.

At one time my parents had a double buggy. Someone told me it was quite a picture to see my parents drive up in their buggy with the fringe on top with all five children. The buggy was pulled by our farm horses, Prince and Tops. The photos of our family dressed ready for church would pinpoint the year between 1919-1920.

Dad was always coming home with something that he was talked into buying. The antique car, the Edison phonograph with a diamond needle in an oak cabinet. This was way beyond our means.

When he bought a single buggy and a buggy horse named Daisy, he opened a whole new world for us. Mom could harness up the horse and buggy and we went visiting. She had many friends and relatives and we would "call" on them. We also went to church in it. Daisy was a dainty horse and was used to being rode bare-back without a saddle. She was very slow and gentle and completely safe. When our friends and cousins came to see us, they rode Daisy. Naomi had to go to Fairfield Center for her eighth grade exam for school and she rode Daisy. Daisy was just being herself and walked in that slow "safe for children" pace. There was no way Naomi could hurry her. She came home furious and said, "Never again!" I don't recall when Daisy and the buggy were sold.

COOKING AND BAKING

My mother was an excellent cook. We had a variety of food raised on the farm. She made bread and cinnamon rolls. They were baked at the time we came home from school and it was wonderful to walk into the house and see the bread and rolls lined up on the kitchen cabinet to cool.

Two cakes I liked were hot milk cake baked in an oblong pan with a powdered sugar icing on top. This tasted like ice cream. Another cake was devil's food cake with seven-minute frosting. We made our own salad dressing that was cooked and good for potato salad. Chicken and noodles was a Sunday dish. Bean soup was an easy meal for Saturdays. We could put in on the stove in the iron kettle and it didn't require watching. Quite often the lid from the stove was removed and the kettle put down on the coals. How we hated washing this black kettle.

Mother made more cookies than pies and was always trying a new recipe. She also had an art of making pulled taffy. The syrup had to be cooked, cooled and pulled at the right time. She made fudge and popcorn balls. We had our own walnut trees so had walnuts for the fudge. We also had a butternut tree. There was a tree on the new ground where the land hadn't been tilled. These nuts were oval in shape and looked like a walnut. The meat was rich much like a cashew.

Mother had a square, metal butter churn which was painted blue. It worked very smooth and we took turns cranking. Everyone liked buttermilk but me and they would stand around drinking it. We had an ice cream freezer to make ice cream when ice was available.

My mother made home-made soap in a big iron kettle. We girls complained about the soap being hard on our hands. It wasn't really. We didn't like the idea of using homemade soap, so we went back to using P&G bar soap.

On cold winter nights, my mother made codfish gravy with baked potatoes. In later years I tried to duplicate this but couldn't eat it. Naomi, Pauline and I all learned to cook and bake. We also learned canning. We had a large square dryer. It had water in the bottom and was put on the stove to dry apples and corn. Corn was the best. It had a sweet nutty flavor. Apples were very unpopular and I really disliked them. All through the depression years we ate well because we could raise most of our food. Staples like sugar, cocoa, coffee, salt, vanilla, raisins and flour were purchased.

When it was threshing time for wheat and oats, the farmers helped each other harvest their grain. The noon meal was always at the home where they were working. The men washed their hands at the well and came in the house to dinner that was spread on a white linen tablecloth. We always went to town for meat and all I can remember is beef roast, mashed potatoes, vegetables, pickles, celery, pie and cake and lots of coffee. Some of the farmer's wives helped each other cook this meal. It was summer and we weren't in school so we helped my mother. After I was married I helped my mother-in-law with one of these meals. I thought it was great fun and was pleased to be asked to help.

SEWING AND CATALOGS

My mother was an expert seamstress. She made clothes for the three of us girls and herself. She made comforters, sheets, pillowcases, quilts and tablecloths.

Before her marriage, she worked for a family in Traverse City, Michigan where she learned the skill of cutting patterns from newspaper. She could copy the dresses we would choose from pictures in catalogs. We girls eagerly awaited the Sears and Montgomery Ward catalogs to see the new styles. She made our school dresses and we always had a new dress for the last day of school. The prettiest dress she made was Pauline's prom dress. It was orchid silk with lace and looked exactly like the picture in the catalog.

Mom didn't like making coats so they were purchased. She liked to crochet and made many doilies and edgings for pillowcases. A more practical use of crochet was the many "throw" rugs. She made these out of worn clothing like old cotton dresses. Heavier material of worn clothing was cut in strips, sewn together and rolled into balls. These were taken to the weaver who wove rag rugs.

The beautiful materials my mother made our better dresses and formals with were purchased from the catalogs. They would send samples and she would carefully choose silks, wool and lace. Cotton prints and plains was purchased from Seagly's store in Ashley. They ordered things special if you wanted. The store was a combined grocery and dry goods store. Dwight's suits were purchased at Pleasant Lake. He needed them for school teaching. Our shoes were purchased in a shoe store in Auburn. Hats were purchased from a milliner who lived across the street from the U.B. Church in Hudson. I can't remember where Dad, Dwight and Allen purchased their hats and caps. Probably at the Seagly Store.

PUTT AND SHIPE SCHOOLS

There was a Putt one-room school house on the corner across the road from the Reinoehl farm. This is where my dad attended school. My mother attended school in Oviatt, Michigan.

When we children were ready for school there wasn't enough children in the area to keep the Putt School open so we were transferred to Shipe School. Shipe School was a brick one-room schoolhouse with an entry hall. This entry had shelves for dinner pails and hooks on the wall to hang our coats and caps. Our winter boots were placed on the floor under our coats. There was a closet with a door that could be locked and this is where the Ballot Box for voting was kept. There were shelves for sports equipment...baseballs and basketballs. All cleaning equipment was stored in this closet.

The girls used one side of the hall and the boys the opposite. The boys side had an alcove where a pottery water cooler with faucet was kept. We had our own marked tin cups for drinking. Also in this alcove was a bench with wash pan, soap and towel, pails for carrying water from the adjoining farm and a pail for waste water. The boys side had shelves for dinner pails and the same hooks for clothing. In the center of the hall was the bell with a rope hanging down. This bell was used in the morning, at noon and recesses. We all had our turn ringing the bell.

The main schoolroom had a wood and coal heating stove in the center of the room. Wood was stacked outside in the corner of the schoolhouse and a load or two of coal on the ground. This was carried in by the students.

There were rows of desks on each side of the stove. These desks were large enough for two children to sit. In front of the desks facing the teacher was a recitation seat which was a long-backed seat similar to a church pew. The teacher's desk and chair was in front of this. Back of this desk was a wall covered with a slate blackboard with a ledge for chalk and erasers. Above this blackboard was the school clock, the flag and framed photos of George Washington and Abraham Lincoln. At one end of the front wall, there was a large map case with pull down maps, a hanging oil lamp, a large dictionary on a stand, an encyclopedia and a phonograph.

To begin the school day we had "morning exercises". These activities varied. We did exercises, marched to Sousa records or the teacher would read a book to us. One of my teachers put up a basketball hoop and, by pushing his desk back, we could play basketball. In the winter, we brought our sleds to school and back of the schoolhouse was a hill to slide down and curve down around some maple trees. Some noon hours we went to a pond and ice skated. Our noon hour was extended for this.

We had a good library well stocked with books and I remember reading Zane Grey and Gene Stratton Porter books. There was a special fund for books and art materials. This fund was from the Halloween Socials put on by the parents. The social had different booths where candy, popcorn, fishing for prizes and various other things were available. A box supper was held and, after this, couples danced in a circle around the stove. We had Christmas programs well attended by parents.

Our last day of school in the spring was one of my favorite times. We went to Krueger's Woods and had a wiener and marshmallow roast. Our teacher would give us a memento, a little booklet with the students names in it.

The floor of the school was worn hardwood and was oiled to keep the dust down. One board had a knothole in it and boys would stand above it and see if they could drop pennies through it. In later years, when the small schools were consolidated, Shipe School students were bused to Fairfield Center School. Shipe School was torn down and the land reverted to the original land owner. Students all rode on a bus. When I attended school there, as a transfer from Putt School, I rode in a horse-drawn hack. The seats were along each side and there was a small coal furnace about the size of a large box in the center aisle to keep us warm when it was cold. Some years we rode in a car.

I think I had a good grade school education and don't feel that I was underprivileged. We had time for games and fun along with learning and life wasn't so rushed.

FRIENDS AND RELATIVES

There were seven children in my mother's family. Four of these children moved to Indiana. The other three stayed in Michigan. When the Michigan relatives came to Indiana, the aunts, uncles and cousins would have a family reunion. There were many of them through the years. Also, Aunt Eva, Emma Brugh's half-sister, lived in Indiana. We had a carry-in dinner with each family bringing food.

One year, we put long boards across two saw-horses, then covered them with white linen tablecloths. This was placed at the edge of the yard next to the apple trees. As the relatives came, the women took the food to the kitchen. The men headed for the livingroom where they played Euchre. The men played until it was time to eat and, after they ate, they played until time to go home. My aunts and my mother were in the kitchen most of the time. They talked about children and local events. I listened a lot. You can learn much by listening.

Dad's family didn't have reunions except the yearly reunion of the Anstett family. I remember my mother, Allen and I going to see Great Aunt Joanna Anstett. She was a sister to Levi Putt and lived across the road from Grandma Putt.

The Reinoehl family lived a farm away from us on the corner where Paul Reinoehl lives today. His son built a house on the corner across from him and this is where the Putt schoolhouse had been located. My mother was a good friend of Effie Reinoehl. They were very busy raising their families. John Reinoehl was married two times. His first marriage he had Henry, Willis and Harold. The second marriage they had Olga, John, Paul and Ruth. They lived in a large square house. Dwight and Willis were close friends. Allen and I were friends of Harold and Olga. There was a lot of visiting between the families. Allen and I also were friends of the Kruegers, Whites and Brands. Anyone remotely related my mother knew about, we had social contact.

CHRISTMAS

There were Christmas programs at school and church. There was a community program at the Ashley Hall. All the children were given treats which was a little brown sack of candy, nuts and an orange. Our teacher and bus driver also gave us treats, the same little brown sack with candy, nuts and orange. Allen and I would see how long we could make it last.

My parents didn't have money for expensive gifts and we didn't have a tree. My mother decorated a rounded bushel basket and she hung it from a chain in the livingroom where, at one time, there was an ornate hanging lamp with a hand-painted shade. This held our Christmas gifts which were things like gloves, small games and books. It was a special time and not as commercial as it is today.

GRANDMA PUTT'S HOUSE

Grandma's house was a fascinating place to my brother, Allen, and myself. As children we would often ride on a wagon with our father who farmed the farm. We would go in the house to see Grandma. Sometimes we walked across the fields (our short cut) or rode a bike on the road. Grandma's house was back a lane from the road. Her house, larger than ours with a family of five, seemed big to us. She had a summer kitchen with a cool, cement floor, an oil stove and a wash stand. I have her wash stand today. It is full of nails. When the boards warped, they nailed them down.

She had a room she used as a combination livingroom and kitchen. This had a quaint wood burning stove that she could cook on as well as heat the room. Also in the room was a square oak table, straight chairs and two rocking chairs. On the walls were a calendar, a combination mirror and comb case and, the center of our attention, the clock. This clock was inherited by her grandson, Allen. We learned to tell time with this clock. Our mother would tell us to start for home when the little hand was on three and the big hand on six.

Off the kitchen area was a pantry that had cupboards on each side, ceiling to floor. One of the cupboards had glass doors and was full of rose colored patterned china and a set of tea-leaf china. The cupboard on the opposite wall had one thing that interested us and that was a candy jar. Grandma always gave us a piece of candy each time we came.

There was a parlor off the kitchen that was used for special company. We were allowed to tip-toe into this room but not to touch things. This room was furnished with a walnut pump organ with little shelves to hold photos. The most interesting thing to us was the Edison phonograph with a blue morning glory horn. One day during our visit, Grandma played the cylinder records for us on the phonograph. It was magic. We didn't have anything as fine at our house. There was a small bedroom with a bed and chest of drawers. One time she let us peek at a room upstairs. It was furnished with a bed and chest of drawers. I never did see her cellar.

Grandma was a small woman. She wore her straight hair parted in the middle and done up in a knot. She wore long dresses, all the same style, and sensible shoes. She had a "dutchy" accent and I have probably picked up all the dutchy expressions I use from her.

One day we asked Grandma if she wished she had married again. She answered, "Yes, it's a long time to live alone."

Grandma was the youngest child in the Anstett family and, at the time I can remember, she didn't have any living sisters or brothers. Each year there was an Anstett reunion. My parents were responsible to see that Grandma was there. Grandma would sit in a chair on the lawn and all the relatives would greet her. She was "Queen for a Day." They called her Aunt Harriett. I couldn't understand all the fuss over Grandma.

As Allen and I grew older, there were family problems and we weren't allowed to go to Grandma's anymore. When she died in 1940, I was married and recovering from surgery. I went to her funeral and sat with a lump in my throat and thought how things could have been different. My aunt, Sarah Doty, was too ill to go to her mother's funeral. The next day she hired a truck and stole all of the beautiful antiques from the house and sold them. The farm had to be sold to settle the estate. Two farmers bid on the farm and John Brand had the highest bid so he bought it. John tore down the house and barn and today there is no indication of where Grandma's lane, house or barn stood.

LEVI PUTT

Levi Putt, son of George Putt and father of Frank, was born June 24, 1840, in Lebanon County, Pennsylvania. He was a teamster like his father and also a farmer. During the Civil War, his brother-in-law, a Doty, came home with a crippled arm after serving in the Army. Levi said he wasn't taking a chance on that happening to him. He went west and helped families over the mountains to California. He was paid in gold coin for this service. Levi didn't believe in banks and buried his money. He buried the money to bury himself in his cellar and buried the gold somewhere on the farm. It was never found.

Levi inherited land from his father, George, and gave each of his living children land. The forty acres where his son, Frank, lived was given to him. This is where Frank built his house and barn and raised his children. There was some acreage on this farm that hadn't been tilled. Frank cleared this land and it was referred to as "the new ground."

An Anstett family lived across the road from the Putts. They had a daughter, Caroline Anstett, who Levi made know his wish to marry. Caroline didn't want to marry him so she fled to New York to live with an aunt. This made Levi angry so he said her sister, Harriett Anstett, had to marry him. Levi was a stern man. He didn't believe in wasting money on Christmas gifts for their children. Harriett would buy gifts and hide them. Levi would hunt until he found them and get very angry. In his last years, he was confined to a wheelchair after suffering a stroke.

Caroline Anstett, who fled to New York to live with her Aunt Catherine, met and married David Irish. In 1870, they were living in Steuben County, Indiana and they are buried at the Steuben-DeKalb County Line Cemetery. They had four children: Elizabeth born 1869, Elnora born 1870 and twin girls, Ella and Etta born 1874. Caroline died in 1876 at age 32 years.

Levi died at 74 years of age. He was a pioneer and helped his father clear land that was a wilderness when he came to Indiana. He is buried in Circle Cemetery, Hudson, Indiana.

HARRIETT ANSTETT PUTT

Harriett Anstett was born September 23, 1846, in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania. Her parents, George Anstett and Susan Stofer, were from the Alsace, Lorraine area of France. They lived in the village of St. Nicholas near Nancy.

Her father, George, was a tailor. George, Susan and their two children immigrated to America in 1833. They lived in Pennsylvania where seven more children were born. They moved to Peru, Indiana. George made suits for the Indians. The Indians were friendly by day and stole from them at night. Susan tired of this and said, “It’s time to move.” They moved to Auburn, Indiana where it is said they could stand on their front porch and count the houses in Auburn. They left Auburn and moved to Fairfield Township, DeKalb County, Indiana. Their farm was across the road from Levi Putt.

In 1870, George had retired from farming and was living in Steuben County, Salem Township. His son, John Anstett, who married Joanna Elizabeth Catherine Putt, lived on the Anstett farm. Harriett Anstett, who married Levi Putt, Joanna’s brother, was across the road. Both farms had lanes back to their homes. Harriett lived to be 93 years old and died at a niece’s home in Helmer, Indiana. She is buried in Circle Cemetery, Hudson, Indiana.

Indian trail and post-road, leading from Philadelphia through Reading across the Blue Mountains, near Fort Henry, close by Round Top, at Dietrich Six's, where earlier so many Indian massacres occurred, to Shamokin (Sunbury)."

The present beautiful church edifice is indeed the original stone building erected in 1810, but since remodelled and greatly improved. It is built of native mountain stone, with beautiful ornamentations, presenting, with surmounted steeple, attractive lines in keeping with ecclesiastical architecture. It will possibly stand another century or two as an attractive landmark of this section of Berks County. Its builders and maintainers deserve credit for their good taste, its religious workers for generations for their good deeds.

Among its originators were the Bordners, Kleins, Lerchs, Millers, Muths, Royers, Shueys, Webers, Zeibachs and others. The pastors who have served here were, Reformed: Revs. Wm. Hendel, A. Hovitz, William Good, Thomas H. and Chas. H. Leinbach, H. J. Welker, Henry Hilbish, H. A. Keyser, C. A. Butz, Thos. H. Bachman, and the present incumbent, Chas. M. Risslinger; Lutheran: Revs. T. T. Iaeger, J. C. Schmidt, H. Grahn, D. D. Trexler and Ira W. Klick, the present incumbent. The church has given at least three sons to the holy ministry, viz: Revs. D. B. Lerch, (deceased), Daniel F. Brendle (deceased) and A. S. Weber, of Baltimore.

We continue the brief sketches of other old churches of this section whose histories cannot be omitted in an historical survey of these early settlements. At least five or six more such are included in western Berks, whose beginnings go back over a century and a quarter. They are the Corner, or St. Daniel's Lutheran Church near Robesonia, Belleman's Church in Center Township, Bern and Epler's Churches in Bern Township, and for their prominence though not as old as the Sinking Spring and the Womelsdorf churches.

St. Daniel's (Corner) Lutheran Church—There is perhaps no church in Berks County that has preserved a more complete transcript documentary history than this St. Daniel's (Corner) Church. All records pertaining to this congregation from its formation in 1751 to the present day, wherever the originals were found, either in Church Book, in Court Records, in historic addresses, or other reliable sources, have been carefully sifted and arranged, then transcribed to uniform type-written quarto sheets and these carefully and neatly bound in a stout quarto-size book of 562 pages—all the painstaking work of a son of the congregation, Mr. M. A. Gruber of Washington, D. C.,—and presented to the congregation by him. It is an invaluable historical treasure and bespeaks almost a herculean task, while it shows a most commendable and scholarly devotion. From these "Records" a full history, as to minutest details could be written. It is ever awaiting the research student. Our present purpose is only a brief survey of its most important data, and so we cull from it these salient facts.

Doubtless due in part to the dispersion of the Rieth Church membership and the building of churches by these out-branchings elsewhere, and the constant increase of new settlers in every portion of this part of Berks County, the Lutheran dwellers of this eastern end of the original Tulpehocken settlement, concluded to form a congregation of their own, as the Reformed members of this Heidelberg district had already done three miles to the east and the Moravians had done four miles to the north. In its first membership we find names formerly adhering to the Rieth flock. The organization was effected in 1750 and the first building erected on land bought of John Artz, Michael Shower and Abraham Laucks, in 1751. It was a stone structure, and was situated where the corners of a number of farms met, on the northwestern corner of a country cross-roads on an elevation or ridge about a mile north of the present village of Robesonia. The name "Corner" seems to have originated because of its "cornered" location, while some of the old flocks in this period and later seem to have associated "saintly" honors with the life of their pastors and so in due time gave their congregations the Biblical, "sainted" names of their pastors (as St. Michaels of Tilden Township after Rev. Michael, Reformed pastor, and later St. Thomas of Bernville after pastor Rev. Thomas C. Leinbach) so this second name of St. Daniel's came into vogue only at the building and dedication of its second edifice, erected in 1814 when the Rev. Daniel Ulrich was its beloved pastor.

The land of the first congregation was held in trust by John Beyer and Frederick Weiser the nominal sum of five shillings having been paid for each small tract, when deeds were acknowledged before Justice Conrad Weiser, wherein a declaration of trust shows said land is to be for the benefit, use and behalf of the poor of said Dutch Lutheran congregation at Heidelberg aforesaid forever, and a place to erect a House of Religious worship for the use and service of said congregation and if occasion shall require, for a place to bury their dead. It would seem as if the more well-to-do landowners had provided burial plots for their dead on their own farms and contemplated interment thereon, as we know many did in that period. But this custom soon gave way to the common church-yard, or "Gottes-Acker" at the church, as a congregational burial place for all its members and now we find here three cemeteries are filled with the vast numbers that have since been carried hither for sepulture, embracing rich and poor, high and low of an extensive community. Most of them have dwelt "along the cool sequestered vale of life," from which "their sober wishes never learned to stray. " Others, braved the storms of battle-front, or walked in life's illustrious paths. Here are buried soldiers, probably of every national war, as we know is the case on other old cemeteries of this section. Among them was honored by the placing of a fitting marker upon his grave this past year (1923) by the Berks County chapter D. A. R. one of the lineal descendants of that celebrated German Lutheran preacher and hymn-writer of the seventeenth century, Rev. Paul Gerhardt, whose rich hymns have often been sung by generations of worshippers within the sanctuary walls close by. It is almost certain that here lies sepultured also the once noted Baron Henry W. Stiegel, who dying poor at the Charming Forge in most inclement and mid-wintry weather and hence buried here, but in an unmarked grave.

The congregation had a small beginning—only sixteen male members being reported in 1753— but has steadily grown so that now over 800 members of both sexes are enrolled and the dozen surnames of the original flock have multiplied to about 180. Among these names are the Bechtels, Benders, Brickers, Brossmans, Browns, Engels, Ernsts, Fidlers, Filberts, Fishers, Gerharts, Graters, Grubers, Hasslers, Himmelbergers, Hubers, Hoovers, Kochs, Leiningers, Lengels, Longs, Machamers, Madernesses, Millers, Mountzs, Moyers, Palms, Potts or Putts, Schaeffers, Smiths, Snyders, Strausses, Stumps, Wagners, Wolf and Wenrichs of this community. The cemeteries show entablatures of their worthy forebears, the moulders of life in the neighborhood for generations and the makers of local history.

Andrew and John Dietz are mentioned as masons of the first church walls, who did their work at 20 cents a perch. Frederick Kobel and Christian Betz did the carpenter work on it, including doors, pews, nails and glue for $105. These economies show the spirit of devotion as well as low wages for skilled labor in that day and shame the spirit of greed and graft so prevalent in our day.

The second building was erected also of stone between the years 1814-17. Remodellings and extensive renovations of this building were made in 1849, 1883, and again in 1911, when 14 feet were added to the last end, surmounted with tower and bell; also a pulpit recess of 8 feet to the west end, when the floor of the auditorium was raised and pitched, a new ceiling inserted, steam heat installed and the church newly furnished at an expense of over $13,000. In 1922 electric lights were installed and paid for by the Sunday School.

The Lutherans for 125 years were exclusively owners and worshippers here, but in 1876 "permission was given to a Reformed congregation in consideration of the sum of one dollar per annum to have a right to hold religious services in the building." Accordingly the first Reformed service was held here on Christmas of that year, and henceforth continued to worship here until February 19, 1905, when owing to a desire to have a church building of their own they moved out to build a more modern church edifice of their own and located in the town of Robesonia (St. Paul's Reformed). Rev. Thomas C. Leinbach was pastor.

St. Daniel's has been a part of the Lutheran Tulpehocken Charge for many years and served by its pastors (Christ Church), but in 1887 it became a part of the Womelsdorf Lutheran Parish and was since served by its pastor. In 1917 a portion of this flock, mostly those living in Robesonia, detached themselves from the mother church and founded Trinity of Robesonia. The pastors who have served mother and daughter congregations are as follows: Revs. Kurtz, Schultze, Beates, Ulrich, Iaeger, Miller, Finfrock, Kramlich, Pflueger, and H. S. Kidd, the present incumbent.

As one reflects on the simple, but steadily continuing ministrations here of the holy Gospel of our Lord and Saviour, Jesus Christ, by devoted and Godly ministers during all these past generations of dwellers in this neighborhood, we must give it the credit largely under God, of keeping this community honest and upright, moral and neighborly, cheerful and hopeful amid the struggles and vicissitudes of this earthly life—the biggest factor in moulding community life.

Belleman's (Salem's) Union Church—This old country church of western Berks is located in Center Township on the back road from Leesport to Bernville. It was founded as a congregation about 1746 and has always been a Union Church (Reformed and Lutheran). Its first log edifice, erected in 1746, stood in the northwest corner of the old cemetery. The name Belleman is generally supposed to have been given to it because it is believed the land for its use was given by an old settler of this name. An old German Bible is still extant, which on its fly-leaf states the fact that it was purchased by twenty members of the flock and presented for use of the congregation in 1767. This church has been the moulding center of moral influence in this entire community for the first generations. Nothing else so absorbed the interest of dwellers in this neighborhood as did the teachings, developments and varied influences of this vicinity, church and school. Its pastors and teachers were the builders of its life and the leaders of its thought. What came to youth in the school-room and the catechetical class supplemented by the faithful inculcation of home virtues, went into character and produced a stock of citizens that were noted for their thrift, stolidity and honest good-citizenship.

It is known that from the beginning of the establishment of the church, a local church or parochial school, was also established. But it is to be regretted that no records are on hand to tell us who the first teachers were. Some of the early pastors' names are even lost. The Reformed list of pastors, however, is known to include Revs. Stoy, Hendel, Sr., and Jr., Mayer, Herman, Leisse, Miese, Schwartz, Apple, Hoffman, Mishler and Herbein, the present incumbent; while of Lutheran pastors doubtless the early pastors of St. Michael's and Blue Mountain churches also served here, while in the last century Revs. Strein, Mueller, Iager, Zweizig, Gerberich and L. M. Miller, the present incumbent are given.

Whoever the earlier teachers may have been it is known that on August 27, 1820 Valentine Auge of Moselem was elected to fill this sphere. He received as per agreement 50 cents per scholar for tuition, $60.00 annually ($30.00 of it in cash and the other in produce at Reading market prices), sufficient feed for one cow to be brought well-cured; sufficient firewood for school and family use; the congregations to plow and seed the farm, haul the manure and keep the fences in good repair. The teacher offered to cultivate the land himself, if he were given one bushel of oats and one or more bundles of straw to keep a horse. To this all agreed. Mr. Auge obligated himself to perform his

HAMBURG

These congregations in the town of Hamburg, founded by Martin Karcher, were organized in the late 1780s or 1790. There is no evidence to support a founding date of 1773.

On May 26, 1786 Martin Karcher transferred to John Myer and Philip Shatz, trustees for the Lutheran and Reformed inhabitants of the town, one half-acre lot of ground for a church, schoolhouse, and graveyard. (HLD, 1777-1790, ERHS, Lancaster)

Four years later, on September 12, 1790, when the first church was dedicated, articles of agreement for regulating the church life of the Lutheran and Reformed congregations of Hamburg were ratified by Daniel Lehman and Henry Hertzel. (HLD, 1790-1809, ERHS, Lancaster)

The union church formed at this time lasted for more than a century, until 1898.

Lehman probably remained pastor of the Lutheran congregation until after 1800. Hertzel may have been pastor of the Reformed when he died in Hamburg in 1799.

St. John's church, Pine and Church streets, is the Lutheran congregation. First church, South Third and Pine streets, is the United Church of Christ congregation.

HEIDELBERG

This Lutheran congregation in Heidelberg township was organized about 1750 to serve the same general settlement which the Reformed Heidelberg, or Cacusi, about four miles away, had been serving since the 1730s.

An agreement entered into about 1753 by the elders, deacons, and members "of the Evangelical Lutheran Congregation in Heidelberg Township," and designed to provide rules for governing their congregational life, states that Nicholas Kurtz became their pastor late in 1750 and that they laid the cornerstone of their church in 1751.

In May 1751 John Arts, Abraham Lauck, and Michael Shower contributed a total of about two acres of land to the congregation. (Die Shilgrut fun der Tulpehock 6 (November 1975):24) In a letter to Europe in June 1754, Henry Melchior Muhlenberg wrote about the "well built new church" at Heidelberg. (HN 2:188)

Heidelberg was a union church from 1876 to 1905. The name St. Daniel's was given to it when the second church was built in 1814-1817. It has also been called the Eck church.

A ministerium congregation from the beginning, Heidelberg shared the long pastorates of Nicholas Kurtz and Emanuel Schultze in the Tulpehocken charge. Kurtz served from 1750 to 1770 and Schultze from 1771 to 1809.

This is St. Daniel's church, one mile north of Robesonia.

HEIDELBERG, CACUSI, HAIN'S

This Reformed congregation in Heidelberg (now Lower Heidelberg) township was begun in the later 1730s. About 1750 a Lutheran congregation was organized about four miles away to serve the same general settlement as this congregation served.

In January 1739 Philip Boehm wrote to the Holland fathers that he was told that "a educated. In 1837 they moved to Lawrence County, Ill., and in 1855 while on a visit to our subject the father died. The mother died in Lawrence County. John Potts lived in Wayne County till 1846, when he moved to De Kalb County, Ind., and bought forty acres of land which is a part of his present farm. To this he has added forty acres, and now has a valuable farm with a good residence and farm buildings. He has been an industrious and enterprising citizen, and has gained the confidence and esteem of the entire community. In 1864 he was elected Magistrate of his township and served twenty years. He is a Democrat in politics. He was married Feb. 6, 1834, to Elinor Metcalf, daughter of Josiah and Hannah Metcalf. To them were born two children—Almira L. died at the age of twenty years; and Hannah E. is the wife of Albert Buchanan. Mrs. Potts died Aug. 25, 1866, and Aug. 18, 1867, Mr. Potts married Maria Shaffer, a native of Westmoreland County, Pa. Mrs. Potts is a member of the Lutheran church.

George Putt, one of the most prosperous and prominent of the early settlers of De Kalb County, was born in Berks County, Pa., Nov. 19, 1814, the eldest son of Jacob and Catharine (Shaffer) Putt, natives of Pennsylvania, of English and German descent. He was reared in his native State, and when fifteen years of age began driving a freight team over the mountains, a vocation he followed fifteen years. About 1835 he settled in Lebanon County, Pa., and in 1841 moved to Stark County, Ohio, and eleven months later, in 1842, came to Indiana and entered forty acres of land, and bought forty more in De Kalb County. It was located in the dense timber, but he went to work and soon had enough cleared to build a log cabin and raise a crop. He has been successful and to his land has added forty acres till now he has 120 acres of choice land, all well improved. He was married Nov. 15, 1835, to Sarah Ann, daughter of Nicholas and Elizabeth (Polm) Getz, natives of Pennsylvania, of German descent. To them were born two children --Levi and Joanna Elizabeth Catharine, wife of John Anstett. Mrs. Putt died Sept. 9, 1884. She, as has also Mr. Putt, had been a member of the German Reform church from her youth. Politically, Mr. Putt is a Democrat.

David Reinoehl, deceased, one of the most esteemed pioneers of Fairfield Township, was born in Lebanon County, Pa., Feb. 22, 1809, the eldest of nine children of Michael and Catherine

Mr. Conrad has two brothers: John Conrad of Waterloo, Indiana; James R. Conrad of rural Auburn, Indiana and one sister, Mary Ann Ferebee of Orlando, Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. Conrad are the parents of three children: Joyce Marie Conrad of rural Ashley, Indiana, who works at Cooper Industrial in Auburn, Indiana; Jeffery Wayne Conrad of Auburn, Indiana, who was married 18 July 1981, to Elizabeth Ann Buttermore of Auburn. He teaches agricultural education in the Lakeland School System, LaGrange, Indiana, and his wife teaches art in the DeKalb Central School System. Joel Eugene Conrad of Valparaiso, Indiana, was married 21 September 1985, to Lynda Sue Frederick from Angola, Indiana. Joel teaches agricultural education in the Kouts, Indiana Township School System and his wife is a nurse.

Wayne and Eleanor Conrad graduated from Ashley High School and have farmed and produced certified seeds in Smithfield Township all during their married life.

JAMES CONRAD, born 17 September 1892, in DeKalb County, Indiana, son of John and Emma (Elloit) Conrad. His paternal grandparents were John and Tracy Conrad, who came to Indiana from Ohio. His maternal grandparents were Nathan and Jane (Ling) Elloit, who came to DeKalb County, Indiana from Coshocton County, Ohio, and followed a farming occupation.

Mary Dorothy Lockhart, born 22 August 1898, in Fairfield Township, DeKalb County, Indiana, daughter of Robert W. and Mary Catherine (Hartman) Lockhart. Her paternal grandparents were William C. and Mary E. (Hickox) Lockhart of DeKalb County, Indiana, whose ancestors came from Tyrone, Ireland and were weavers by trade. Her maternal grandparents were Joel E. and Sarah (Gushwa) Hartman whose parents were from Pennsylvania and Ohio. Joel E. Hartman came to DeKalb County in 1847, and died there in 1873.

James and Dorothy were married on 3 June 1917, at Quincy, Michigan. They engaged in threshing, shredding corn, and harvesting around the area where they lived north of Waterloo, as well as their own farming ventures. They were active in community affairs, Barkers Chapel Church and the Old Time Threshers Organization. Mrs. Conrad enjoys many handcrafts and antiques as well.

Mr. Conrad had one sister, Blen (Conrad) Vosberg, of DeKalb County, Indiana, who married Fred Vosberg of near Hillsdale, Michigan, and two brothers, one who died in infancy and Johnny, who died at age 22.

Mrs. Conrad had three brothers and two sisters: Carl Lockhart of Pleasant Lake, Indiana; Ralph Lockhart of rural Ashley, Indiana; Robert Lockhart of Defiance, Ohio; (all deceased) a sister Wilma Lockhart, died as a small child; and Edna (Lockhart) Quaintance of Auburn, Indiana, at this writing lives with her daughter at Sowles Bay, Lake James, Angola Indiana.

Mr. Conrad died in April, 1974 and Mrs. Conrad lives in the same neighborhood where they farmed for many years, north of Waterloo, in Smithfield Township.

GEORGE ANSTETT moved his family from Peru, Indiana, to Auburn about 1851, and it had been handed down in the family that from their front porch they could see every house in town. By 1854, they were living in Fairfield Township, and at that time became charter members of St. John's Reformed Church, just outside the north end of what is now known as Hudson. George Anstett came from a long line of tailors in France, a trade which he continued in America.

George's marriage document is in Ingviller, France, and states that he was born 31 October 1800, at Ingviller, the son of the late George Anstett and his wife, Elizabeth Weiss. The bride is Susanne Stauffer, born 27 June 1801, in Urbais/Urbeis, the daughter of the late Joseph Stauffer and his wife, Susanne Habertisch. The date of marriage was 3 October 1826. They arrived in America with their two young children, Charles and Sarah, about 1833, and they rest of their children were born in Pennsylvania. Old letters and obituaries give the residences as Reading and Lancaster.

Charles Anstett (1827-1884) married Saloma Sally Noll, and raised his family in Salem Township, Steuben County, Indiana. Sarah Anstett, born 1830, married Frederick Lewis Falka (1809-1870) and her father, George Anstett, deeded them 20 acres in Auburn in 1854. Of their several children, apparently only Philip born 1856, who married Lizzie Dull of Waterloo, and Charles Peter Falka, born 1869, and who married Ona Metcalf, kept their DeKalb County connection. Charles Peter Falka, better known as Peter Falka, was in big demand in Auburn for paint and varnish jobs. He and his wife had two children, Weir and Martha, but neither ever married. Martha had a popcorn stand on the downtown streets of Auburn for many years, and was still there until she moved the stand to West 9th Street.

George W. Anstett (1833-1877), married Mary Jane (1844-1913), daughter of Wm. H. and Ursula Jane (Haskins) Wilsey, and most of their several children settled in Steuben County.

Indiana.

John Anstett (1835-1908), married Joanna Elizabeth Catherine Putt (1844-1922). They were farmers in Smithfield Township in DeKalb County, and raised three children, John George, Sarah Ann and Charles Sherman Anstett.

Susan Anstett (1837-1919), married the widower Chauncey Ringler (1822-1887) in 1855 and they had twelve children, raising to adulthood John, Caroline, Adeline, Mary E., George, Chauncey, Susan and Nellie. They family lived in Fairfield township, DeKalb County.

Elizabeth Anstett, born 1838, married in DeKalb County, John Peter Parr (1826-1902) in 1857, and she died a year or two later, apparently without issue.

Caroline Anstett (1844-1876), married David Irish. After her death, Mr. Irish after marrying Mary Deats in Steuben County, Indiana, took his four little daughters to Becker County, Minnesota.

Harriet Anstett (1846-1940) married Levi Putt (1840-1914), son of George and Sarah Ann (Gettz) Putt, and lived on a farm in Fairfield Township, and had five children, with descendants still living in DeKalb County.

Ringler Farm

SPENCER RINGLER, (1880-1954), was the son of Israel (1849-1896) and Louisa (1859-1942) Ringler, daughter of Adam and Maria (Long) Deetz. Spencer's grandfather, Chauncey Ringler came to Fairfield Township in 1849 and by 1880 had acquired 160 acres and across the road in Salem Township, Steuben County, an additional 20 acres. Chauncey was the son of Henry and Martha (Keller) Ringler of Somerset County, Pennsylvania, and both Henry's father, Jacob, and grandfather, John Ringler, served in the Revolutionary War from York County Pennsylvania. John's father, Matthias Ringer (not then Ringler), appears on Bonfield (now Bad Rappenau) church records, as the son of Wolfgang Ringer, a citizen of Rappenau, and that he married on 27 June 1717, Maria Magdalena, daughter of Heinrich Nischicker, and widow of John Jacob Schneid (er), and they emigrated in 1717. On 20 November 1717/18, Matthias was warranted 500 acres of land on the west side of the Schuykill River. They were active members of the New Hanover Lutheran Church, Montgomery County, Pennsylvania, and are buried in the church yard. Matthias died 8 March 1749, age 56, and Magdalena on 6 April 1764, age 74.

Spencer's paternal grandparents, Chauncey (1822-1887) and Elizabeth (Almendinger) (1822-1854) Ringer were married 1845 in Holmes County, Ohio and were the parents of four children. In 1885, Chauncey married second Susanna Anstett (1832-1919), and they were the parents of twelve children. When Chauncey died, his son Israel took over the farm and raised their children -Spencer and Etta. Spencer married Dessa (1885-1968), daughter of George and Etta (Gonser) Clink, and they remodeled and made additions to the original Ringler house, making it one of the most modern homes in rural DeKalb County. They installed their own electric plant, hot water heating system, and a bathroom about 1915, luxuries only common to city folk. By hard work and good management, the land became more productive; the fence rows and back 40 acres bordering Story Lake were aggressively attacked with hoes to keep them thistle and burdock free. On the big barn was painted Never Idle Farm.

Spencer, better known as Spen, and his wife are buried in the Fairfield Cem[illegible] as were his parents before them. His Ringler grandparents are buried in the County Line Cemetery which is a couple miles east of the homestead. Spen and Dessie had no children, but always took a lively interest in Bertha and Floyd, the children of his sister Etta's marriage to Minor Perkins. Mr. Perkins helped establish a bank in Stroh, Indiana, and their descendants are active in the banking business to this day.

The compiler is a great granddaughter of Chauncey and Susanna (Anstett) Ringler, through their son, Chauncey Jr. (1871-1940) and his wife, Flora Parr (1878-1961), and then through their daughter Berniece Ringler who married Charles Rowe of Hudson, Indiana. The latter couple had four children, namely Wava, Charletta, Ruth and Larry. The compiler, Wava, married Richard A. White, and in the 1940's they lived on the Ringler homestead making her the last Ringler descendant to occupy the old family place.

WAVA J. ROWE, born 14 August 1923 in Hudson, Indiana to Charles E. and Berniece (Ringler) Rowe. Wava was married to Richard A.

3 October 1937. Lois Sellers was born on 16 December 1910 in Allen County, Indiana, the daughter of John D. Sellers and Lillie (Tracht) Sellers. Shortly thereafter, her parents moved to Defiance County, Ohio, where they lived until moving to Jackson Township, DeKalb County, in 1919.

Mr. Smith has farmed all of his life, purchasing additional land in Union township, all of which lies east of the city of Auburn. In 1972, Mr. and Mrs. Smith gave some land to the city of Auburn for a park. This land is located east of Auburn, where the water tower is located and is named Smith Acres Park.

Mr. Smith has been active in church and civic affairs. He is an Elder in the Auburn Presbyterian Church and sings in their choir. He has a baritone voice, which has made him active in music for 50 years, singing in 1945-46 with the WLS Barn Dance at Chicago's 8th Street Theatre, numerous concerts, weddings, minstrels, and local Messiah performances. Served as a Director on the DeKalb County Community Concert Organization.

His civic duties found him serving as a director of the DeKalb County Farm Bureau Cooperative for 20 years, first as director and ten years as president, retiring in 1969. He helped organize the County Soil Conservation Service, and served as its first Chairman in 1947. He served the ASCS government organization for 25 years, and was recently elected a county supervisor for three years. He served on County FHA Advisory Committee for two terms. He is a Charter Member of the National Cattlemen's Association and has served as Director of the Indiana Angus Association. Mr. Smith has been Beef Cattle Superintendent for the DeKalb County Free Fall Fair for many years. He was in 4-H as a teenager and won a trip to Washington, D.C. in 1930. His family represents three generations in 4-H.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith are the parents of three children: Paul D. Smith, born 3 February 1939, a farmer and officer of the Smith's farm corporation, who lives in Steuben County, Indiana. Paul married Carol L. Reinoehl, daughter of John and Marjorie (Hartman) Reinoehl, on 24 August 1968.

Thomas Lee Smith, born 12 May 1943, a farmer and officer of the Smith's farm corporation, lives in Union Township. Tom married Catherine Ann Walsh, daughter of Frank J. and Sally J. (Cheek) Walsh, on 6 July 1968.

Sue Ann Smith, born 3 June 1945, married Paul T. Walter, on 18 December 1971. They are both teachers and live in Hillsdale, Michigan. Mr. Walter's parents are Reverend Paul C. Walter and Emma (Haldeman) Walter.

Roy E. King Family

ROY ELMER KING, born 25 September 1913, one farm south of Ashley, son of Clarence Arthur, born 1 February 1882, DeKalb County, died 2 June 1956, south of Ashley, and Hester Nora (Reinoehl), born 11 September 1886 and died 13 October 1979. Hester and Clarence had two children: Irene Mae (King) Bailey and Roy Elmer.

Paternal grandparents were Jeremiah, born 15 March 1854, DeKalb County, died 26 July 1928, DeKalb County and Lydia A. (Mull) King, born 30 November 1860, Kosciusko County, Indiana, died 8 October 1935, DeKalb County. They were married 13 April 1880. Early in their marriage, they joined the Cedar Lake Church of Christ and remained members until their deaths. In 1881 Jeremiah bought acreage in Smithfield Township, south of Ashley, establishing the King homestead. The farm has remained in the family down through the generations, now owned by his great grandson, Darrell Roy King. Jeremiah and Lydia had a family of six children, only four lived through adulthood: Clarence A.; William G.; Riley V.; and Mayme S.

Paternal great grandparents were Isaac, born 23 March 1827, Columbiana County, Ohio, died 7 June 1905, DeKalb County and Nancy (Newcomer) King, born 18 July 1826, Columbiana County, Ohio, died 15 October 1905, DeKalb County. Isaac was a pioneer of the King family in DeKalb County. After he came to Indiana, he married Nancy, 18 October 1849. They settled in Franklin Township and raised a family of seven: Mary Ann; Jason; Jeremiah; George; Alonzo; Calvin; and Laura Catherine.

Maternal grandparents were Solomon and Martha (Eckhart) Reinoehl, of Fairfield Township.

Roy married Pauline Harriette Putt, 18 March 1934, daughter of Frank and Maude Bell (Brugh) Putt. Pauline, born 11 July 1913, Fairfield Township. Roy and Pauline are third generation members of the Cedar Lake Church of Christ. Roy owned and operated the original King homestead for over forty years before he retired in 1977. Pauline operated the King flower shop in their home for ten years, specializing in artificial flower arrangements.

They are the parents of four children: David Edger, born 25 November 1936, works with Standard Educational Corporation in Chicago, Illinois; Daniel Evan, born 8 July 1938. He married twice, first to Vera Jean Smith and they were the parents of three children: Brian Allen; Debra Kay; and Diana Elaine. His second wife was Sharon Kay Knott. He works for Dana Corporation in Auburn; Darrell Roy, born 30 April 1940. Operates the family farm. He married Pamela Jane Ward, they have three children: Scott Alan; Tami Lynn; and Randy Roy; Jennie Kay, born 7 July 1945. She married Larry John Phillips, lives in Fort Wayne. They are the parents of two children: Michael John; and Michelle Yvonne.

HANS ADAM SHILLLING, was the first Shilling immigrant to come to this country among one hundred and fifty others. He came from the region of the Rhine in Germany, 11 October 1733, and located in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania. As those immigrants including Hans Adam Shilling had to take a stiff oath of allegiance to England upon entering Pennsylvania, this made it very difficult to enter the rebellion of the colonies. In spite of this fact, John Shilling, son of Hans Adam Shilling, was among the first to enter this rebellion. He was registered in the Continental Army, the original army of the colonies and George Washington's own army.

Hans Adam Shilling, born 1732, died 1796, making him sixty-four years old when he died. His name appears in heads of family at that time. It is found in the records of Cumberland County that two of his sons, John and Jacob, and their wives, Barbara and Katheleen, sold a farm of one hundred and fourteen and three quarters acres for seven hundred pounds in 1794, which they had purchased in 1772. They were Hopewell Township farmers.

Adam Shilling, son of John Shilling, born in Franklin County, Pennsylvania, 11 February 1792, and came to where Spencerville, Indiana is at this time and died, 17 October 1881, at 89 years of age. This Adam Shilling was the father of Solomon Shilling and grandfather of the deceased Adam and wife Malinda Shilling. This Adam was the father of the present day Howard and wife Ethel Shilling of St. Joe, Indiana. They are the parents of two sons: Richard; and James, who each had two sons, Edward and Donald of Spencerville, and Jerry and Mike of South Whitely, Indiana.

Adam, the great-grandfather of Howard, was a farmer and also preached the gospel. He had a scholarship to Heidelberg College, Tiffin, Ohio, in 1853 which he purchased for fifty dollars. It was a three year scholarship. When he came to what is DeKalb County, Indiana, he brought a draft for $5,000 for which he bought land for his eight children, four boys and four girls, giving each boy 160 acres and each girl 80 acres. These ancestors raised cattle, also bought and sold them. To market them, they drove them down the road, just a little different than they do today.

The one hundred and sixty acres that he gave his son, Solomon, is now the present 160 acres that Howard and wife, Ethel now live on and is located in section 19 in Spencer Township. It is now being farmed by their son, James. This house is listed as, "A Hoosier Homestead Farm of Indiana Historical Bureau, owned by same family for 150 years. Seal of the state of Indiana 1816."

Solomon then built a log house on the north eighty of this section of land. On this same strip of land is located what the state forrester says is the state's third largest three in Indiana. It is a white oak and supposed to be five hundred years old. It is twenty feet around, two feet above the ground.

JOSEPH E. SHILLING, born 18 June 1818 in Tuscarawas Township, Stark County, Ohio, where on 16 April 1840 he married Anna Catharine Hornberger, born 5 May 1821. About three months after their wedding, the couple moved to DeKalb County, Indiana, the deed for their land dated 8 August 1840, recorded in the Auburn Court House.

Joseph's roots in the United States run deep. They date from 1732, with the arrival of his great-grandfather, Hans Adam Shilling, at the Port of Philadelphia.

Joseph's grandfather was John Shilling, born September 1753 in Cocalico Township, Lancaster County, Pennsylvania, died September 1804 in Letterkenney Township, Franklin County, Pennsylvania, served as a Private in the War of Independence from 1777 to August 1783. John Shilling married Barbara Oberlin, whose father, Adam Oberlin, also served in the Continental Army, he was a Sergeant in Captain Gear's Company of the 9th battalion of Pennsylvania. To the marriage of John and Barbara were born seven children: Catherine, Adam, John, Margaret, Samuel, Jacob and Peter...all of whom, by 1825, re-settled in Stark County, Ohio.

Adam Shilling, eldest son of John was born 11 February 1792 in Cocalico Township, Lancaster County, Pennsylvania; he married Mary Roan of Cumberland County, Pennsylvania, she was born to Mound City, Illinois. He had the body disinterred and brought home for burial, 1 March 1863, at Cedar Lake Cemetery, DeKalb County, Indiana. A detailed record of this is in David's military records from the National Archives, Washington, D.C.

Rachel, left a widow with two small children, married Frederick Harmes/Harms, 20 December 1864. He had four children by his first marriage: Joel, Alice, Angeline, and Henry.

A daughter was born to Rachel and Frederick Harmes, Eva.

Mary Laticia died in September, 1867, and Rachel recorded the date on tablet paper.

According to the military papers, John Shatto, grandfather of Emma, was appointed her guardian. Later Joel Thompson, her uncle was appointed. He cared for the $500 given by the government for the loss of her father in the Civil War. When Emma married William Brugh and moved to Oviatt, Michigan, in the fall of 1882, this paid for their first home.

They had three children: Nellie, Maude Bell, and Glen when the family moved to Oviatt, Michigan. They had four more children after they made their home in Oviatt: Ivy, Ray, Hazel, and Daisy.

FRANK PUTT, son of Levi Putt and Harriett (Anstett) Putt, born 24 August 1869, in DeKalb County, Indiana.

On 28 September 1904, he married Maude Belle Brugh, daughter of William and Emma Lavina (McBride) Brugh, born 22 September 1882.

They lived on a farm in Fairfield Township, DeKalb County, Indiana, and raised a family of five children: Dwight, born 19 March 1908, married Rachel Minerva Dale, 31 December 1931; Naomi Brugh Putt, born 18 December 1910, married Raymond Rensch, 2 September 1932; Pauline Harriett, born 11 July 1913, married Roy Elmer King, 18 March 1934; Lurah Jeanette, born 17 December 1916, married Doyle Thornton DeVoe, 1 December 1938; and Allen Oscar, born 11 February 1919, DeKalb County, Indiana, married Evelyn Foster, born 19 November 1919, in March, 1943, military, World War II, mine sweeper.

RAYMOND RENSCH, born in Butler, Indiana, 5 September 1908, son of Harley and Elva (Everetts) Rensch. His paternal grandparents were William and Phoebe (Aldrich) Rensch. His maternal grandparents were Joseph Walker and Eunice (Slentz) Everetts.

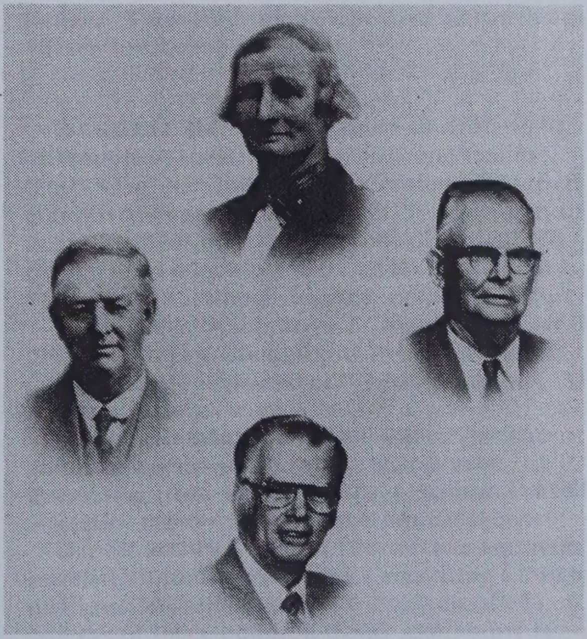
Naomi Brugh (Putt) Rensch, born 18 December 1910, daughter of Frank and Maude Bell (Brugh) Putt, in Fairfield Township, southwest of Hudson, Indiana. Her paternal grandparents were Levi and Harriett (Anstett) Putt. Her maternal grandparents were William and Emma Lavina (McBride) Brugh.

Raymond and Naomi were married 2 September 1932. At this time they lived in Hudson and the surrounding area. They later bought a little farm near Fairfield Center. Raymond attended Tri-State Normal College and Manchester College. He first taught school at Tamarack School, in Troy Township, in 1928-1929.

Raymond and Naomi had two children: Carolyn E., born 4 November 1933, and Lyle Harley, born 18 December 1934, died 19 December 1934.

Carolyn married Florian Cripe, of Wenatchee, Washington, 5 June 1955. They met while attending Manchester College. They have four children: Frederick of Northbrook, Illinois; Lisa, of Sturgis, Michigan; Daniel, a graduate student at Purdue University; and Katrina, who plans to attend Purdue University, this fall 1986. The Florian Cripe family live near Angola, Indiana.

In February, 1948, Raymond and Naomi purchased a farm in Wilmington Township and still reside there. They are members of the Community Bible Church in Butler.



Four Generations of Hamman

MAX W. HAMMAN, a life-long resident of Smithfield Township, is the fourth generation to Charles, born 3 December 1919, Robert, born 1921, Allen and Karl Kenneth. In 1929, the family moved to the farm on County Road 56. Joseph Lake Kearns died here in 1966, aged eighty eight years, his wife, died in 1964, aged seventy three.

Robert Kearns, married Mabel Phillips of Maine. They had no children: Karl, married Phyllis Ostrander of Hicksville. They have one son, Karl Kenneth and two daughters, all married.

Joseph was a member of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Garrett Division 253. In sixty years, he hired out to the Baltimore and Ohio, in 1895. He became an apprentice in the boiler shop and in 1899, became a fireman. In 1905, he was promoted to engineer and held that position for forty-four years, he was on the Capitol Ltd.

RICHARD WALTER SMITH, born 13 May 1928 in Corunna, Indiana, son of Orley Ormond and Helen M. (Laisure) Smith. His paternal grandparents are Reuben R. and Annie Irene (Sherman) Smith of Auburn, Indiana. His maternal grandparents are Arley D. and Daisy May (Runyon) Laisure of Corunna, Indiana.

Betty Jane Kimmell, born 15 June 1931, in Brimfield, Indiana, daughter of Paul W. and Veda Pauline (Grunden) Kimmell. Her paternal grandparents are John Kimmell and Emma Comfort Ward of Brimfield. Her maternal grandparents are Andrew Jackson and Inez Grace (Forker) Grunden of Wolcottville, Indiana.

Richard and Betty married 19 June 1949 at the home of Orley O. Smith, Sr. They first met at the Strand Theatre in Kendallville. Richard attended Fairfield Center and graduated from Ashley High School. Betty attended Brimfield and graduated from Rome City High School.

Richard and his father farmed the Smith farm for several years. He also worked in 1952, on the construction crew that built the Indiana Toll Road. At that time, his starting wage was $2.90 per hour, on eleven hour shifts. In 1952, he purchased his first new dozer. It was a Terra Track made in Churubusco, Indiana. Purchase price was $5000.00. In 1962, Orley O. and Richard opened in partnership the Northway Tavern in Corunna, Indiana. In 1965, Richard went to work full time for Hipskind Asphalt in Fort Wayne, Indiana. First as a heavy equipment operator, later as a crew foreman until 1975, when he formed Noble Construction. From 1975-78, he opened and operated the Noble County Landfill. This was the first landfill of its kind in the area. After the death of Richard's mother in 1977, he and Betty resumed operating the Northway Tavern in Corunna. He presently farms and operates his sawmill.

Betty worked at the Auburn Rubber Company from 1956 until its closing in 1961. She then found employment from 1964-1974 with the Essex Wire Company in Ligonier, Indiana. She is presently employed with the Kendallville Nursing Home, Kendallville, Indiana.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith are members of the Brimfield Methodist Church.

Mr. Smith has one brother: Orley D. Smith, Jr., Corunna, Indiana. Mrs. Smith has three brothers and seven sisters.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith are the parents of six children: Susan Ann (Smith) Crager, born 5 July 1951 of Corunna, Indiana; Janice K. (Smith) Ramer, born 9 August 1952, and children, Stephanie and Jamie of Kendallville, Indiana, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Richard Smith and children; Michelle; Lisa and Ty of Avilla, Indiana. Michael, born 15 September 1953; Jeffrey Lynn Smith, born 2 September 1955, of Kendallville, Indiana; Deborah Joan (Smith) Houser, born 2 February 1957, and seven children; James and Heather Curtis of Kendallville, Indiana; and Janet Lee Smith, deceased, 1950.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith lived on the Smith family farm, near Corunna, from 1949 until 1965 when they moved to their present farm at Kendallville, Indiana. They continue to operate the Northway Tavern in Corunna.

DARRELL ROY KING, born 30 April 1940, in Waterloo, Indiana, son of Roy and Pauline (Putt) King, of rural Waterloo, Indiana. Paternal grandparents were Clarence and Hester King, of Route 2 Waterloo, Indiana, both deceased. His maternal grandparents were Frank and Maude Putt, Route 1, Ashely, Indiana, both deceased.

Pamela Jane Ward, born 27 August 1943, at St. Johns, Michigan, daughter of Rolland R. and Pauline (Kilts) Ward. Pamela's step father is Raymond Ladig.

Darrell attended schools in Ashley, Indiana and Pam attended schools in Fort Wayne, graduating from South Side High School. Darrell is a dairy farmer and Pam is a homemaker.

Darrell and Pam met in Fort Wayne and were married 10 June 1967 at the Cedar Lake Church of Christ, Waterloo, Indiana. They are the parents of three children: Scott Alan, born 16 July 1964, married Valerie Fuleki, 14 September 1985; Tami Lynn, born 2 January 1969; and Randy Roy, born 6 February 1975.

Mr. and Mrs. Darrell King reside in rural Waterloo, Indiana and are members of the Cedar Lake Church of Christ. Their hobbies include fishing, cows, bowling and cards.

Obituary

Levi Putt.

Levi Putt was born in Lebanon county, Pennsylvania, June 24, 1840, and departed this life at his home in DeKalb county, Indiana, August 18, 1914, aged 74 years, 1 month and 27 days.

For nearly five years the deceased has been afflicted with paralysis. During all these years of suffering, he bore his affliction patiently, not complaining of the whys and wherefores of human suffering.

When but a year old his father moved from Lebanon county, Pennsylvania, to Stark county, Ohio, which place he left one year later for DeKalb county, Indiana, where he purchased a farm and where the deceased spent his early life helping his father clear away the wilderness to which they had moved, for all this part of the country was then a vast wilderness in which could be seen an abundance of wild game and occasionally a squad of Indians.

Their trading point was Ft. Wayne, where they went to market their grain and other produce, taking their grain on horse back or in big wagons, being gone from three to five days on a trip. In the midst of such influences as these, Young Putt grew to sturdy manhood. He worked hard and was saving, which enabled him to purchase the farm joining his father's, on which he spent the remainder of his life.

On March 17, 1867, Mr. Putt was united in marriage to Miss Harriette Anstett, who survive him. To this union five children were born. Frank, who lives on the old home farm; Sarah A., wife of Oscar N. Doty, of Hudson; Josephine, who preceeded her father to the unknown beyond; George W., who reside at Hillsdale, Michigan, and Susie, who is at home. He leaves to mourn his loss the above mentioned and one sister, Mrs. Joana Anstett.

For many years the deceased was a consistent member of the St. John's Reform church of Hudson, Indiana. While the church and community looses a member and friend, we all trust that he has gained his reward in the palace of the King.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. C. H. Hickman from St. John's Reformed church, August 20, 1914. Interment in Circle cemetery.

CARD OF THANKS.

The bereaved family of Levi Putt take this means of thanking all those who so kindly assisted and sympathized with them in the sickness and death of the husband and father, also the singers and Rev. C. H. Hickman.

PUTT

HUDSON, March 28 — Frank Putt, 87, a native of DeKalb County, and a lifelong resident of the Ashley-Hudson area, died about 5:30 p.m. yesterday in the Souder Hospital, Auburn, where he had been taken six hours earlier. He had been seriously ill two weeks. Mr. Putt was a retired farmer and a member of St. John's Evangelical and Reformed Church here. Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. Raymond Rensch of R. R. 2, Butler, with whom he had been residing recently; Mrs. Roy King, R. R. 2, Waterloo, and Mrs. Doyle Devoe, R. R. 1, Kendallville; two sons, Dwight Putt, Lebanon, Ill., and Allen Putt, R. R. 2, Kendallville; 15 grandchildren, two great-grandchildren and a brother, George Putt, Hillsdale, Mich. The body is here at the Kistler Funeral Home, where friends may call after 10 a.m. Friday. Services will be conducted at 2 p.m. Saturday in the funeral home with the Rev. John E. Jones, retired Presbyterian Church minister, officiating. Burial will be in Fairfield Center Cemetery.

Obituary

Levi Putt.

Levi Putt was born in Lebanon county, Pennsylvania, June 24, 1840, and departed this life at his home in DeKalb county, Indiana, August 18, 1914, aged 74 years, 1 month and 27 days.

For nearly five years the deceased has been afflicted with paralysis. During all these years of suffering, he bore his affliction patiently, not complaining of the whys and wherefores of human suffering.

When but a year old his father moved from Lebanon county, Pennsylvania, to Stark county, Ohio, which place he left one year later for DeKalb county, Indiana, where he purchased a farm and where the deceased spent his early life helping his father clear away the wilderness to which they had moved, for all this part of the country was then a vast wilderness in which could be seen an abundance of wild game and occasionally a squad of Indians.

Their trading point was Ft. Wayne, where they went to market their grain and other produce, taking their grain on horse back or in big wagons, being gone from three to five days on a trip. In the midst of such influences as these, Young Putt grew to sturdy manhood. He worked hard and was saving, which enabled him to purchase the farm joining his father's, on which he spent the remainder of his life.

On March 17, 1867, Mr. Putt was united in marriage to Miss Harriette Anstett, who survive him. To this union five children were born. Frank, who lives on the old home farm; Sarah A., wife of Oscar N. Doty, of Hudson; Josephine, who preceeded her father to the unknown beyond; George W., who reside at Hillsdale, Michigan, and Susie, who is at home. He leaves to mourn his loss the above mentioned and one sister, Mrs. Joana Anstett.

consistent member of the St. John's Reform church of Hudson, Indiana. While the church and community looses a member and friend, we all trust that he has gained his reward in the palace of the King.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. C. H. Hickman from St. John's Reformed church, August 20, 1914. Interment in Circle cemetery.

CARD OF THANKS.

The bereaved family of Levi Putt take this means of thanking all those who so kindly assisted and sympathized with them in the sickness and death of the husband and father, also the singers and Rev. C. H. Hickman.

DAVID E. KING

November 25, 1936 – August 26, 1998

David was born in his parent's farm home, the original homestead of his great-grandfather, Jerry King.

He attended the first twelve years of school at Ashley, Indiana. He graduated in 1954 with a class of twenty-eight students. He worked for Sunrise Dairy in Angola during the summer between high school and college where he delivered milk to the lake residents.

He entered Ball State Teachers College, Muncie, Indiana, in the fall of 1954 where he majored in English and minored in Library Science. After leaving for college, he never again lived at home. He worked during the summer breaks….one summer he worked at Gratist Inn, Port Huron, Michigan. He completed his studies at Ball State in the spring of 1958.

1958–1960: His first place of employment after college was with the Sachem Central School System, Lake Ronkonkoma, New York. While employed with this newly consolidated school system, he created three elementary school libraries. The following excerpts are from the first letter written home to Grandma King: "Pat (a friend*) and I made it from Indiana to New York in 17 hours which is very good time. Mom sent along sandwiches and lemonade plus your good cookies and that was enough so that we didn't even spend a nickel for a cup of coffee. Pretty cheap trip, wouldn't you say? I got a room in a large house which is owned by a widow. We have an arrangement where I have complete run of the house, but still have my own room. I can sit and watch TV whenever I want or be in the yard or sit out in her sun porch. It is a very big and very beautiful house. Since there are only the two of us, we have made up a kitty to buy food. She has breakfast ready for me when I get up in the morning and supper is ready when I get home from school. I eat dinner at the cafeteria in the school. I've only been to school four days so far. My library is near the center of the building and is a spacious room with lots of windows. All that's there now is 33 cardboard boxes of books that have accumulated in the school during 8 years and a few ugly shelves. I've started sorting the books and this weekend I'm working on ordering supplies. I've just been floundering around. I don't even know how much money I'll have to work with. I've heard that they're all under the impression that I know just what to do to set up a library and they just expect me to go ahead and do it, so I am going ahead and doing what I think is right and hope I don't mess up the works. As long as I look like I know what I'm doing, maybe they'll all think that I do."*

1959-1960: He took graduate courses at Hofstra University, Hempstead, New York.

1960: David was a member of the U. S. Army Dependent Education Group. He operated a library program and taught English to the children of servicemen based at Nellingen, Germany near Stuttgart. While in Germany, he took the opportunity to travel and explore during school breaks and holidays. The following excerpt is from a letter written home in April 1961: "Just returned about an hour ago from the trip and think I'd better write about the vacation now before I forget some of it. Ten days – just traveling – I even forgot what month it was. We had a very good time and all relaxed and just took it easy all the way. I traveled with two other teachers, Joan and Susie. They were real good to travel with. I couldn't have asked for better travelling companions – lots of laughs and very compatible. We left after school Thursday and drove to Innsbruck in Austria, stayed at the Touring Hotel, got there at 10:30 – about 6 hour drive. Our guide for the trip was a book called Europe on $5 a Day – listed cheap, but good, hotels and restaurants. We almost made it, too, except for nights we wanted to eat in a nice restaurant and/or shop. We spent about $100 each, I think, but lived well – ate like pigs. From Innsbruck, we drove to Verona, Italy, over the Brenner Pass in the Alps. That was a beautiful drive – trees are budding out now and views where we could see for miles and miles and warm sun – made me want to stop and hunt for mushrooms. In Verona we bought our Italian Army gas coupons (40 gallons for $4.00 – 15 cents a gallon) and found a quaint little hotel down a back street. They spoke only Italian there, so we had an interesting time trying to get a room, finding out how much, asking for a bath (sign language), etc. We saw Italy for the first time that day and our impression is that it's a very old and crumbly country – the buildings are old with faded paint and stucco breaking off – the mountains were sort of breaking up and the trees starting to leaf out gave a delicate fern-like effect to the whole scene. We also had our first Italian meal that noon – spaghetti. And is it ever good! We had pork chops (I think) after and fruit for dessert. We found the market square, large booths selling all kinds of food, clothing, small household goods, birds, flowers, jewelry, leather goods, etc. and sat in a café watching them close up for the night. We had dinner at a very nice place called The 12 Apostles. We kept ordering more and more food and never did get full, and spent $3 on it. Next morning we saw the sights – the tomb of Romeo and of Juliet, the old Roman Coliseum where they were filming a movie and some famous statues, then left Verona for Venice – only a short drive. Venice is on the Adriatic Sea and it's the town with canals for streets and gondolas rowing people from place to place. We didn't quite realize that at first, and tried to drive into the heart of town, but soon discovered we had to park the car and take a boat. There are large streetcar type boats going up and down the Grand Canal, which we always rode. Gondolas cost $3 an hour. Can't swing that on $5 a day! Our longest trip cost about 8 cents. But in lira, that's a lot, too. We got 625 lira for $1. Our restaurant bills were 1000-2000 lira. Sounds like a lot, but really isn't. We visited a glass factory where Venetian glass is made. Very interesting and beautiful glass, but very expensive, too. That night eating in our good, but very ordinary restaurant, I discovered my favorite Italian food – liver Venezia. I don't know what they do to it, but it sure is good. Onions and wine sauce, I think. Next morning was Easter. We got up early and went to mass at St. Mark's Cathedral on a beautiful square overlooking the water. We toured the city on foot after that, seeing St. Mark's Square, the Bridge of Sighs and the Rialto Bridge – and lots of old palaces from the days when Venice was the shipping capital of the world. Altogether, Venice is a very interesting, but crowded and touristy city. We left shortly before noon Sunday – really ready to go. We headed next for Florence travelling through Bologna. We got in about 8:00 and started looking for a hotel. We must have walked 1 ½ hours from hotel to hotel and finally one guy said the town was full since Monday was an Italian holiday and we should try the next town, Prado. So we did – same story there, try Prestoria. So we did, and at Prestoria they sent us on to Montacatini. By this time Joan was sick and we were all beginning to wonder about sleeping in the car. I knew then how Joseph felt when he was in Bethlehem with Mary, but in Montacatini we found 'room in the inn'. It was an old Italian villa converted into a pension – ceilings 12 feet high, old, solid furniture, private gardens and excellent food. Again, nobody spoke English or German, and the woman thought I wanted to know the way to Florence. It took about 15 minutes to get that straightened out. That bed sure felt good! We slept late next morning and decided that we'd go to Pisa instead of going back to Florence since we were half way there already. There's nothing in Pisa except the Leaning Tower. We saw that, climbed it, photographed it, then went on toward Rome. We got as far as Orbatello and stopped there for the night. The hotel manager spoke excellent English, so we got our important Italian phrases from him for the rest of the trip. By this time, almost no one spoke English or German. We had dinner (more spaghetti) then sat in the only café in town and watched people, then walked around the city walls and went to bed. Next day we made Rome. We arrived with no trouble at all – right near Vatican City, USO, and the hotel we wanted. The hotel there tried to clip us, so we picked up our bags and walked around the corner to the Hotel Alicorni, a very clean, but sloppy place. We drove to see the Colosseum and the Fountain of Trivi where Three Coins in a Fountain was filmed. That night we had an enormous dinner – our first pizza, spaghetti, veal, cheese, fruit, cake and coffee. We ate for three hours and really enjoyed it. But the way the Italians eat their spaghetti really amazed us. We roll it on our forks into a neat little wad against a tablespoon – it's not too messy – but the Italians take their fork to get it started and then just suck. They tuck their napkin in their collars and sauce is splashing all over. They seem to really enjoy it though. Wednesday we started our USO tours. We signed up to visit St. Peter's Cathedral for an audience with Pope John. We were part of a group of 1200 Americans and we marched into this huge cathedral and were jammed into the American stall, while other nationalities had their stalls. We waited and waited. Finally his Swiss Guard came in and a little later the Pope came. He was carried on a throne from the back and passed by all the people making the sign of the cross over them. People were clapping and crying and hollering and singing. It was like a mad house. After they sat him down, he gave a speech, and we had to stand while it was translated in 7 languages and the names of all the groups present read. He blessed us all, and our families and any religious articles we had with us. So consider yourselves blessed by the Pope! They carried him out then, and 11,000 people started for the back door at the same time. It was the worst mob I've ever been in. We were packed tight – couldn't move – except where we were pushed. It took us 4 hours of waiting to see the Pope, 1 more hour and then that mob. It was very impressive, though, and I'm glad I went. We had a quick spaghetti lunch, then went for our bus tour of Rome. I sure hate tours, but in a city as big as Rome it's the only way to see the important sights. For another 3 hours, we rode around, got in and out, and saw Rome. There were some very interesting things, such as the catacombs where the early Christians met, Saint Paul's Cathedral where he was beheaded, and many other churches and basilicas. Lots of old Roman ruins, too. Saw the Appian Way, Tiber River and other things I remember from Latin. Most of the points of interest were connected with religion – this is where a lot of it started. Both Paul and Peter came to Rome to preach, then there's the letter to the Romans, one of the New Testament books. That night we stuffed ourselves again and drove downtown, but saw the Colosseum all lit up. So we stopped and walked through it again. This time it was much more impressive. There were very few people and we could see the pits where the lions and Christians were kept and in the half-light imagine how it must have looked in its day. It's huge. And to think it was built 80 A.D. Next morning we took in the sights our tour had missed. At 9:00 we were the first people to visit the ruins of the Roman Forum, and the Palatine Hill. We had the place to ourselves. It was wonderful. We saw ruins of the Roman Senate Building (where Julius Caesar was stabbed), the Sacred Way, Temple of the Vestal Virgins, Temple of Apollo, etc. Then we walked up the Palatine Hill to the home of the Caesars. We left after an hour there, just as people were flocking in. From there we went back to the Vatican Museum to see Michelangelo's famous paintings in the Sistine Chapel. It was so packed with people we walked around about 5 minutes, looking, then left. Trying to get out of Rome was the next problem. It was 2 hours before we finally found the road to Florence. We got there about 8:00 and found a hotel this time. After we cleaned up, we ate another enormous meal, and after that went to another restaurant and had a pizza. We skipped all the museums and art galleries in Florence. The only thing I wanted to see was Michelangelo's David and it was right out in a square. No trouble at all. In Florence, the thing to do is shop. They have wonderful buys there. By this time we were pretty tired of seeing things, so we just headed slowly for home. Next night we were in Como on the Swiss border. We stayed in sort of a ratty hotel there, but it was cheap. Next day we drove to Zurich through the Gottherd Pass in the Alps. The pass is closed so we put the car on a train that carried us about 20 miles through a pitch-black tunnel to the other side. Switzerland is a real jewel of a country. Everything is so neat and tidy there. A prosperous country, too – the only place where living conditions approach those of America. Zurich, too, is a very lovely city, set alongside a lake, surrounded by mountains, very modern and yet quaint. We stayed in a decent hotel on a loud street but it was recommended by the book. It was good to be back where they spoke German. Today we crossed into Germany and after lunch in Tubingen, got home to Nellingen. I'm not ready to start work again – I could just keep going."

In March of 1961, David wrote home from Germany, "This Peace Corps that the Democrats are starting seems to me to be a fine thing. It's surprising how many Germans don't know Americans. If America would get some of her ambitious young people into these undeveloped areas of the world to teach them agriculture or modern medicine or food preservation, we'd be doing a lot more good than spending our millions on dams, bridges, roads, etc. when the people don't even know what they're to be used for. If we go into these backward places and help these people with our know-how, to use what they have available, we'll be doing a lot more good for them and creating a better impression for democracy than our millions ever could. It seems like a very good project to support."

1961-1963: David volunteered for the Peace Corps and was part of the first group sent to the Philippines. He underwent seven weeks of training at Penn State University at University Park, PA, in preparing to serve as a teachers aide. During his two years in the Philippines, he lived in a house without electricity or refrigeration. He slept on bamboo slats covered with a straw mattress and ate chiefly rice, fish, guli (a Filipino vegetable) and beer. He lived through typhoons, and droughts. He attended villager's baptisms, weddings, funerals, fiestas and church services. He went with a group of local young men who serenaded a young lady, standing under her window and singing songs about love with a guitar accompaniment. She answered by singing a song to them, then the parents invited them inside where they ate peanuts and drank Coca-Cola. Each of the men (including David) had to sing a solo in honor of the girl's beauty. He taught the English vocabulary, a new system of phonetics, and introduced the use of tapes and visual aids to the teachers. From his first letter written home: "It seems as if I have come to the Garden of Eden – I've never seen such a beautiful place as the Philippines. It would be hard for you to imagine how different the scenery is from the U.S. Here we have palm trees, banana trees, mango trees, huge ferns, bamboo and thousands of plants like Mom has in the parlor. There are many colorful flowers too – the only one I recognize is the canna lily. We do have a few problems like rats and insects as big as mice. Some of the food tastes strange to me, but I'll get used to it." An article appearing in The Rinconada Standard (the Nabu High School newspaper) in March, 1962 stated*: "Very active and full of ideas, Dave has been busy since he came to our school. He has given many lectures, spoken during assemblies on various topics, cleared many doubts in different things, gave lessons on journals and wrote and directed the colorful pageant presented during the coronation of Miss N. H. S. Twice a week he meets all of the faculty members and gives lectures on the teaching of English as a secondary language, and discusses with them ways and means of up-grading school instruction. An item of interest is Dave's search for help for the rural areas. For instance, he knows of a rice land that gets only 30 tupas per hecatre while the national average is 70.* David wrote, "I have to learn this summer about insect and disease control in rice plants, proper fertilization and how to set up an irrigation system. The land is on a river and I'm convinced there must be a simple pump available which could water the land enough so that it could raise two crops a year. I think they can increase their production enough to pay for spray, fertilizer and the pump. I've also heard about a way to make fishponds from rice paddies that pays off very well. I must look into that. We have so many fishermen that they've almost fished the lake out. Another possibility is goat milk cheese – there is a big market for any kind of cheese, and we have all these goats running around that are never milked. It is important that we are teaching English and science, but I think we also need to introduce ideas where people can put their knowledge to work." From another letter written in March, 1963*: "Well, Grandma, I haven't given you any great-grandchildren yet, but I have a little boy here in Nabua that is your great-grand-godson. I've been to three ceremonies for him as his godfather. You'd laugh to see him. He's real brown with a smashed in face – almost no nose, big fat cheeks and black snappy eyes. His name is Danily, but we call him Danny. Sunday I was holding him and he wet all over my lap. The old grandmother is superstitious and said that was a good sign – that I would really be the boy's benefactor. I'm the first godparent he has wet on. I'm not too sure that it's a great honor, but it all comes out in the wash. Danny's family knows all my family by name because our families are now connected. I'm like the brother of the mother and father of the baby. It's their system here. I've been thinking a lot about what to do after I finish here in the Peace Corps. It's hard to decide anything because there are so many opportunities available. Some days I think I want to go straight home, and other days I want to keep on travelling around – there are so many places I haven't been yet. I've never had so many friends an all my life. It seems that any time I meet a new person, I have a new friend."* In an interview with the Chicago Sun-Times in 1971, eight years after leaving the Peace Corps, David said, "It is so hard to verbalize what the Peace Corps experience means. It is as if I am walking around with a precious, valuable secret that I can't share. Only other people in the corps know what I mean. People always want to hear about my primitive life, conquest of native girls and frightening stories. I did sometimes feel I was accomplishing the seven tasks of Hercules. But the most intense part of the experience was what happened to me personally. I learned what it was to be a foreigner, an outsider, an object of curiosity." David was very good at writing long, descriptive letters about his Peace Corps adventures. The letters were all saved with the idea that he may, one day, put them in order and publish them. He never pursued that idea and decided to offer them to the Kennedy Library instead. Shortly after his death, the letters were donated and are now in the Library's possession.

1963-1965: David was employed with American Book Company based in New York City. He promoted the company's textbooks to faculty and selection committees at colleges and universities in four midwestern states. He spent summers in Europe reviewing the upcoming season's books and traveling.

1965-1969: David was employed as Librarian with R. R. Donnelley & Sons Company, Chicago. He managed the Technical, Fine Arts and Memorial Libraries along with teaching evening classes to employees on speaking and writing correct English.

1969-1996: David worked as Research Librarian and Senior Editor of the Editorial Library of Standard Educational Corporation, Chicago. This company was the publisher of the 20-volume New Standard Encyclopedia. He worked with researchers, editors and writers who were subject experts to provide standard research materials; provided answers to over 2000 questions yearly from subscribers; solicited experts to read and critically comment on major articles in the encyclopedia; developed guidelines for creating an index to the encyclopedia; updated approximately 1000 bibliographies on a three to four year schedule; and read current publications, review journals, books in print and other bibliographic tools to assure balance and accuracy.

1971: He obtained his Masters in Library Science from Rosary College (now Dominican University), River Forest, Illinois.

1976-1977: He was a visiting lecturer at the University of Illinois Graduate School of Library Science, the Urbana-Champaign campus during the summer sessions.

1979: David represented the state of Illinois as a delegate to the first White House Conference on Libraries and Information Sciences and gave testimony before a Joint Session of Congress.

1984: Co-editor of Special Libraries and Information Centers in 2009: Informed Speculations.

1986: Co-author of Special Libraries: A Guide for Management, a widely used text for graduate level courses.

1987: In recognition for his contributions to the profession, the Special Libraries Association named David a Fellow, a select group now numbering 47 out of an international membership of 15,000. That same year he was honored by the Illinois Secretary of State for his 15 years of service on advisory committees to the Illinois State Library.

1996: David retired from Standard Educational Corporation. After retiring, he volunteered his services on a special project at the Museum of Contemporary Art in Chicago. In January 1998, he began working part-time with a long-time friend who owned Books for Business. He called on friends and former colleagues as a way of promoting the business.

1998: After undergoing tests because of various problems such as unsteady balance and memory loss, doctors found several tumors in David's brain. Surgery on April 1st removed the largest tumor, but the others were considered inoperable. While undergoing thirteen radiation treatments to the brain, a bone scan was run which found cancer had also invaded his left thigh. It was zapped with radiation as well which left the bone in a very weakened condition. Doctors suspected the major source of cancer was in his lungs, but could not confirm it. He was told he could live a few weeks or a few months. The months of May and June were spent recuperating from the radiation and gradually regaining some strength. By the middle of July, he was feeling better although he was still on crutches to protect the left leg and he was, of course, weak. He was beginning to get out a little and was able to spend short periods of time in the kitchen where, anyone who knew him, knew he loved to cook. He was hoping to come home to Indiana for a visit the end of July and was making the plans when he fell, breaking the weakened bone in his left leg. He had surgery to place a pin in that leg from hip to knee. Another bone scan showed the cancer had continued to grow and was now found in the right leg and x-rays finally picked it up in his lungs. After two weeks at Northwestern Hospital, he was moved to the Rehabilitation Institute. His condition was too frail, however, to participate in even the lightest form of therapy, so he was taken to the Hospice facility at Northwestern. Thanks to the efforts of many close friends, a hospice setting was created in his apartment which included 24 hour nursing and he was moved back to his home where he was kept quite comfortable during the last week of his illness. His care was loving and thoughtful….even when his condition failed to the point of being able to eat only a few bites of baby food, it was placed in front of him in a china bowl and served with a cloth napkin. They made it possible for him to pass away with dignity. I was so impressed with his care and am extremely thankful for the hospice program. His estate had been carefully planned and his wishes were written down of paper. He asked for a private graveside service where he would be placed beside Dad and Mom in the Fairfield Cemetery. No services were held in Chicago, but on September 22nd, a memorial gathering was held in his honor at the Club at Symphony Hall in Chicago. This gathering was by invitation only and nearly eighty of his closest friends and colleagues attended. Many of these people had known David through various library associations between twenty and thirty years. The October meeting of the Special Libraries Association is to be dedicated to his memory.

MY THOUGHTS: Since David's death, I have had several requests to document his educational, occupational and personal experiences for friends and distant relatives who were not aware of or do not remember his past. I've pulled together what I could from old letters, newspaper clippings, his resume and my memories. I've included excerpts of letters written during his younger years because I thought they were interesting and showed the uncertainty and inexperience of a young farmer's son establishing himself in the unknown world. I enjoyed reading the first letter home after graduating from college and starting his first job. He was certainly unsure of his abilities, but forged ahead with the attitude that he'd just pretend to know what he was doing and it would probably be fine. At age 24, he was roaming Europe on "$5 a Day". He enjoyed many great strides during his life, both personal and professional…..from life on the family farm to a condo in Chicago overlooking Lincoln Park and Lake Michigan, from his first position at an elementary school on Long Island to Chief Librarian of an encyclopedia publisher in Chicago, from travelling Europe on $5 a day to wonderful vacations and cruises, from educating Filipino children to addressing Congress. He took a great interest in every thing and every one. When I heard him described as a "gentleman" and a "gentle man", it rang true. The two similar phrases describe him perfectly. He was a considerate, caring and loving son….a congenial and compassionate brother….and a very special uncle. I was very pleased when I learned, after having lived elsewhere for over forty years, he wished to be returned to his roots in DeKalb County and be buried beside Dad and Mom. The minister at his graveside service often referred to David's love of adventure and how he was always looking forward to his next journey. I was assured by the Chaplain who counseled David in his final days that he had no fear of death and was looking forward to the journey. The minister's words at the cemetery made me remember the story of what was probably his first major adventure….at the age of three. Mom had him dressed and bundled up in a red wool coat Grandma Putt had made him. Mom told him to sit in the living room and wait while she finished dressing for church. When she checked on him later, he was missing. Mom and Dad searched the house and barns, contacted the neighbors, etc. About the time they were organizing a search party, someone glanced across the fields and saw a speck of red. It was David who had apparently thought it a waste of time to sit in the house while he could be exploring the mystery of the woods beyond. So he took the family dog and set out on his journey. I'm sure he enjoyed himself thoroughly and the little trip to the woods was probably his first journey that led to many bigger, better adventures to come.

Thanks for a wonderful Christmas! I hope you have recovered from all of the company and are enjoying all of your movies!
Maybe you can come up in Feb or March if the weather, etc. will cooperate!?

Happy New Year!

I promise I will send a longer message later. We were playing with the software you gave me and came up with the attached. What do you think?

We had a wonderful time. We felt pampered and spoiled. Loved seeing you. Take care.

Love and hugs,
Karen and Dan

B. F. PUTT, M. D., is the son of John W. and Mary Putt. His father was born in Washington County, Md., March 24, 1819, the son of Benjamin and Barbara Putt, born in the said county. They moved to Stark County, Ohio, in 1826, and settled on the spot where Massillon now stands. Benjamin was born in 1756, and was of Holland descent. At the age of nineteen, he enlisted in the Revolutionary war, serving under Capt. George Lancaster a part of the time and under George Washington the balance. After the war, he settled on a farm in Bucks County, Penn. Was married, in 1813, to Barbara Lawmen; moved to Washington County, Md., and, in 1826, to Stark County, Ohio, and there died in 1852, aged ninety-six years, his wife surviving him four years. They left a family of four boys and three girls. John W. was the fourth son, was born in Washington County March 24, 1819, came with his parents to Ohio, and was there married, January 1, 1841, to Mary Wiest, who was born in Huntingdon County, Penn., January 1, 1819, the daughter of, Jacob and Catharine Wiest, who emigrated from Germany to Cumberland County, Penn., about 1805, and purchased a large tract of land, which was all lost through a poor title, and then moved, in 1827, to Massillon, Ohio, where the father shortly after died, leaving a wife and seven children, Mary being the eldest daughter; shortly after, the mother followed the father. John W. followed his trade of wagon-maker in Stark County until 1853, when he moved to Allen County, Ind., and purchased the farm on which he and wife now reside, enjoying life at the ripe age of sixty-five, after having, reared a family of eight children, born and named as follows : Sarah A., October 9, 1841; Harvey A., May 20, 1843; Caroline, April 19, 1845; William, March 25, 1849; John, March 24, 1851; Benjamin F., August 16, 1853; Rosana, March 19, 1858, died January 23, 1861; Charlie, August 6, 1859. At the age of six years, our subject, Benjamin F., began his studies in a country school, which he continued till his twelfth year, when the family moved to Fort Wayne; here he attended the Western College four years, when his father moved back to his farm. The New Year's Eve of 1868, our subject lost three fingers from his left hand by the explosion of a gun, which accident disabled him as a farmer, and he then began the study of medicine. Having already acquired considerable knowledge of anatomy and physiology, he made very rapid progress. He entered a drug store at Nine Mile, Allen County, as druggist and Deputy Postmaster, at the same time practicing medicine until 1876, when the Medical College at Fort Wayne was organized. Here he attended a five-months course of lectures, had access to the hospital wards daily, and read in the office of W. H. Myers, the well-known surgeon. Having completed his collegiate course, he came to Forest in 1877, and resumed practice in association with Dr. John Richards, and soon gained the confidence of the public as a competent, careful and attentive physician. April 17, 1878, he married Miss Lillian E. Barger, daughter of Elias and Mary Barger. Elias Barger was born in Mahoning County, Ohio, October 15, 1833, his wife in Delaware County, Ind., October 4, 1833, and they were married at Roanoke, Huntington County, Ind., September 10, 1857, where they still reside, enjoying, every comfort and the respect of all who know them, and the enduring love of their two children-- Lillian E., born April 2, 1860, and Flora E., born August 29, 1862. Shortly after his marriage, Dr. Putt purchased property at Forest, and withdrew from his partnership with Dr. Richards. In 1881, he took a second course of lectures at Fort Wayne College, and graduated with high honors. His practice is now very extensive as well as lucrative. He has a fine residence, a well- stored library, and has made a number of paying investments. He has one son-Harold F., born September 23, 1880. He is a member of the Masonic order, which he joined in 1876; and is also Deputy District Grand Master of the Ancient Order of United Workmen, and is altogether a popular and rising young man.

Janne Slota-Putt

First Generation

1. Benjamin[1] Putt was born between 1750 and 1760. It is known that he married Barbara ______, but he may also have had another wife. Benjamin lived in Heidelberg Twp., Berks Co., PA, in 1800 and 1810[1]. By 1820, he had moved to Norwegian Twp., Schuylkill Co., PA, possibly after spending some time in Maryland. Several sources give Maryland as the birthplace of his son, John[2]. Benjamin moved to Ohio between 1823 and 1827[3]. He was living in Perry Twp., Stark Co., OH, in 1830, and was enumerated as being between seventy and eighty years old[4]. There is some question about whether Benjamin had more than one wife, based on his wife's age as listed on various censuses. In 1800, she was enumerated as sixteen to twenty-six, placing her birth between 1774 and 1884. In 1810, she was older than forty-five, necessitating a birth year of before 1765. His wife was enumerated as being between fifty and sixty years of age in 1830, making her birthdate between 1770 and 1780. In 1840, Benjamin was living in Plain Twp., Stark Co. His age was correctly noted as between eighty and ninety years old, but his wife was still listed as fifty to sixty years of age. This would mean that she was born between 1780 and 1790. One theory is that Benjamin's wife's age was incorrectly marked for the 1810 census. In that case, he could have had the same wife for all four years,

3. Jacob G.^{2} Putt (Benjamin^{1}) was born circa 1816 in Pennsylvania. A carpenter, he married Mary _____, who was born circa 1823 in Pennsylvania. In 1850, they lived in Plain Twp., Stark Co., OH[20]. By 1860, they had moved to Scipio Twp., Seneca Co., OH[21]. It is unknown when Jacob and Mary died. They were not enumerated in Scipio Twp., Seneca Co., OH, in 1870, nor in Norwalk, Huron Co., OH, where their daughter, Lucinda, was married in that year. Their children were:

i. Eliza^{3} Putt, born circa 1843 in Ohio[22].
ii. Harriet Putt, born circa 1845 in Ohio[23].
9 iii. Lucinda Putt.
iv. Alfred Putt, born circa 1852 in Ohio[24].
10 v. Edward Livingston Putt.
vi. James Putt, born circa 1859 in Ohio[25].

4. John W.^{2} Putt (Benjamin^{1}) was born 10 Mar. 1819, probably in Maryland[26]. A farmer and wagonmaker, he married Mary Weist 31 Dec. 1840 in Stark Co., OH[27]. She was born in 8 Dec. 1819 in Pennsylvania[28]. John and Mary sold land in Richville, Stark Co., and in Section 35 of the same county in 1846 and 1847 respectively[29]. They still lived in Stark Co. in 1850, where John was a blacksmith[30], but moved from Ohio to near Nine Mile, Allen Co., IN, between 1854 and 1856. They were enumerated in Allen Co., IN, on the 1860 census[31]. J.W. (John W.) and A.H. (his son, Austin Henry) Putt were listed as land owners in the 1867 Allen County Gazetteer Containing a Directory of Fort Wayne City[32]. John and Mary remained in Pleasant Twp., Allen Co., in 1870, 1880, and 1900. In 1870, they were enumerated one page away from Samuel and Leah Weist, the former a Pennsylvania native and probably Mary Weist

CHAPTER XLIII.

Dutch and German Families of Pott, Potts, and Putt.

Beside the Potts families in America of English extaction, there are also families of German or Dutch origin bearing a similar name, viz. Pott, Potts and Putt, but originally Pott. The name Pott in German is pronounced as if spelled P-u-t-t, and in English speaking communities would be very likely to be spelled as pronounced. Where the English pronunciation was adopted the s was very likely to be added. It is not the purpose of this Chapter to trace these German familes, except a family or two of Pennsylvania, and where they are liable to be confounded with English branches, and in any case very briefly.

Nicholas Putt, of Philadelphia, and Rachel Williams were married Jan. 10, 1714. The record of this marriage, as well as of the baptisms and burials given below, is from Christ P. E. Church, of Philadelphia. On August 20, 1725, John Williams conveyed by deed, certain real estate, to Rachel Potts, wife of Nicholas. Nicholas Putt died Nov. —, 1732, and was buried in Christ Church graveyard. If any descendants survived, it is possible that they took the name of Potts.

CHILDREN OF NICHOLAS AND RACHEL (WILLIAMS) PUTT.

1 John Putt, b. Aug. 13, 1720; bap. Aug. 21; buried Sep. 20, 1721.
2 Elizabeth Putt, baptized, March 24, 1721.
3 Annie Putt, baptized March 30, 1724.
4 Nicholas Putt, buried September 30, 1730.
5 George Putt, buried October 10, 1730.

Among the lists of arrivals and of persons naturalized, given in Volumes II and XVII, Pennsylvania Archives, second series, are found several persons named Pott or Potts, who seem to have come from Holland or Germany, viz.

Michel Pott aged 40, Margret Potts aged 22, Hance Micall Potes aged 11, and Margerate Pottsen aged 5, came in the ship Adventure from Rotterdam. Michel Potts was qualified Sept. 25, 1732.

Degenhart Pott, Wilhelmus Pott, Johnnes Pott, and Johann Wilhelm Pott, (the two latter under 16 years of age), came in the ship St, Andrew from Rotterdam. Degenhart and Wilhelm were qualified Sept. 12, 1734. [See below].

John Ludwig Potts, aged 29, came in the ship Elizabeth, and was qualified October 30, 1738.

Peter Potts, aged 20, came in the ship Charming Nancy. The emigrants who were of age qualified Nov. 9, 1783. He may be the Peter Potts who married Sarah Owen, of Leacock Township, Lancaster County. See American Genealogist, Volume I, page 293.

William Pott took the oath of allegience, April, 1743.

Johannes Potz came in the ship Dragon, from Rotterdam, and was qualified, Sept. 26, 1749.

John Rinehard Potts and George Patts, are named in in a passenger list in 1753.

John Henrich Potts came in the ship Friendship, from Hamburg, and was qualified Nov. 19, 1753.

Georg Pott came in the ship Friendship, and was qualified October 21, 1754.

Berthold Henry Pott came in the ship John and Elizabeth, from Amsterdam, and was qualified Nov. 7, 1754.

John Pott, was naturalized September 24, 1759.

George Potts, of Bethel Township, Lancaster County, was naturalized April 5, 1767.

Wilhelm and Degenhart Pott.

Wilhelm and Degennart Pott, brothers, arrived at Philadelphia in September, 1734, in the ship St. Andrew, John Steadman, master, from Rotterdam. Wilhelm Pott will be treated of below. Of Degenhart Pott little seems to be known. Tradition alleges that he died a young man and unmarried. It is the tradition of this family that their ancestors were among those driven from Holland into England, by reason of the persecution of the Duke of Alva, but returned to Holland in the time of Charles I.

1 WILHELM POTT, as before stated, arrived in Pennsylvania in 1734. He brought with him his sons Johannes and Johann Wilhelm. The ship's passenger list places these children among those under 16 years of age. The statement of the family is, that they were under 10 years, and that one of them was an infant. The printed passenger list does not include the names of females, but from a patent and deeds, Wilhelm's wife's name is shown to have been Gertrude. It is fair to conclude that she came with her husband and children. They are said to have first settled at Germantown, but soon removed to Oley Township, Berks County, purchased and settled on a farm. Wilhelm Pott died in 1767. Whether there were other children than the two already named, does not appear from any information in possession of the compiler. ?

2 Johannes or John Pott,^{3} (Wilhelm^1), son of Wilhelm and Gertrude Pott, was quite young when he come to Pennsylvania with his parents in 1734. His parents settled him upon a farm. He married Maria Hoch, daughter of John and Susanna Hoch, Dec. 23, 1755. He died 1804.

10 Wilhelm Pott, b. Nov. 9, 1769. No issue. Franklin County.
11 Benjamin Pott, b. March 10, 1773.

3 Johann Wilhelm Pott,^{2} (Wilhelm,^{1}), son of Wilhelm and Gertrude Pott, was quite young when brought by his parents to Pennsylvania. The descendants of his brother John, speak of him by the name of William Pott, but do not know what became of him. It seems very probable that he is the same who settled in York County, of whom some account is given hereafter.

6 John Pott,^{3} (Johannes,^{2} Wilhelm,^{1}), son of John and Maria (Hoch) Pott, was born Dec. 16, 1759, and died Dec. 23, 1827. He married Maria Lesher, daughter of John and Mary Lesher, in 1786. He settled up the Schuylkill River, within the limits of what is now Schuylkill County, where he engaged in the iron and lumber business. He was one of the first to utilize anthracite caal as a fuel. In the year 1809 he laid out and founded the town of Pottsville. Maria Pott, his wife, died April 21, 1823, aged 54 y. 9 m. 12 d.

William Pott, who is believed to be identical with Johann Wilhelm Pott, son of Wilhelm Pott, the emigrant, was a resident of Huntingdon Township, York (now included in Adams) County, Pennsylvania. His wife's name was Margaret. He died in 1774. His will is recorded at York. The wife and children are mentioned by name.

Benjamin Potts, born about 1775, in York County, may have been a grandson of William Pott. His descendants claim to be of Dutch descent. When about 18 years of age, he entered the army and served three years, under General Anthony Wayne, in the Indian wars. He had a brother John who was with him in the army, and both were taken prisoners by the Indians. A few years after his discharge from the army, he married Abigail Peer, in New Jersey. After living in New Jersey a few years, they removed to the Dominion of Canada. At the outbreak of the War of 1812, they were compelled to leave, for refusing to take the oath of allegience to Great Britain. From Canada they removed to Bellville, Richland County, Ohio, where they continued until 1836. In that year they removed to Jefferson Township, Noble County, Indiana. Benjamin Potts died in 1859, aged 85 years, and Abigail Potts, in August, 1851.

1 Lewis Potts,^{2} (Benjamin,^{1}), son of Benjamin and Abigail (Peer) Potts, was born June 30, 1802, in New Jersey. He lived with his parents in Canada and Ohio. He married Catharine Lash, daughter of Philip Lash, April 15, 1827, at Bellville, Ohio. He was a carpenter and joiner by trade. In 1836 he removed to Jefferson, Noble County, Indiana, where he died June 26, 1850. Catharine (Lash) Potts died Nov. 3, 1851.

PUTT. There is a large circle of persons named Putt, in Bedford County, Pennsylvania. They claim to be of German descent, and that the name was orginally identical with Pott. In 1876, George W. Putt stated that his grandfather, Henry Putt, of Berks County, removed to Bedford County at an early day and made a settlement there. Henry is alleged to have had brothers John, William, Jacob, Joseph and George.

Levi Potts, of Lexington, Illinois, writes, that his great grandparents started from Germany for America about 1775, having with them their son Daniel Pott. The father died at sea. The mother and son settled in Berks County, Pennsylvania. Daniel Pott, who was born about 1767, married and left children, 1 Daniel, 2 John, 3 Elizabeth. Daniel, Jr., was the father of the above Levi Potts.

1 JOHN POTTS was an early settler in Westmoreland County, Pennsylvania. He is said to have been a soldier in the Revolutionary war, and to have removed from eastern Pennsylvania (a grandson says Lancaster County), about 1796. He is said to have been of German extraction, though one tradition alleges English origin, but whether born in this country or not is uncertain. The date of his birth is given as 1753. He died in 1837. His wife's name was Christina Potzer. There were 10 sons and 2 daughters.

The following memoranda has been compiled from information received from Thomas F. Potts, of Rocheport, Missouri, and R. E. Saville, of Monmouth, Illinois.

Frederick Potts, and two brothers, David and Samuel, are said to have come from Holland to Pennsylvania, sometime between 1750 and 1765. Frederick removed to Loudoun County, Virginia, and in 1800, from there to Clark County, Kentucky. He is said to have been named in honor of Frederick the Great, of Prussia.

6 Catharine Potts, m. —— Fisher.

Frederick Potts, Jr.,^{2} (Frederick,^{1}), son of Frederick Potts, was born 1784, in Loudoun County, Virginia. He removed to Clark County, Kentucky, in 1800, and to Missouri, in 1818. In 1896, his son Thomas F. Potts was living at Rocheport, Boone County, Missouri.

CHAPTER XLIV.

Some Miscellaneous Fragments.

The writer has a large amount of miscellaneous and fragmentary memoranda of persons named POTTS, not identified as belonging to any of the families herein named. Much of this memoranda has not been compiled and is only partially indexed. It would require much time and labor to collect and classify this material, and much of it would perhaps be of little use. The following, mainly connected with Pennsylvania, may be found to be of value and helpful to the future genealogist who desires to pursue this subject further.

Mr. Stephen W. Potts, of Solebury, Bucks County, has given the compiler hereof a brief account of his family connection. He says he does not know the name of his grandfather Potts, but thinks that he was a soldier in the Revolutionary War. His grandmother's name was Mary, but he is not certain of her maiden name. Upon hearing the name of Dellsil mentioned, he wrote as follows,

> The name Dellsil seems to be familiar, and I think I have heard my sister say that Mary Dellsil was grandmother's name; but I should not have thought of it again had not you mentioned her name. I do not want to say anything to lead you astray in this matter, but the name Dellsil forces itself so strongly on my mind that I cannot give up but that she was my grandmother.

These statements suggest very strongly that the grandfather was JASPER POTTS, son of Thomas, Jr., and Susanna Potts, of Bristol Township, Philadelphia County, who is mentioned on pages 214. 215, and 216, ante.

CHILDREN OF ——— AND MARY (———) POTTS.

1 Thomas Potts. He was a miller and lived in Bucks County.
2 David Potts. No further account.
3 John Potts, b. April 9, 1785; d. Dec. 25, 1848; m. R. Woodford.
4 Elizabeth Potts, m. Hugh Lindsey, July 3, 1798.
5 Susan Potts, m. ——— Lindsey.

3 John Potts,[2] son of ——— and Mary (———) Potts, was born April 9, 1785, in Philadelphia. When nine years of age he was placed with a family on a farm in lower Bucks County, where he remained until he was twenty one years of age. He married Rachel Woodford, daughter of Stephen Woodford, of Bucks County. He died Dec. 25, 1848, and Rachel his wife, Dec. 24, 1862.

There were several persons in Pennsylvania bearing the name of Robert Potts, of whom little more than a brief mention has been noticed. These items may not always refer to different persons.

The records of Christ P. E. Church at Philedelphia, show the marriage of Robert Potts and Elizabeth Fressey, on January 5, 1717.

Robert Potts, of Paxtang, Lancaster County, whose wife is said to have been Sarah Biddle, died October, 1769. In his will he mentions his wife Sarah, his sister Jean Potts and his four daughters by name.

1 Rachel Potts, m. Michael Troy, of Sunbury.
2 Peggy Potts, m. Alexander Porter, a farmer.
3 Jean Potts, m. John Dickey, a blacksmith.
4 Ann Potts.

Robert Potts filed a petition in February, 1770, Term of the Court of Chester County, from which it appears that he had come into Pennsylvania from Ireland about 1767, and had learned the trade of a carpenter.

The records of St. James P. E. Church, of Lancaster, show the marriage of Robert Potts and Catharine McGratty on August 2, 1771.

Robert Potts was a private in Capt. James Cowden's Co., Col. Burd's Battalion, of Lancaster County, Mar. 13, 1776.

Robert Potts was a private in Capt. Gibbs' Company, 8th Battalion, of Chester County, 1777–1778.

James Potts, formerly a bookseller at Belfast, Ireland, who seems to have been a man of wealth, sailed September 1748, for Boston, Massachussetts, in the sloop Eagle, Oliver Airy, master. He is next found in Pennsylvania, where he purchased lands and entered into speculation in Chester and Lancaster Counties. He died intestate about 1755, and John Singleton took out letters of administration, upon his estate, in Lancaster County, filing a bond for £2000, July 18, 1755. The inventory was filed in 1756, and the final account in 1757, which showed charges against the estate amounting to £1192 10 s. 2 d. Reference is made to land, near Carlisle, held in partnership by the decedent and the administrator. As many accounts due the decedent were worthless, there was no balance for distribution.

On April 25, 1756, John Potts of Belfast, merchant, and and Robert Potts, of County Antrim, gave a letter of attorney to David Potts, also of County Antrim, all brothere of James Potts, formerly of Belfast, Ireland, bookseller, but lately of Chester County, Pennsylvania, who died intestate, possessed of a considerable estate, authorizing the said David Potts to proceed to Pennsylvania and collect the proceeds thereof. Recorded at Phila. in Deed-Book H7, p. 526.

Jacob Potts, born 1749, married Sarah Draper, Sep. 10, 1762, at Philadelphia. He was buried in the Philadelphia Friends graveyard, 10 mo. 8, 1773, aged 33 years. Sarah Potts, who was buried in the same graveyard on 8 mo. 22, 1825, aged 81 years, may have been the widow of Jacob. The Philadelphia Friends records also show the burial of James Potts, son of Jacob, 10 mo. 8, 1772, aged 2½ years. Other children may have survived.

The Potts' of Lancaster County. There is a family of Potts' in Lancaster County, of which the writer has been able to secure only a very meager account, as those who are alleged to have old family records have failed to respond to inquiries, and personal interviews with other members of the family have failed to elicit much information. It is how-alleged that one EPHRAIM POTTS was their first American ancestor, and that he came from England. His son Joseph Potts, whose wife's name was Frances, owned land and lived in the vicinity of Strasburg. A deed of partition, executed in 1830, shows that Joseph and Frances had children, as given below.

CHILDREN OF JOSEPH AND FRANCES (——) POTTS.

1 Daniel Potts.
2 Maria Potts.
3 Samuel Potts, died 1829.
4 Frances Potts.
5 Joseph Potts, died 1856.
6 Jacob Potts, d. before 1868; m. Catharine M. ——. He had a daughter Catharine, who m. Daniel E. Potts. He d. in 1887.
7 Benjamin Potts, died before 1830.
8 David Potts. Had ten children and died in 1866. He was the proprietor of the hotel at Potts Landing, one mile east of Lancaster. His son Samuel W. Potts succeeded him at the hotel.

The records of Belmont County, Ohio, show the marriage of JOHN POTTS and MARY TAYLOR, of Richland as taking place on Dec, 24, 1818. The ceremony was performed by Vachell Hall. They had four children, three sons and one daughter. Two sons and the daughter died young. After the death of his wife, John Potts left Ohio, and there is no further account of him. He is alleged to have had two brothers,—one a wealthy bachelor of Baltimore, Maryland.

CHILDREN OF JOHN AND MARY (TAYLOR) POTTS.

1 Samuel Potts, m. —— ——. A son James D. Potts has for several years been connected with publishing houses at Columbus and Cincinnati, Ohio, and latterly at New York.

JOHN POTTS, of the city and county of New Castle, [Delaware,] sawyer, and Sarah, his wife, conveyed to Joseph Armitage, on Feb'y 21, 1726, a lot of ground which Joseph Hill had previously conveyed to said Potts. [Deed-Book H, page 169]. Perhaps he was identical with "John Pitts" of Maryland, who had a grant of 500 acres of land in New Castle County before 1703.

Amityville Was New Storeville

Historian Montgomery's description of the focal point of today's installment is as fitting now as it was then penned 94 years ago: "Amityville is a beautifully located village, on the Amity turnpike (Route 662) leading to Yellow House, a little east of the centre of the township."

As early as 1782 this settlement was called New Storeville, so named for a new store built here by Ludwig Spiese who relocated to this point from an earlier business stand at Weavertown, a short distance away.

It is uncertain when the present store building was constructed but it is known that by 1850 it was well established. On the accompanying 1859 map, William Gerling is indicated as the proprietor; he was preceded by a Mr. Yocum.

The last reference to New Storeville, sometimes written Newstoreville, is found on Henry & Boyer's Berks map of 1854. Thereafter, "Amityville" came into general use.

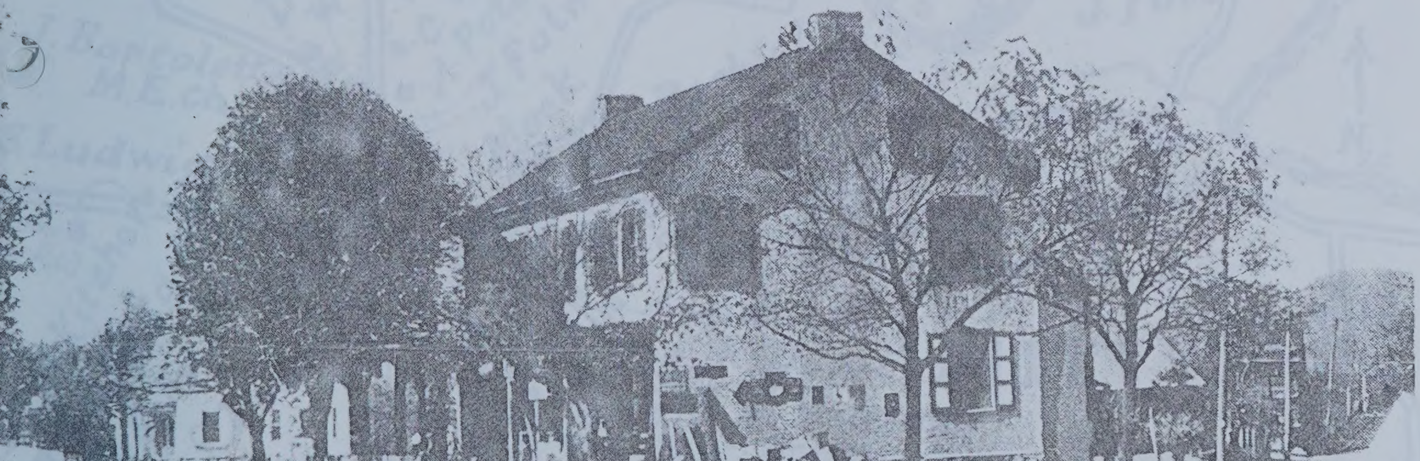
Designation Changed

For various reasons, postal designations do not always reflect the name of the place served — most often because the name requested for a postal station had already been taken by a previously established office. Very possibly an Amityville Post Office was in operation somewhere by the time one was petitioned for Amity's Amityville. Consequently, when the post office opened here Jan. 6, 1885, it was designated "Athol" rather than Amityville.

To this day, Athol Post Office continues in the village store, located at the junction of Route 662 and Old Airport Road. Since 1949 Harold Boyer, Sr. has owned the property. His son, Harold "Butch" Boyer, Jr., now operates the store.

Throughout its history, the village has had three or four hotels. There is clear evidence the earliest one was a log structure that stood on the southeast corner of Old Airport and Weavertown roads. This was Luther's "Coon's Nest" inn, built sometime around 1806. Luther was a maker of coffee mills.

Old maps show J. Potts conducting a Bull's Head Tavern along the south side of present-day Route 662 opposite the junction of Blacksmith Road. This is the hotel indicated on the accompanying map. It opened about 1850.



OLD GENERAL STORE — The Amityville general store, in business for approximately 140 years, sits at the intersection of Route 662 and Old Airport Road. A post office designated as "Athol" went into service here in 1885 and continues in operation in the store. In the 70 years since the photo was taken, many changes have been made to the building, which is now owned by Harold Boyer.

Three years later the present yellow brick edifice was completed and dedicated, unquestionably one of the finest churches in rural Berks.

As was mentioned earlier, the 1753 log meetinghouse was employed, in part, for educational purposes. In 1794 the union congregation erected a parochial school, also of logs, just south of the church, at the location indicated on the map as "S.H." — with a box around it.

This schoolhouse was replaced in 1839 by one of brick, which stood 50 years, but was used longer for Sunday school than for daily parochial school.

Education Change

In 1850 Amity established public education. Notice on the map that the public school building stood just north of the church.

The calibre of school directors Amity possessed in 1869 can be judged by the schoolhouse built at Amityville that year. In comparison with many found throughout the county during that period, this was a palace! Little wonder folks came from far and wide to see it for themselves.

(As late as 1880 there were schoolhouses in use elsewhere in Berks that could best be described as timber shacks.)

Best for Years

While the accompanying photo doesn't do full justice to the structure — you can't see that it was T-shaped — enough can be seen to attest to the fact that it was indeed a stylish affair for its time and place. So im-

William Pott Was First Settler At Lobachsville

On Sept. 12, 1893, the Reading Eagle carried an article headlined "To Sell A Whole Village Owing To The Death Of The Last Member Of The Lobach Family."

The Saturday thereafter, about 175 persons attended the public sale at Marsteller's Lobachsville's Hotel where auctioneer Frank Britzeghoff "sold off the town," in seven parcels, for $7,808.

With the final rap of Britzeghoff's hammer, the Lobachs' 148-year-tie with the village that perpetuates that family's name passed into history.

But let's backtrack 250 years to examine the circumstances that brought the first Lobach to the Oley Valley.

OUR STORY begins with William Pott, a well-to-do businessman of German origin. On a visit to England he saw some bar-iron that had been shipped from Philadelphia and which was made at the Pine Iron Works, established around 1720 near the junction of the Manatawny and Ironstone creeks — the site of which can still be found in Douglass Township.

Pott was led to understand that the general area from where the bar-iron came was well wooded and watered, and contained large deposits of iron ore. In other words, it was a land of opportunity.

A "ship-list" dated Sept. 12, 1734, — now in the archives at the Schwenkfelder Library at Pennsburg — indicates that the "St. Andrew" brought from Rotterdam to the port of Philadelphia a boatload of immigrants that included Wilhelmus/Wilhelm/William Pott and his brother Dengenhart Pott.

With them were the following women and children: Catrout Pott, Johann Wilhelm Pott, Catrina Gadrout Pott, Johannes Pott, and Peter Lobach. Peter, whose last name appears "Loobach" on the ship-list, was 14 at the time and a stepson of William Pott. The lad's real dad, Peter Lobach Sr., died in 1720.

During the time William Pott sojourned in the Germantown section of Philadelphia, he made the acquaintance of several prominent industrialists and financiers who extolled the virtues of the Manatawny and Schuylkill regions.

The Lobachsville Hotel, conducted by Levi E. Boyer at the time this photo was taken around 1915, was operated from the 1830s to the onset of Prohibition. Thereafter, it reverted to residential use. The building itself is thought to be about 185 years old. — Photo, taken by Amandus D. Moyer, courtesy of DORIS AND NED LORAH, owners of the structure since 1970.

After a number of exploratory trips on horseback, William decided to locate in "Oley," which was then a sparsely settled but distinct part of Philadelphia County.

William purchased a tract of 53 acres at a point where Pine Creek unites with the Manatawny, near the heart of present-day Lobachsville. For this land, which included "a small mill" and its water-rights, he paid George Adam Weidner 125 pounds.

A year before Pott received his deed, or on the 16th of January 1738, an agreement was signed for the transfer of this property and a payment of 25 pounds "on account."

ACCORDING TO the research of historian Cyrus T. Fox, an examination of the title indicated that on the 20th of January 1736, the tract had been patented to Weidner by Thomas Penn. This action is on record in Book A, Volume 8, page 134, in the files of the Land Office in Philadelphia.

Pott proceeded to secure strips of land on both sides of Pine Creek, in a northeasternly direction, extending into what is now District Township. Fox recorded that William Pott "bought a furnace soon after locating in the Manatawny region, an account book (then in the possession of Fox) show that his son John (Johannes) Pott, was manager there."

The record is unclear as to who built District Furnace, which sat along present-day Long Lane, just over the Pike border in District Township. Some sources suggest Pott was responsible, and this could well have been the case.

Be aware that the furnace's date of construction is also in question.

"Pennsylvania Iron Manufacture in the Eighteenth Century" by A. C. Bining, a frequently consulted volume published and sold by the Pennsylvania Historical and Museum Commission, states that William Pott erected District Furnace in 1768.

THE CRITICAL reader must accept this information with a degree of reservation, in view of the fact Pott departed this life in 1767.

In any event, in addition to owning District Furnace, we know for certain that William erected a grist and saw mill, a fulling mill, and a number of houses that eventually became the nucleus of Lobachsville.

We end our protracted examination of the Pott family by noting that son Wilhelm (actually Johann Amandus D. Moyer, who once supplied the Reading Eagle with "rural pictures," is seen in his sporty, Reading-made Dile auto, which was once a common sight in Pike, District, Rockland, and Earl Townships. Moyer must be credited with preserving a great of deal of Lobachsville-area history through his photography. He was about 20 when this view was taken in 1915. Later, Moyer established a successful lumber business at Gilbertsville. He died in 1963. — Photo courtesy of E. L. HEIST, Laureldale.

Wilhelm) left the area for Franklin County where he established a furnace and forge in Peters Township. This fact notwithstanding, he retained lands in District and Rockland townships until as late as 1815.

William's other son, John (actually Johannes), continued operating District Furnace for a number of years following his father's death and thereafter became a "man of affairs" in the general area for the remainder of his life.

His son, John Jr., who had learned the iron business from his dad and father-in-law John Lesher, moved to Schuylkill County in 1810 to engage in the iron business there. It was he who laid out Pottsville in 1816 and founded the town.

FOR THE NOMINAL consideration of 100 pounds, on the 2nd of April 1745, William Pott conveyed to his stepson, Peter Lobach, two tracts of land, containing together 59 acres of land and a fulling mill — with all its machinery, utensils, and working stock.

At this juncture, Peter was 25 years of age. In 1743 he had married Helena Pallio (Pauli?), whose sister was the daughter-in-law of the widely-known Huguenot pioneer, Jean Bertolet.

The first child born to Peter and Helena was Peter Jr., who arrived Dec. 27, 1744. Helena died giving birth to their thirteenth. Mother and infant were interred in a single grave in the family burial ground, which was located on the hillside directly between the former hotel building and St. Paul's (Lobach's) Church.

Data compiled some 85 years ago suggests that around 1748 Peter Lobach built a sawmill — one of two in the immediate area — and improved the fulling mill. It is said he imported machinery from England for finishing woolen goods.

At about the same time he is thought to have erected a dye house. The making of woolen goods was continued here until 1824.

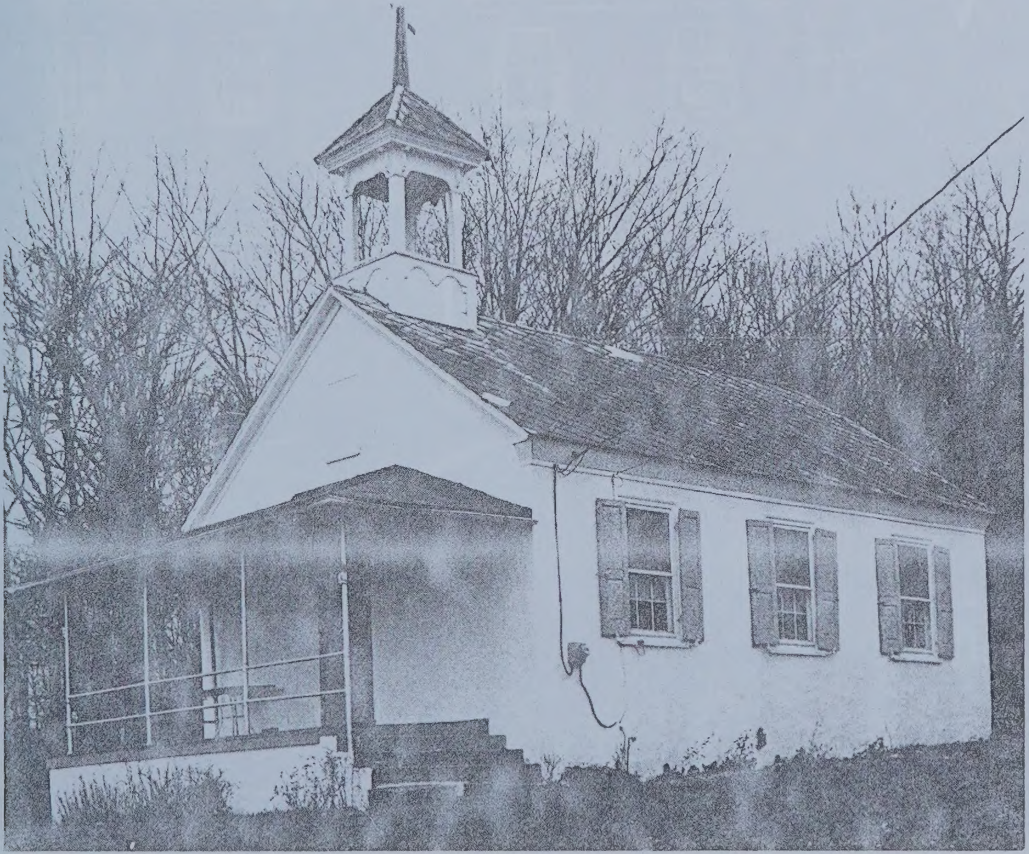
Peter Lobach died in 1785 at age 65. His most prominent offspring was Samuel, 1750-1827, who in 1785 married Magdalena Shultz, daughter of the Schwenkfelder surveyor David Shultz, whose excellent drafts are highly regarded and often consulted by historians.

Samuel and Magdalena erected a commodious stone dwelling, probably sometime between 1790 and 1800, which is located in the heart of the village nearly opposite the former general store.

It was this house that Samuel's younger son, William, converted to a tavern, possibly in the 1830s, following the demise of his mother. William conducted the hotel until his death in 1853, at which time David Lobach (1810-1885) took over.

David Lobach was destined to be the last of the "proprietor" Lobachs to live and die in Lobachsville. But during this time, this was a bustling country village with more than its share of industry, mechanics, craftsmen, and businessmen.

Wed., Jan. 4, 1984



Lobach's Schoolhouse, one of six such buildings once operated in Pike Township, dates from the winter of 1851-1852. When closed by the Oley Valley School District on Dec. 23, 1962, Marion E. Holl had been teaching a class of fifth and six graders here. The building — now a summertime residence — fronts on Mill Road, at the head of Lobachsville's "main street," close to St. Paul's Church.

him for a number of years and then the machinery was removed. The building was demolished and the dam torn away."

AT THIS juncture, let us travel northward to map-site No. 14 to visit the grist mill and residence of Steven J. Kindig, an acknowledged authority on anything water-powered.

When William Pott purchased this general area in the late 1730s, a small grist mill then existed at this location. In 1765 the early mill was replaced by a large stone structure, 85 feet long, that served as both a home and a mill. The home portion, which stood close and perpendicular to present Mill Road, is now the Kindig residence.

Standing near the intersection of Long Lane and Deysher Road is an ancient-looking stucco-over-stone dwelling that, according to the dark datestone visible to the right of the doorway, was erected in 1755 by William Pott and his son, John — onetime owners of the nearby grist mill. Until recently, a small frame structure stood on the left, which some think may have been an even earlier Pott residence.

(When Kindig chipped the stucco from this building during restoration, it was evident that a portion of the structure had been removed on the north side. This side was finished off in frame rather than stone.)

The mill property went from William Pott to his son, John, and then to Henry Spigelmeyer, who sold it to Henry Grim(m). According to an 1816 map, this was "Grimm's Mill." The chain of ownership continues with Henry Grim, Jonathan Grim, and William Grim.

In 1875 David M. Reinert came to Lobachsville to run the mill. He had learned his trade under William D. Lesher, who once operated the well-known Mensch Mill in Hereford Township. Two years later, in 1877, Reinert bought the Pott-Grim Mill and 24 acres of land at sheriff's sale.

Reinert's business grew to the point that he was obliged to erect a new mill, which he did in 1887. It was during the razing of the older mill that he found the date 1765 and the letter "P" carved into post.

Reinert concentrated on the milling of feed and discontinued flour-making in 1903. The story is told that David kept a finger he lost in an accident "pickled" in a jar. Every so often he'd look at it, shake his head, and weep.

The last full-time miller here was Clarence S. Yoder, who commenced operating in 1925. In 1965 teacher-historian Richard N. Shaner purchased the property, and he sold it to Kindig some years later.

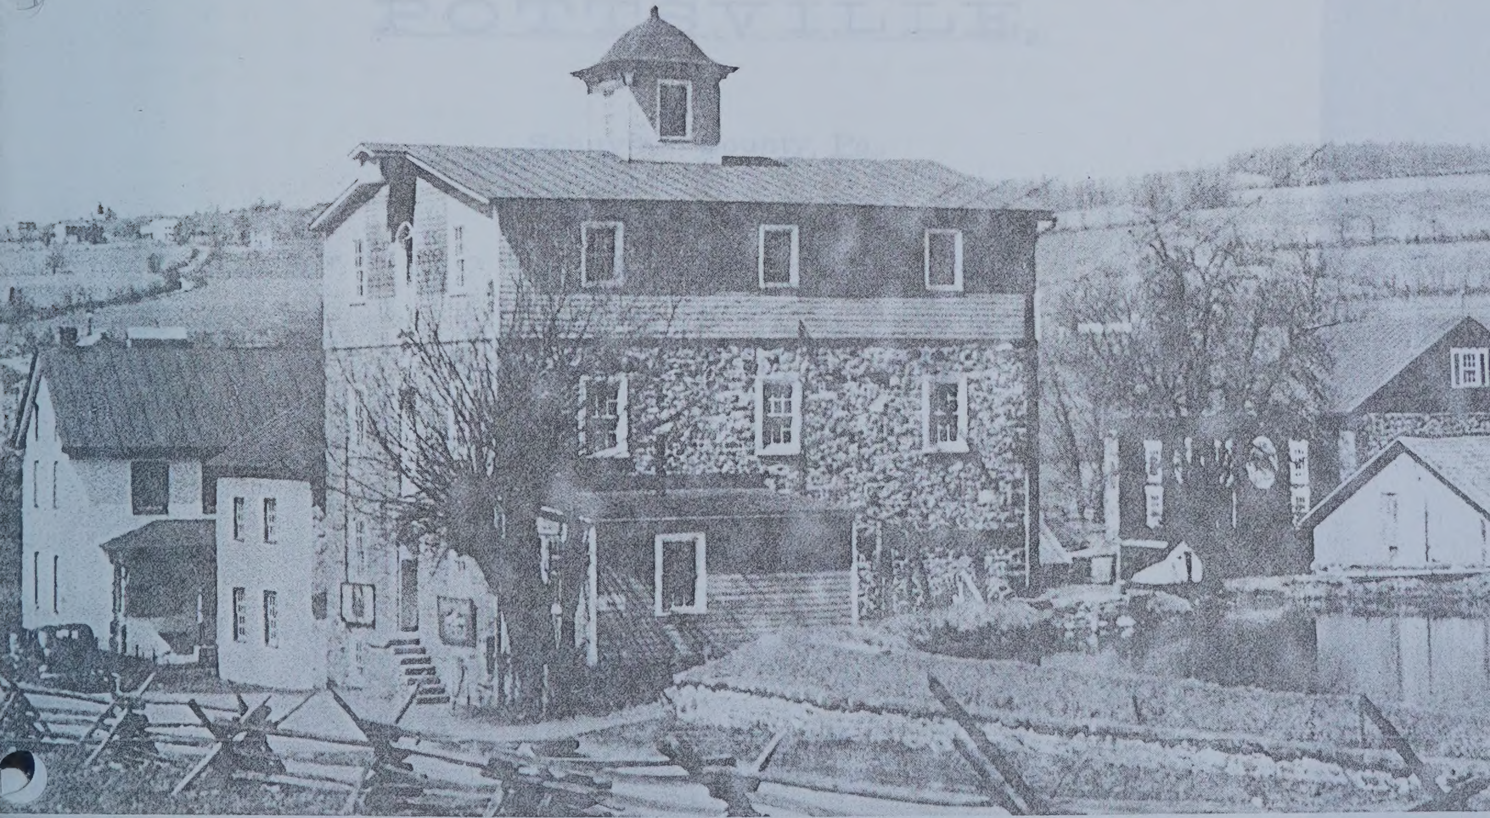
It should be noted that all the "works" remain intact in the mill, which was run on a limited basis until several years ago when the massive water wheel developed structural problems. Plans are to repair the damage.

WE BRING our story to a close by noting briefly the "selling of the town" in 1893 and the passing of the Lobachs of Lobachsville.

When David Lobach — the last of the "proprietor" Lobachs to live and die in the village — ascended to his final reward in 1885, his estate went to his sisters Anna Lobach and Mrs. Sarah Wily.

They, in turn, both died in 1893 without direct heirs. As the auctioneer quipped at time of the sale, "The Lobachs ain't no more!" Crudely put, but true. The $7,808 realized from the auction went to friends and distant relatives of the deceased sisters.

Wed., Jan. 18, 1984



The grist mill at Lobachsville, shown as it appeared when run by Clarence S. Yoder some 50 years ago, is probably the third grist mill to have been operated at this site since the 1730s. Notice the icehouse at the extreme right and the stake-and-rider fence in the foreground.

from the attack of the more merciless Indian foe. The savage warriors rushed upon their victims and as the Neiman family sank down in death, the wooded hills around the tenantless house were surrendered to the wild animals who had before possessed them. We are told that the murder of the Neiman family occurred after the revolutionary war, but there seems to be no further reliable information as to the date of the crime.

At length in the year 1800 the white man made another effort to possess this rocky territory, and we learn that the prize which lured him, was the same metal that has since given employment to so many men around us. Isaac Thomas, Lewis Morris and Lewis Reese had concluded to build a furnace and a forge here, and among the workmen whom they sent in advance to dig the race and make a dam, was John Reed, who brought his wife with him, and who built as a home a small log house two stories high. This primitive dwelling stood about fifty yards east of the place where the present residence of Mr. George Lauer has been erected, on what is now Mauch Chunk street. The ground at present occupied by Mauch Chunk street, was then a rough road leading to the mouth of Mill Creek. In that house Jeremiah Reed was born, December 19th, 1800. As far as tradition states, he was the first child born within the district, which has since formed the borough of Pottsville. His parents both had been born not more than five miles south of this place, and had passed their lives as residents of their native county. Thus the younger Reed had ample opportunity to learn from his relatives the early history of the neighborhood. To his patient recital the writer of this sketch is indebted for many valuable facts relative to that history.

Perhaps it is best to say at this point that a number of other citizens of Pottsville, have kindly furnished information in relation to the subject of this paper.

Reese & Thomas built a very small charcoal furnace, prior to 1804, on the island and near where Atkins Bros'. furnaces have since been located. In 1804, John Pott, Sr., bought from Lewis Reese, Isaac Thomas and Sarah Morris the ground on which the settlement had been made; the whole purchase, including a large number of acres forming the Physic tract, the Mayfield tract, the Moorfield tract and the Zoll tract. The Physic tract was that on which the settlement had been made. In 1806 John Pott Sr. sent up to this place his son John Pott Jr., and Daniel Focht (the father of Hon. James Focht of Pottsville) to superintend the property and to direct the building of a furnace and a forge and some dwelling houses.

When John Pott, Sr., bought this land, the only houses upon the ground now comprised within the limits of Pottsville were the Reed house before described, the Cook house near where John L. Pott's Orchard Iron Works now stand; the Alspach house, which was a log dwelling at the place where Charles Baber's residence is located; a house called the Swoyer house, which stood back in the woods on the ground now occupied by Mr. Asbury Mortimer's livery stable on Union street opposite the depot; the old Neiman house in which the Neiman family had been murdered; a house occupied by a family by the name of Shutt, which was located on what is now called Lawton's Hill, and between fifty and one hundred yards west of the point where the residence of Hon. F. W. Hughes has been built; and the Nathan Taylor house near where the Philadelphia & Reading freight depot in Pottsville now stands.

In the year 1807, John Pott, Sr., through his managers John Pott, Jr., & Daniel Focht erected the old Greenwood Furnace and Forge. The furnace stood a little west of where Charles Baber's residence now is located, on what has since become Mauch Chunk street, and the forge was near the furnace. That furnace was run by the Pott family until about 1828, when the last blast was made by Benjamin Pott, a son of John Pott, Sr.

In 1810 John Pott, Sr., removed to this land with his family, one of whom was Abraham Pott his son who had been born in 1799 at Oley Forge about eight miles southeast of Reading in Berks county. Abraham Pott was therefore about eleven years of age when he first came to this region, and the many years he has lived here have made him familiar with its history. He was one of the most energetic and enterprising of the early pioneers of the coal trade of Schuylkill county, and a number of new devices and appliances were introduced here by him. Mr. Abraham Pott is still living, now a resident of Port Carbon, and to him I am indebted for much valuable information relative to the subject of this sketch.

When John Pott, Sr., arrived here with his family in 1810 he took possession of the Alspach House, (before described), as his residence and it became the "Mansion House" of the Pott family. He had it weatherboarded and it was afterwards painted red. In that house was born Hannah Pott who was the granddaughter of John Pott, Sr., and daughter of Benjamin Pott and now Mrs. Lawrence F. Whitney, of Pottsville, who was the first female child born within the limits of what is now Pottsville.

The same year in which he removed to the new settlement, John Pott, Sr , built the stone grist mill, now occupied by Stein & Trough, and he carried on the business at it together with his furnace and forge. During the years 1815 and 1816, he erected a stone mansion for his own use, and in which he resided, on what is now the site of the brick dwelling house on Mauch Chunk street, occupied by Mr. Thomas Shollenberger; and Mr. Abraham Pott thinks part of the old stone foundation still remains. He also in 1816 built a barn opposite the place where Lauer's Brewery now stands.

In the same year 1816 he laid out the town of Pottsville in lots. Henry Donell was the surveyor who made the survey and plot. The survey was commenced at the corner of Centre street and Church Alley, and there the first stake was driven into the ground. From that point a line was run to the northeast corner of the square on which the Female Grammar School has since been located. The first plot embraced all the ground from Second street on the west to Railroad street on the east, and from Union street on the south to Laurel alley on the west side of Centre, and to High street on the east side of Centre, and also west of Second street from Norwegian street on the north to Union street on the south, and extending to Fifth street on the west. The names of the streets given in this description are the present names now known to the community. At the time he laid out the town, Mr. Pott gave to the people of Pottsville the ground of the square included between Centre street on the east and Second street on the west, and the two alleys now called High street and Laurel alley—for a burial ground and for a building for a school and for religious services to be held by any regularly ordained minister of any denomination.

The Thomas Swoyer house before described was the only one within the plot, and was therefore the first house within the limits of what was then the town of Pottsville. Mr. John Pott, Sr., subsequently extended the boundaries of the town by adding more ground to it, and afterwards other persons who had made real estate purchases adjoining, laid out additions, which have given local names to different portions of the borough. Among them may be mentioned Morris' Addition, laid out by Israel W. Morris through his son Henry Morris and Greenwood Addition laid out by Brook Buckley who had bought the ground from Benjamin Pott a son of John Pott Sr.

The family of John Pott, Sr., consisted of his wife Maria and nine children—John, Magdalina, Benjamin, James, Abraham, Mary, Catherine, William and Jacob—the only survivors to-day are Abraham Pott and Catherine now Mrs. Whitney.

In earlier days the old Sunbury road from Reading to Sunbury had been made at Pottsville to wind around upon the hill near where the iron monument has since been erected in honor of Henry Clay. From there its course was westwardly to the locations of the York Farm, Bull's Head and Minersville. What is now a considerable portion of Centre street was then a hemlock swamp, thickly covered with a laurel undergrowth; and a road for wagons could not be made through it until the turnpike company succeeded in establishing theirs.

The turnpike road was considered a very formidable undertaking and it was the opinion of many persons that the task which then seemed herculean was beyond the possibility of completion. During the years from 1807 to 1812 a great amount of work on the new road was done, in this neighborhood and we may say that the turnpike had been opened through in 1809. But it was in a very imperfect state. Many places where stones were needed were still covered only with the original ground and

6th Battalion : Officers—Major, Conrad Leiller; Lieut., John Miller; privates, John Hill, Henry Lark.

7th Battalion : Officers—Col., Sebastian Levan; Adj., Samuel Ely; privates, Philip Wisters, Casper Smeck.

Colonel Mark Bird, of the 2nd Battalion, was one of the judges of the election. Daniel Roberdeau was elected the first brigadier-general, and James Ewing, the second. Mark Bird received seven votes. Eight candidates were placed in nomination.

COUNTY RETURNS FOR 1777.

Colonel Jacob Morgan and his sub-lieutenants met at Reading on April 25, 1777, for the purpose of receiving returns of the inhabitants of Berks County, between the ages of 18 and 53 years. The number then returned was about 4000. These were arranged in six districts, and meetings were ordered to be held on the 5th and 6th of May following, for the purpose of electing officers and forming companies. Morgan reported that he had forwarded to the Executive Council an exact list of the field officers, captains, subalterns and court-martial men, comprising the six battalions of the Berks County militia, or one battalion for each district. This list appears in the Pennsylvania Associators, vol. 2, pp. 257 to 276. The several battalions were returned on May 16, 1777. I have added the sections of the county showing where the companies were organized.

RECEIPT BOOK OF COL. LOTZ.

In 1893, I saw the receipt book of Col. Nicholas Lotz in which receipts were taken for moneys paid from August 12, 1780, to December 5, 1781. The total amount was $202,033. Some of the items were reckoned in pounds, shillings and pence, but the most of them were in dollars. In this we have undoubted evidence that the county performed her whole duty in the struggle. A great part of the amount was paid in currency, which was never redeemed, whereby he and others suffered great losses.

PROMINENT INDUSTRIES.

Twelve prominent iron industries were carried on successfully in the county during the Revolution. They were situated in the four sections of the county, along strong streams of water, as follows:

Furnaces.

Oley, in Oley, on Manatawny Creek.
Mt. Pleasant, in Colebrookdale, on West Branch of Perkiomen.
Hopewell, in Union, on French Creek.
Berkshire, in Heidelberg, on tributary of Tulpehocken Creek.

Reading Furnace is frequently taken as of Berks County, but it was situated in Chester County not far from the Berks County line.

Forges.

Pine, Spring and Oley in Douglass, District, and Oley, on Manatawny Creek.
Mt. Pleasant, in Colebrookdale, on West Branch.
Bird's, in Robeson, on Hay Creek.
Gibraltar, in Robeson, on Allegheny Creek.
Moselem, in Richmond, on Ontelaunee Creek.
Charming, in Tulpehocken, on Tulpehocken Creek.

the settlement. A company of 50 or 60 men was raised for this purpose.

ACCOUNT BOOK OF COL. LUTZ.

In 1895 I saw the account book of Col. Nicholas Lutz in which receipts were taken for moneys paid from August 12, 1780, to December 4, 1781. The total payment was [illegible]. Some of the items were [illegible] to generals, soldiers and guards, but the most of them were to [illegible]. In this we have undoubted evidence that Col. Lutz performed his whole duty in the [illegible]. A great part of the amount was paid in [illegible], which afterwards depreciated, whereby he and others suffered great losses.

Oley, in Oley, on Manatawny Creek.
Mt. Pleasant, in Colebrookdale, on West Branch of Perkiomen.

Berkshire, in Heidelberg, on tributary of Tulpehocken Creek.
Cornwall Furnace is now situated in Lebanon County, but it was situated in Lancaster County, not far from the Berks County line.

Iron Masters.—The iron masters, who were the proprietors of the foregoing industries, were Mark Bird, John Patton, John Lesher, David Potts, John Old, Daniel Udree, George Ege and Christian Lower. The assessed value of the property of these men in the different sections of the county amounted to a very large sum in the aggregate, showing that they were in a situation to contribute a strong influence towards the successful prosecution of the war for the Revolution. They supplied the Continental Government with cannon balls, cast iron and wrought iron in various shapes, and they co-operated heartily in the great social movement for representative government. Their assistance was of the greatest consequence and cannot be overestimated. We can take great pride in the fact that the county then possessed such enterprising, public-spirited and patriotic men.

Other Industries.—There were other industries that are equally worthy of mention, such as numerous grist mills, saw mills, gun factories, wheelwright shops and blacksmith shops. These were also situated along the strong streams in different sections of the county and rendered great assistance to Congress and the Council. Nicholas Lotz, Sebastian Levan and Daniel Brodhead were three extensive millers, and Valentine Eckert and Christian Lower were two influential blacksmiths, who identified themselves prominently in the public affairs that related to the Revolution. Knapsacks and gun barrels were made in different parts of the county. And numerous energetic, hopeful and persistent farmers constituted the very foundation of the public welfare.

INTRODUCTION

PUBLISHED ARCHIVES GENERAL INFORMATION:

THE INFORMATION IN THIS BOOK IS EXTRACTED FROM THE VOLUMES OF THE PENNSYLVANIA ARCHIVES. DURING THE MID-1850'S MATERIAL FROM ORIGINAL DOCUMENTS OF THE COLONIAL PERIOD THROUGH THE LATE 1830'S WAS PRESERVED IN AN ORGANIZED, MORE ACCESSIBLE COLLECTION. MOST OF THE ORIGINAL DOCUMENTS ARE NO LONGER AVAILABLE AND IT IS PROBABLE THAT THEY WERE LOST OR DESTROYED. THE EXISTENCE OF MANY OF THE EARLY RESIDENTS OF PENNSYLVANIA IS RECORDED IN THE VOLUMES CALLED THE PUBLISHED PENNSYLVANIA ARCHIVES, CREATED FROM THOSE ORIGINAL DOCUMENTS. A VALUABLE REFERENCE FOR RESEARCHERS, THE PUBLISHED ARCHIVES CONSIST OF 9 SERIES OF VOLUMES. THE FIRST VOLUMES ARE REFERRED TO AS THE COLONIAL RECORDS, WITH THE REMAINDER DESIGNATED AS SERIES 2 THROUGH 9.

THIRD SERIES:

THE THIRD SERIES OF THE PUBLISHED ARCHIVES CONTAINS VOLUMES FOR EACH COUNTY IN EXISTENCE DURING THE TIME PERIOD. EACH COUNTY VOLUME IS SEPARATED INTO YEARS, THEN INTO TOWNSHIPS UNDER EACH YEAR. THROUGH THE YEARS THE NUMBER OF TOWNSHIPS INCREASES AS LARGER TOWNSHIPS ARE DIVIDED AND NEW TOWNSHIPS ARE FORMED. THE NAMES OF THE PERSONS ASSOCIATED WITH A COUNTY, TAX INFORMATION, NUMBER OF ACRES, NUMBER OF ANIMALS, AND NUMBER OF PERSONS IN THE HOUSEHOLD ARE INCLUDED IN SOME OF THE ENTRIES. THERE ARE LISTINGS OF SINGLE PERSONS, NONRESIDENTS, AND LANDOWNERS. SOMETIMES THE OCCUPATION IS GIVEN, AN ESTATE ADMINISTRATOR IS MENTIONED, OR A DECEASED PERSON IS NOTED.

BERKS COUNTY PORTION:

VOLUME 18, THE BERKS COUNTY PORTION OF THE PUBLISHED PENNSYLVANIA ARCHIVES, IS AN IMPORTANT TOOL FOR THE BERKS COUNTY RESEARCHER. IT ENCOMPASSES MUCH OF THE INFORMATION ABOVE AND COVERS THE PERIOD FROM 1767 TO 1785. NOT ALL THE YEARS ARE REPRESENTED. THE MOST IMPORTANT YEARS ARE 1767 (THE EARLIEST AVAILABLE) AND 1784 (THE MOST INFORMATION INCLUDED). ALTHOUGH BERKS COUNTY WAS ESTABLISHED IN 1752, THE PUBLISHED ARCHIVES DOES NOT INCLUDE THAT DATA. THE NEXT READILY AVAILABLE SOURCE FOR BERKS COUNTY AFTER 1785 IS THE FEDERAL CENSUS OF 1790.

HEADING CODES:

THE FIRST COLUMN IS THE NAME OF THE TAX PAYER/LAND OWNER. THAT NAME COULD REPRESENT A PRINCIPLE RESIDENT, NON-RESIDENT, OR SINGLE PERSON. IF THE OCCUPATION OF THE PERSON IS LISTED IN THE ORIGINAL, IT WILL APPEAR BEHIND THE NAME. THE SECOND COLUMN IS THE PAGE NUMBER OF THE VOLUME IN THE PUBLISHED PENNSYLVANIA ARCHIVES. THE THIRD COLUMN IS THE TOWNSHIP WHERE THE PERSON WAS RECORDED. THE REMAINING 6 COLUMNS ARE (IN ORDER) A = NUMBER OF ACRES; H = NUMBER OF HORSES; C = HEAD OF CATTLE; S= NUMBER OF SHEEP; T = TAX; #-P = NUMBER OF PEOPLE IN THE HOUSEHOLD. BE CAUTIOUS ABOUT THE NUMBER OF PERSONS IN THE HOUSEHOLD; THEY MAY NOT ALL BE IMMEDIATE FAMILY. THERE COULD BE MOTHERS-IN-LAW, COUSINS, UNCLES, ORPHANS, DOMESTICS, FARM-HANDS OR OTHER WORKERS INCLUDED IN THE FIGURES.

"Norwegian township* is bounded on the north by Broad Mountain, northeast by Schuylkill township, south by Manheim, southwest by Branch and Barry, and west by Mahantango township.

"This township, though covered with mountains and hills, and containing little arable land of good quality, is one of the most important ones in Schuylkill County, if not in the State, and has been the scene of wondrous improvements. . . . . Before 1790 there were, comparatively speaking, few settlers north of the Blue or Kittatinny Mountains, within the limits of Schuylkill County. About the years 1795 or 96, two individuals, Lewis Reese and Isaac Thomas, settled on the north side of the well-known Schneid Berg, i. e. Sharp† Mountain in Schuylkill Gap, having purchased a tract of land and erected a small furnace, carrying it on for some time. They sold it to John Pott of District township, Berks County."

The author in a note adds that this John Pott's father, Wilhelm Pott,‡ came to America in 1734, with eighty-nine Palatines from Rotterdam; and goes on to say that, according to the statement of Abraham Pott, the son of John, the first coal was discovered here in 1807, when digging the foundation of a furnace.

In an account of the "early history and development of coal in Schuylkill County,"§ the authors of which were residents of Pottsville, is the following: "The first traditional account we have of the discovery of coal in the Schuylkill region is about 1790, when Nicho Allen, a noted hunter and somewhat notorious character, who lived on the Broad Mountain at the 'Black Cabin,' or Big Spring, discovered stone coal at the foot of Broad Mountain. No written account of his discovery has ever come to our notice, though we have often heard the traditional account." The next mention of the early history of coal in Schuylkill is in the "Trans-

About the year 1800 John Put, son of the before-named Wilhelm, from Rotterdam, purchased a portion of the Norwegian tract, and established a forge; and in 1816, when the coal began to attract attention, he laid out the town of Pottsville, which is said to have been named for him. It is a singular coincidence that the name should thus commemorate the first discoverer of the coal. Two neighboring villages are called St. Clair and Morrisville, in memory of persons who were associated with Thomas and Samuel Potts in the purchase of the land.

No relationship is known to exist between the family of Put and the subjects of this memorial. One of the grandsons of Wilhelm was living a few years ago in the neighborhood of Pottstown, who still spelt his name Put. A survival of Norway and the Norwegian tract appears in Norwegian Street, Pottsville. In 1812, when Shoemaker took several loads of coal to Philadelphia, a son of Colonel Potts, then living there, who knew his father's belief in its value, had some of it carried to a smith named Goodman, at the corner of Crown and Callowhill Streets, who was engaged in casting cannon for government, and after much persuasion induced him to try it; but from want of proper knowledge and means for burning it, Goodman declared it worthless, saying he could heat it as he could a stone, but that it would not burn.

One of the slaves of Colonel Potts who assisted the French Creek miners to bore for coal, and carried the chain for the surveyor who laid off the land, lived to an advanced age, and is still remembered by several of the grandchildren of his former owner. His name was Peter Sebastian. His master gave him the trade of a shoemaker, and freed him. His talk about the coal mines on Schuylkill, a knowledge of which he must have gained as an eye-witness (for the subject was one then unknown to most of his white countrymen), is still recollected by the older descendants of Colonel Potts.

which to build a furnace and also leave to cut as much timber on "lands adjacent as shall suffice to erect the same." This was the origin of the famous Warwick Furnace.

In 1742 Benjamin Franklin invented "an open fireplace for the better warming of rooms and at the same time saving fuel as the fresh air admitted was warmed in entering." He "made a present of the model to Robert Grace," who started the profitable casting of these stoves at Warwick Furnace. They gained such popularity that "towards the close of the 18th century they were much used in Paris."

During the Revolution the furnace at Warwick was busy casting cannon and shell for the Continentals, and its approaches were carefully guarded. It was used by Washington as headquarters from September 18 to 20, 1777. Lead clock weights, which were taken for making bullets by the soldiers from many Chester County houses, "were replaced by iron ones which were cast at Warwick in great numbers."

Thomas M. Potts, a brother of David Potts, Jr., erected a foundry about a mile below Warwick Furnace on the South Branch of French Creek where for about two years he produced "castings of various kinds and patterns." He married a daughter of John Templin, who during the Revolutionary War operated nearby at "Warren Point" a small iron furnace making cannonballs for the Continental Army.

Warwick Furnace went out of blast in 1867, and both it and Warren Point, with their fine old mansions, belong now to Mr. Joseph N. Pew, Jr. Remains of the old Warwick Furnace hearth and the charcoal house, as well as the slag pile, are still fascinating to students of early iron manufacturing methods.

William Branson, a partner of Samuel Nutt in Coventry and later of his widow and nephew, took over Reading Furnace alone when the partnership was dissolved in 1739. He was one of the great figures in the early iron business in Pennsylvania. In 1742, he purchased and in the following year started the famous Windsor Forges in Caernarvon Township in Lancaster County and became a pioneer in steel—"being the owner, in 1737, of the Vincent Steel Works on French Creek in Chester County." He also had a steel furnace in Philadelphia said to have been "near where Thomas Penn first lived in Upper Chestnut Street." A description of the Vincent Works on French Creek in Chester County, in 1756, states that "there is a steel furnace built with a draught hold and called an 'air oven.' In this, iron bars are set at a distance of an inch East Bradford Township, on the East Branch of the Brandywine at Cope's Bridge. Edge T. Cope's stepmother was a daughter of Jesse Kersey of the Brandywine Iron Works, and his father was a first cousin of Jonathan Cope, who owned the nearby tilt mill. In 1870 it was called the "Brandywine Works" and in 1883 "E. T. Cope's Sons, Machinists." The small settlement which grew up around these works was known as Copesville. They were founders and expert machinists, manufacturers of paper mill machinery, board machinery, cider mill screws, press screws, jack screws, sausage cutters, water wheels, pumps of every description, iron casings, and wheels of any desired shape.

Isabella Furnace—On April 1, 1835, Henry Potts and John P. Rutter secured 49 acres on Perkins Run in West Nantmeal Township on which they erected this furnace. In 1836 it was owned by Henry Potts, David Potts, and John P. Rutter. Later Robert and Joseph Potts secured an interest. By 1845 David Potts, who had formerly operated Springton Forge, secured 6/7ths of the furnace property. Later William A. Smith became associated with David Potts and the firm was known as "Potts and Smith." The furnace prospered until 1855. Iron ore came from St. Mary's and St. Peter's in Warwick Township. In 1855 Robert S. Potts and Addison May secured control. In 1856 it was sold to John Irey and James Rutter. In 1860 John Irey acquired the sole interest. In 1864 it was purchased by Butley, William, Levi, and Horace Smith of Joanna Furnace, in Berks County, who operated it until 1880 when it was sold to Colonel Joseph P. Potts, a successful civil engineer and son of David Potts. Colonel Potts equipped it with steam power, and the production increased to 16 tons per day instead of from 20 to 30 tons per week under the water system. The last blast was made in 1894 because larger and newer furnaces were established throughout Pennsylvania. The property now belongs to Mr. William M. Potts, and one can still see the ironmaster's house, and the old furnace, both of which are illustrated in Futhey and Cope's "History of Chester County."

Triadelphia Iron Works, Later the Viaduct Mill—This was founded in 1837 by James Yearsley and John Forsythe just north of where the Pennsylvania Railroad crosses the West Branch of the Brandywine at Coatesville. John Forsythe withdrew in 1846, and in 1851 James Yearsley sold the establishment to the firm of Steele and Worth for $25,191.50, about which time it became miles behind Chester I passed by an iron forge; the ore, however, is not dug here, but 30 miles hence where it is first melted in the oven and carried to this place. The bellows were made of leather, and both they and the hammers and even the hearth were but small in proportion to ours. All the machines were worked by water, the iron was wrought into bars."

Rebecca Furnace—This furnace was built by Mordecai Peirsol, about 1764, in West Nantmeal Township. In 1788, he was assessed with a furnace, grist and saw mills, and 180 acres. Jones Mine, from which the furnace drew its supply of iron ore, and Rebecca Furnace are shown on a map of Pennsylvania dated 1792. In 1793, the owners were Jacob Vinance, Thomas Rutter, Sarah May, and Samuel Potts. In 1794, it was discontinued because the farmers refused to sell wood for charcoal.

Springton Forge—This forge, on the east branch of the Brandywine, about seven miles north of Downingtown, was originally built in 1766, and took its name from the Penn Manor of Springton. In 1816, it belonged to Isaac W. Van Leer of the Reading Forge family, and in the 1830s it was operated by David Potts, later of Isabella Furnace. In 1847, it appears as a property of Dr. J. B. Crisman. In 1860 and in 1873, it appears as a property of McIlvain and Cornog. In 1883, Springton Forge was on the 153½-acre tract of John Cornog, who, in 1893, appears to have been still operating Springton Forge, employing a force of 100 men. He also ran a marble quarry in which the stone was cut for Girard College, at Philadelphia.

Vincent Forge—This is frequently mentioned in eighteenth century records and was located on French Creek below Coventry where it appears in W. Scull's map of Pennsylvania, 1770.

On October 29, 1767, John Davis warned persons from purchasing Vincent Forge, advertised by the sheriff as the property of George and Myrick Davis, as he had bought it of the last sheriff and paid all the purchase money. On March 10, 1768, John Davis offered it for sale with 200 acres, forge, three fires, two hammers, and in addition between 200 and 300 acres of timberland. On March 9, 1769, John Evans and John Davis offered it for sale. On March 2, 1781, John Young of Vincent devised his forge to his son John at the age of 21. In 1785-87, his wife, Susannah, held it, probably in trust. In 1788, James Templin seems to have had previously been in that position under the former owners. John Potts immediately improved the property with a gristmill, blacksmith shop, cooper shop, and a store. The workmen were Negro slaves and white "redemptioners." From the year 1771 Colonel William Dewees appears to have been the resident manager at Mount Joy. The iron used at this forge was hauled by teams from Warwick Furnace. A third forge seems to have been erected in 1771 on the Chester County side of Valley Creek, almost opposite Mount Joy which was known as the "Upper Forge" or "Valley Forge," the firm being "Potts and Dewees." In 1777 after the battle of Brandywine, a detachment of British soldiers was sent to the Valley Creek under Colonel Grey where they destroyed this forge, together with property belonging to William Dewees to the amount of £4171, including two large stone dwelling houses, two coal houses, four hundred loads of coal, and twenty-two hundred bushels of wheat and rye in the sheaf. In the winter of 1777-78 General Washington made the neighborhood the site of his encampment and took up his headquarters in the house of Mrs. Deborah Hewes near Colonel Dewees' residence. A bell which had been cast at Warwick Furnace in 1757 to call the men to work was then used to warn the approach of the enemy, so that ordnance could be buried and prevented from falling into their hands.

About 1778, a fourth, the "Dewees Forge," was erected on the Montgomery County side of Valley Creek, directly below the old Mount Joy Forge, which, after 1798, passed into the hands of Colonel Rogers.

After the Revolutionary War a forge seems to have been "erected about three fourths of a mile farther down the stream on the Montgomery County side," and a slitting mill on the Chester County side by Isaac Potts and his brother David. In 1786 they were operated under the firm name of "Isaac Potts & Company," the "Company" being David Potts, Isaac's brother, and his son, James. Subsequent owners were Joseph Potts, Ralph Peacock, Rebecca Robbins, Jacob Vogdes, and John Rogers, and his partner-manager, Joshua Malin. Malin rebuilt the rolling and slitting mill. A tilt mill was in one end and between the main building and the dam was a small foundry. A three-story stone building was commenced for the manufacture of hardware. In 1816 Rogers bought Malin's half interest, and James Wood and Isaac Smedley appear as partners. Wood completed the hardware factory for saws, shovels, spades, files, etc., and operated the rolling mill for plate and sheet and band iron, the iron used in the rolling mill coming apart. Between them are scattered horn, coal dust, ashes, etc. The iron bars are thus covered with blisters, and this is called 'blister steel.' It serves as the best steel to put upon edge tools." William Branson died in 1760.

In 1770 Reading Furnace was leased to James Old, who, on September 19, 1777, had as his guest, General Washington, when the latter came there with a portion of his army and wrote a letter from Reading Furnace of that date. The Continentals took from James Old, later to become a famous ironmaster in Lancaster County, "One Hundred and Eighty Bushels of Oats—Sixty Bushels of Barley—Seven tons five hundred pounds of good Hay—five Good Fat Sheep—One Large fat Steer, Suposed to weigh 600 pounds, Three Hand Screws & Six Buckets" and pastured "About Two Hundred Heads of Horses and Cattle for one day." Between 1778 and 1783 "Rutter and Potts," who seem to have been at that time operating Warwick, purchased this property from the heirs of William Branson's sons-in-law and discontinued the furnace. In 1788 Captain Samuel Van Leer, grandson of William Branson, had evidently reacquired the Reading property for he "was assessed with a forge, which, it is said, he built on the site of the old furnace." This "was carried on successfully for many years" by "Captain Van Leer and Sons," but William Van Leer, the second son, who had the chief management, died at the age of 32 and after the dam breast broke it "was never re-built." The property now belongs to Mr. Arthur E. Pew, Jr., who has greatly enlarged the old ironmaster's house.

Mount Joy or Valley Forge—The "mountain" from which this forge took its name is said to have been called so by William Penn. A forge was built here in 1718 by Lewis Walker on the Chester County side of Valley Creek which was abandoned when a second forge was erected on the Montgomery County side in 1742 under the firm name of "Walker and Company," by David Walker, Lewis Evans, and Joseph Williams. They sold out on March 12, 1757, to John Potts. Acrelius, in his "History of New Sweden" in 1759, mentions two iron works in the "Great Valley." The locations are unknown to the writer, but there seems to have been another forge near Mount Joy for on September 26, 1751, Stephen Evans and Joseph Williams advertised "for sale a two-thirds interest in three hundred and seventy five acres near the mouth of Valley Creek, with a forge and sawmill thereon." James Hockley was put in charge of Mount Joy Forge under the Potts ownership, having apothecary, two cabinetmakers, three tailors, one cedar cooper, two oak coopers, three butchers, two plasterers, one watchmaker, one mason, one chairmaker, three blacksmiths, two hatters, one saddler, one milliner, one tanner, one barber, four carpenters and four shoemakers.

Levi Pawling, member of the bar and member of Congress, bought a large extent of the Markley holdings north of the original Town of Norris, ranging from Stony Creek, on the west, to Violet Street, on the east. He encountered financial reverses, and by the sale of his lands John Boyer, president of the Montgomery Bank, in 1835, became the owner of a farm of 105 acres. He erected some dwellings, but most of the tract he divided into plots which he sold to real estate operators. Isaac Roberts, William H. Slingluff and Mordecai R. Moore bought the greater part of the Boyer lands, opened numerous streets and built many houses. This brought about the development of DeKalb, Swede and other streets north of Airy in the middle of the nineteenth century.

With the expansion of the borough westward, in 1853, that region became the scene of real estate endeavors on a large scale that continued down to the present century.

Already in 1854 the name Brag Hill was applied to this territory west of Stony Creek because of the rosy claims made by speculators selling lots there. The West End was pictured as a Land of Promise. In 1855 the Herald reported that speculation in town lots was "raging" on Brag Hill and that farm land cut up into building sites was selling at $2000 an acre.

Gabriel Kohn and Laurence E. Corson were leaders in these enterprises. In 1853 they bought 76 acres of the Chain farm for $46,000. Within a few years they sold most of the tract as building lots. West of the Kohn and Corson tracts Thomas P. Knox owned a large farm which in time became an attractive residential district.

In the present century the main expansion of the town has been northward.

Pottstown—The second borough to be incorporated in the county was Pottstown, in 1815. It was an older community than Norristown. In the eighteenth century it was called Pottsgrove. The first post office in the county was opened here, in 1793.

The name indicates the preeminence of the Potts family in the early development of the place. John Potts, in 1752, bought 990 acres where Pottstown later came into existence. He was the son of Thomas Potts, who had joined with members of the Rutter family in operating early iron works. The year after buying the land John Potts laid out his town, naming it Pottsgrove. He followed the plan of Philadelphia's rectangular streets. Some of his street names are still in use, such as King, Queen, York, Hanover and Charlotte, suggestive of English royalty.

After donating a site for a Quaker meetinghouse and another for a church for the Germans, together with burial grounds, John Potts began to sell building lots. There was no great demand for them, but by the time of the American Revolution the settlement comprised about 20 dwellings, besides two gristmills, the Quaker meetinghouse and a tavern.

POTTSTOWN—RUPERT GRADE SCHOOL

John Potts' own house was on the main highway to Reading, near Manatawny Creek. It was called Mill Park. The State of Pennsylvania acquired the house and grounds in 1941 and placed them in the custody of the Pottstown Historical Society.

After John Potts' death, in 1768, three of his sons lived at Pottsgrove. Thomas, the eldest, was an officer in the American army in the Revolution. Samuel was part owner of Warwick Furnace, in Chester County. John Potts, Jr., was a justice of the peace, but in the Revolution his sympathies were on the side of Great Britain. His property was confiscated by the state and sold, and he fled to Nova Scotia. A fourth son, Dr. Jonathan Potts, who practiced medicine in Reading, joined the American army as a surgeon and became director general of the army's middle medical department.

Being founded 30 years before Norristown, having the first post office in the county and possessing a bridge across the Schuylkill as early as 1821, eight years before the bridge at Norristown was built, Pottstown for many years felt it was a town of county-seat caliber, and, since its situation precluded it from being the county seat of Montgomery County, it was believed desirable to create a new county from upper Montgomery, lower Berks and part of Chester, with Pottstown as the seat. Various bills toward that end were introduced in the Legislature in the first half of the nineteenth century, but success was never attained.

The pioneer iron works of colonial times in the region northwest of Pottstown were succeeded by furnaces and rolling mills in and about Pottstown in later years, contributing greatly to Pottstown's prosperity. During the flourishing period of the iron mills, Pottstown's population increased from 2,380, in 1860, to 13,696, in 1900. The census of 1940 gave the population as 20,194.

Pottstown voted in 1913 on a proposal to become a city, but only 187 voters favored the change, while 1753 opposed it.

Conshohocken—Borough incorporation for Conshohocken was obtained in 1850. But the name of the place is much older than the community. The name is of Indian origin and was in use before the white man came to Pennsylvania. It first came to attention as the name of a range of hills extending from the Schuylkill eastward—the range that includes Militia Hill, Fort Hill, Camp Hill, Church Hill and Edge Hill. The Conshohocken Hills are mentioned in agreements made between the settlers and the Indians in 1683 and 1685. The usual translation of the name is "pleasant valley," though the authorities of the Smithsonian Institution believe it means land overgrown with briars.

An interesting legend relates how the old Indian name was given to the borough incorporated in 1850. The story goes that a group of citizens of the place met in Norristown to arrange preliminary details for incorporation. Then the matter of a name was discussed, several were proposed. It was decided to write the names on slips of paper, place them in a hat and have a drawing, the third name taken from the hat to be accepted. The group comprised James Wells, James Wood, Isaac Jones, David Harry had exposed considerable black earth and rock. Variations of these two stories have been told about other "discoverers of coal." I have no doubt that the above stories have some foundation in fact, but the truth is, stone coal in the Schuylkill region was known to many people for a considerable time before this date, and coal must have been discovered in some such accidental manner, and rediscovered by others, many times. A third method of discovery was that by which Colonel Thomas Potts, of Pottsgrove and Coventry, first found stone coal on Norwegian Creek. At the close of the Revolutionary War, in which Colonel Potts had taken an active part, he went, as was his occasional custom, with his servants and Indian guides, to hunt in the wilderness (St. Anthony's Wilderness) of the Tuscarora Mountains, a name given on early maps to the mountains in the Schuylkill region north of the Blue Mountain. While encamped on the west branch of the Norwegian Creek, not far from the present site of Pottsville, he stooped to drink of the stream and noticed some black stones which he picked up and examined. He had had early training as a metallurgist and his knowledge of ores assured him that this was coal. Years later Abraham Pott, the son of John Pott (not Potts), who founded Pottsville, used much the same method to prospect for coal during the period when coal lands first became highly valuable. He himself tells how he would follow a small stream of water from its mouth, towards its source, looking for waterworn pebbles of the black rock which would often stop appearing in the bed of the creek when the outcrop of coal had been reached and passed. Of course in the pioneer days, before roads or quarries, and few or no excavations of any kind, and with nothing except the primitive forest at hand, no outcrops could be seen except the accidental exposure occasioned by freshets at the side of some stream.

But Thomas Potts was not the first man to find coal in our vicinity, although it is extremely probable that he was the first to make a real attempt to develop the coal lands, to utilize their contents and to commercialize his discovery. William Scull on his map of the Province of Pennsylvania, published April 4, 1770, presents conventional signs on his map marked "coal," one not far from the Potts discovery, two others farther west on the West Branch of the Schuylkill east and west of Llewellyn, and two more somewhere farther north on the Mahanoy. Scull in preparing his map got help from the various draughts on file in the Land Office of the State of Pennsylvania made by various Surveyors General of the State and their deputies over the period of years since the Indian purchase. These surveyors in going into the wilderness of back country, surveying on the settlers' warrants on their trips were accompanied by assistants and guides; Philip Martzloff, whose family was massacred by the Indians in 1763, both John Fincher and his son John, Francis Yarnall, Benjamin Parvin, John and Isaac Willets, James Jordan, and others from this region were with the surveyors on the expedition to make the Provincial Road of 1759. It is quite apparent, therefore, that the entire Quaker contingent in Exeter, Maiden Creek, and north of the Blue Mountain, because many of them were either surveyors, or had accompanied the Quaker surveyors in some capacity, must have known of the coal outcrops at a very early date. Philip Martzloff was a German, and Thomas, Samuel and Henry Basler, Henry Coppenhaver, John Garber, Baltzer Gehr, Charles Shoemaker, and others who owned warrants on or near Norwegian Creek and sold to the Norwegian Company before 1784, also Germans, seem to have known of the stone coal. Just how much further this knowledge extended among the settlers themselves, both Quaker and German, it is now impossible to say, but it is certain that many people knew of stone coal before the time of Necho Allen.

Stone coal was known at an early date, but no man attempted to use it, so far as we know, before Colonel Thomas Potts. The ordinary settler had no use for it; he had enough wood for heating purposes, but Potts dreamed of utilizing coal in his iron furnaces at Coventry. One of the difficulties experienced at these iron furnaces was the enormous quantities of wood consumed in them, so that at each furnace there came a time when it either was necessary to transport wood a long distance, or move the furnaces themselves to a new and better wooded locality; so that any new and cheaper fuel for them would have been indeed acceptable. We have seen how he is supposed to have made the discovery on Norwegian Creek, after which he returned home carrying a small quantity of the find with which he experimented at his iron works. He became convinced of the value of this new "mineral," and at once began to plan to secure possession of the lands which he felt contained it. He took up the Tuscaroras men from his iron mines skilled in mining ores, who under his directions, opened up several coal beds, and without loss of time, entered into negotiations with the owners of the warrants for land in the vicinity of his discoveries. He bought a connected series of ten tracts, comprising 2800 acres of land, and formed an unincorporated company of private individuals to help finance the purchase, and develop the land, consisting of himself, his brother Samuel, his nephew Nathaniel Potts, his cousin Samuel Baird, Colonel Francis Nichols and his son William, General Arthur St. Clair and Sharp Delaney. The deed issued to these eight men is dated March 5, 1784, and is from Baltzer Gehr and Charles Shoemaker, both of the County of Berks, for the "Norwegian Tract" in consideration of the sum of 2000 pounds gold and silver money of Pennsylvania. The only improvement mentioned in this deed is a "certain messuage or tenement and water saw mill." This sawmill was the one mentioned below as Basler's sawmill.

In March, 1784, there was passed an Act of Assembly by the State of Pennsylvania providing for the improvement of the Schuylkill, in order to furnish the country adjoining the same and the City of Philadelphia, coal, masts, spars, boards, etc. Another Act passed the same month appointed 22 commissioners; among these being Samuel Baird, a surveyor, one of the Norwegian Company, and possibly the man selected by Colonel Potts as superintendent of the new coal mines. This Act describes the extreme northern end of the Schuylkill as being under three commissioners one of whom was Samuel Baird; they were to care for the navigation

"from the mouth of the Tamaquay Creek to the Coal Mines, on Schuylkill at Basler Saw Mill."

Thomas Potts died a year later, March 22, 1785, and his associates then more or less quickly abandoned the enterprise. They sold their shares in the ten tracts to William and Luke Morris. In 1792 the land was in possession of Samuel Potts and the two Morris brothers. Samuel almost immediately sold his share to Isaac Thomas and Lewis Reese, who began to operate the sawmill or mills of the old Norwegian Company in quite an extensive manner for that day. But Samuel Potts never lost faith in the value of the mines and when he sold out the Potts interest in the tracts he reserved the right to all minerals and coal. This right was considered of such value that a separate deed was made reconveying to Samuel Potts and his heirs all the coal with the privilege of digging, making roads, etc. This right was known as the "Potts mineral reserve," or "Coal reserve." In the year 1826 Nathaniel Potts Hobart who was married to the only daughter of Samuel Potts bought out the other heirs and prosecuted these old "coal reserve" claims against various parties who were mining coal on the Norwegian lands at that date, and the courts at that time, and ever since at various other times, have definitely upheld the validity of the reservation, which is in great measure still in force on these lands.

The title to these ten tracts of land, both before and after mining on them had begun, is so intricate and involved and changed so often that a Brief of Title on them to date would cover many hundred printed pages.

We now come to a period of time when coal was actually mined and sold in small quantities. After the abandonment of the Norwegian Company enterprise, mainly through the death of Thomas Potts, no further development seems to have been made with a view of selling stone coal until the year 1800, when William Morris, one of the partial owners of the Norwegian tracts at that time, is said, upon good authority, to have hauled two wagon loads of stone coal, mined near Port Carbon, to the City of Philadelphia, without being able to induce any one at that place to use it.

Documentary material on this period is scarce; the only description of mining methods known to be in existence is in the shape of a short manuscript diary kept for a week by Robert E. Hobart of Pottstown, the owner of the Norwegian Coal Reserve rights, who himself evidently was making an effort to "quarry" coal. Nathaniel P. Hobart, his son, in giving testimony in a suit at law in the year 1844 says his father was digging coal "in the Gate Vein, out towards the saw mill" during the War of 1813-1814, but from evidence in the diary itself, which is undated, the occasion of which it speaks must have been about the years 1816 or 1817. The diary is very interesting giving a complete account of the primitive methods used in quarrying the coal. It is quite evident that these early miners did not understand the bedding of the coal but thought it occurred as a true vein; their favorite place for prospecting was near the summit of a hill, where it was thought the firmer rock strata formed a protective covering for the softer coal veins. They would select an outcrop of coal near the apex of a hill, sink a pit or shaft, and after reaching hard coal, follow it in a more or less haphazard fashion under the heavier rock roof, in and down, until disturbed by too much water; the coal was taken out of the pit by rope and bucket, usually on a windlass arrangement of some kind. There appears to have been more or less regular traffic by teams hauling coal at this time, as Mr. Hobart's teams, coming from the Pottstown region, had met other teams on the road, which had procured coal from other quarries on the Norwegian. The Hobart quarry was somewhere on the Gate Mountain ridge between present York Farm and old Centreville. Others working in the vicinity mentioned by Mr. Hobart were "Shoemaker," no doubt Colonel George of the inn at Norwegian, Necho Allen, and John "Putt." Thomas Swoyer was prospecting for others.

Nearly all of our accounts of early coal mention a man by the name of Whetstone, a blacksmith, using coal in the year 1795. In an article in the Miner's Journal, April 15, 1826, on the "Discovery of Coal," the writer fixes a much earlier date "forty years since" for Whetstone. This same article is the authority for the William Morris trip to Philadelphia in 1800 with a wagonload of coal, and for the story of David Berlin, a blacksmith, "in this neighborhood," who personally commenced to use stone coal about the year 1806 in his smith's forge, used it permanently, and instructed others in its use from time to time. The account also mentions a Peter Bastrous, a blue dyer, who discovered coal in digging a "tail race" at Valley Forge, no doubt referring to the early Valley Furnace erected about this time on the East Branch of the Schuylkill.

Advertisements began to appear in the Reading and Philadelphia newspapers offering stone coal, usually at eight cents per bushel; after the year 1814 these advertisements appeared from time to time at more or less short intervals. Among those offering the commodity were:

1812. The books of John Pott, of Greenwood Forge, show stone coal quarried in small quantities from 1812 to 1815, and Pott advertised it in the Reading newspapers from that date on until his death.

1812. Colonel George Shoemaker no doubt was working slightly before this date but it was in this year that he began to haul coal to Philadelphia and vicinity. I need not here repeat the old story of his first trip, and his disappointment in being unable to sell any of the article. It is quite certain, however, that on one of his early trips he did call it to the attention of Messrs. Mellon and Bishop of the Delaware County Rolling Mill, who were able to use the coal successfully.

Samuel Lewis, in his "Report to the Board of Trade of the Schuylkill Coal Mining Association," on the "History of Coal Mining in the Schuylkill Region," is good authority for the Shoemaker incident as Colonel Shoemaker was present at the reading of the report, and no doubt would have made objections to it if erroneous. Lewis tells of the successful use of the stone coal at Mellon and Bishop's establishment. The coal came from the Centreville tract.

The Greenwood works ran until shortly after the death of John Pott, Sr.; the last blast was made by Benjamin Pott, probably in 1828, possibly later. The Miner's Journal in September 12, 1828, says that John and Benjamin Pott were running the plant at that date, and that they were obtaining their ore from the neighborhood of Pottsgrove and Reading and transporting it by canal.

An account of Greenwood would be incomplete without the following which appeared in the Weekly Advertiser, Reading, April 21, 1810:

> "About the beginning of the present month as the wife of Mr. Schott, who lives at Pott's Forge, called Greenwood Forge, in Norwegian Township, in the forenoon was going to the springhouse, about 100 yards distant from the house, and had opened the door, a large wild cat bounced upon her, a half grown dog, luckily by, seized the monster, when the female hero caught hold of one of the hind legs and so well mauled his head with a wash stick, that she could drag him up to the house, where she took up an axe and finally dispatched him. He proved to be one of the largest of the Wild Cat kind."

Potash Industry—An attempt was made to manufacture potash as a commercial enterprise at an early date in Manheim Township near the present Seven Stars Hotel. All that is known about it is contained in a letter written by some unknown traveller "to a friend in Philadelphia," June 24, 1789, extracts of which were prescribe the necessary remedies. Very rarely would a physician make more than one visit. The doctor would compel a member of the family to report the condition of the patient to him at intervals of several days, when he would prescribe further as he thought proper. In this manner a physician could attend the sick of a great number of families and was able to cover a large scope of territory. Out of necessity, he travelled on horseback with his 'sewerick sock' or saddle bag slung over the seat of the saddle in which were stored his herbs. Many of the practitioners of this and later date attended a term of lectures, after which they began the practice of medicine.

Early Physicians—The pioneer physician of Berks County, so far as public record goes, was Dr. Jacques De La Planck. His medical education was received at the University of Basle, Switzerland, between 1696 and 1700, under the special instruction of Prof. Theodorus Zuingerus, who occupied the chair of the Practice of Medicine in that institution. He migrated to America soon after his graduation, being one of the first Huguenots. He landed at Germantown and tradition in the family has it, that, while on his way to a settlement in Berks County, he was detained at Oley through the importunities of a settler whose wife was very ill at the time. His skill in the successful treatment of his case won the confidence of the settlers who prevailed upon him to remain in their mildst. That he located in this county at a very early date is shown by the fact that, in 1720, he with a number of settlers of that district signed a petition requesting the Provincial Council to erect a new township to be called 'Oley.'

There was an interval of at least twenty-five years before the second physician located in our county in the person of Dr. George De Benneville, who besides the practice of medicine preached the gospel and taught school. He was of French Huguenot descent, but born in England, July 26, 1703. His father had been driven out of France on account of the persecution of the Huguenots by Louis XIV after the revocation of the edict of Nantes. His culture was received in the best schools of England, besides extensive travels on the continent. He migrated to Ameria and arrived at Germantown in 1742 or 1743. While a guest of Christopher Saur, the colonial printer and druggist, he met Jean Bertolet, who was on one of his semi-annual trips to Germantown. At the earnest solicitation of Mr. Bertolet he located in Oley Township in 1742 or 1743, the same year of his arrival in America. He practiced medicine in Berks County for fifteen years, when he removed to Philadelphia. There he acquired an extensive practice in his profession. He died in that city in 1793 and lies buried in a private cemetery at Branchtown, his country residence. Famed as he was in the practice of medicine, he however, today is better known as the Founder of Universalism in America.

The third physician that we have any record of was native born. Jonathan Potts was born at Colebrookdale in the lower part of Berks County, April 11, 1745; his parents were John Potts and Ruth Savage, and his grandfather was Thomas Potts, who was contemporary and a partner with Thomas Rutter, the pioneer iron-masters of our county. He was given all the educational advantages that wealth could give. He was sent to Ephrata, then recognized for its excellent preparatory school, and afterwards to Philadelphia. While at school in the latter city he decided upon medicine for his life work. He decided to go to Edinburgh, and was accompanied by Benjamin Rush, but did not remain more than a year when he returned to Philadelphia. After his arrival home he entered the Medical Institution of Philadelphia and was graduated as valedictorian in 1768 at its first commencement. He must have located in Reading soon after his graduation, for we find that he was possessed of enough worldly goods to be assessed in 1771. He became noted for his skill in his chosen profession, beside his activities in all public movements.

Soon after his location in Reading there was an outbreak of smallpox in which he encountered great opposition to vaccination. He wrote an article addressed to the German inhabitants in general and those of Berks County in particular on the "Utility of Vaccination." Fortunately this address is preserved for it was printed in the "Pennsylvania Staatsbote" in 1771, and can be found in the library of Pennsylvania Historical Society. It is still looked upon as a classic in defense of vaccination.

Besides his extensive medical practice, he early became actively identified in all the pre-revolutionary war activities—first as a delegate to the Provincial Council of Deputies in 1774, next as a member of the Provincial Congress in 1775 and in 1776 he was one of the first to begin organizing forces in Berks County. Upon urgent petition, he was appointed on July 6, 1776 as physician surgeon in the Continental Army, and on January 1, 1777 he was appointed by Washington director general of the Northern army. He was afterwards transferred to the middle department, where his activities were confined to the hospitals of Pennsylvania and New Jersey. He at one time had charge of the military hospitals at Bethlehem and Ephrata. He was denied the satisfaction of seeing his country free, for he died in October, 1781, at the age of 36 years.

In Dr. Bodo Otto, this county had the fourth physician to locate within its border. He was of distinguished ancestry and was born in the Kingdom of Hanover, Germany, in 1709. He was accorded the best educational advantages of the country, and was specially educated as a surgeon under the authority of his government in the University of Gottingen where he also received instruction in anatomy, physiology, botany and physics. After a number of years of practice in various military hospitals and prisons in his native land, he came to this country, landing in Philadelphia, Nov. 10, 1755. He first located in Philadelphia where he soon became highly appreciated for his literary, medical and surgical ability, and acquired a remunerative practice; but as the tide of German emigration was moving up the Schuylkill Valley, whose fertile lands were fast becoming occupied by a thrifty class of settlers,

Most persons familiar with history know that the Palatinate, used in a geographical sense, existed in two territorial divisions, upper and lower, as early as the eleventh century. The Lower,

First Settlers of Schuylkill County

NEUFERTS, WHETSTONES, POTTS

THERE were other settlers on the site of Pottsville before John Pott's advent. He was an iron master and established the forge and furnaces, in 1806, before removing here, in what was known as the orchard, near the Schuylkill River. He was a prominent citizen and did much toward the early establishment of the borough.

John Lesher, father of Maria Lesher, operated a furnace on Pine Creek and also a forge in Oley Township. John Lesher was a Deputy Wagon Master in the French and Indian War and a representative from Berks County to the Constitutional Convention, 1776, and a member of the General Assembly from 1776 to 1782. The Pott and Whitney families, of Pottsville, are descendants of Maria, daughter of John Lesher, and wife of John Pott.

Wilhelm Pott came to America, from Germany, 1734. He first settled in Germantown, Philadelphia, but removed early to Oley Township, Berks County. He died in 1767, leaving two children, John Wilhelm and John Pott. John^2 Pott married Maria Hoch, 1755. John^3 Pott was born January 16, 1759. He married Maria Lesher, July 9, 1765, and came to Pottsville from Oley, 1810. He laid out the borough, 1816, in the original plot, which included only the lots on each side of Centre Street, between Union and Race Streets, and the lots on both sides of Mahantongo as far as Sixth Street. He presented the lot to the borough, upon which the Grammar School building, North Centre Street, now stands, and the park in the rear, which was used as a George Werner, of Reilly Township, who died 1840, was a Revolutionary veteran. He was the father of Christopher Werner.

Edwin Schlicher was born in Upper Hanover Township, Montgomery County. He was of the fifth generation of Stoefel Schlicher, who came from the Palatinate, Germany, about 1740. His great grandfather, Henry Schlicher, served in the Revolutionary army. His grandfather, John, and his father, George, were farmers. Dr. J. H. Swaving's children are lineal descendants of Stoefel Schlicher.

George Simon Bressler, born in Manheim, Germany, February 22, 1722, came to Pennsylvania and the Tulpehocken, 1749. He died, 1802, and was buried at Hetzel's church, near Pinegrove. He was one of the first settlers in Pinegrove Township.

Emanuel Christ came to Berks County about 1750. He was a Captain in the Revolutionary War, Continental Line. He had a son Emanuel, whose son Isaac came to Mahantongo Valley, about 1780, when it was included in Pinegrove Township. He died 1837. The Christs were prominent in the Civil War. George M. Christ, of Ashland, and Colonel Benjamin Christ, of Minersville, were descendants of Emanuel Christ.

POTTS, HELMS, HESSERS

Peter^1 Helm came from the Rhine Palatinate, sailing from London, 1709, with the one hundred and fifty families for New York, who settled in Livingstone Manor. He was among the seventeen hundred who died shortly after landing. He left a son, Simon, who was the head of the Helm family in New York and Pennsylvania. Peter^7 D. Helms, of Pottsville, is a lineal descendant of Peter^1 Helm (Peter^6, Peter^5, Samuel^4, Peter^3, Simon^2, Peter^1.) Samuel^4 Helm removed from Sullivan County, New York, where the Helm home-

George Werner, of Kelly Township, who died 1842, was a Revolutionary veteran. He was the father of Christopher Werner.

Jacob Schlicher was born in Upper Hanover Township, Montgomery County. He was of the fifth generation of Stoffel Schlicher, who came from the Palatinate, Germany, about 1710. His great grandfather, Henry Schlicher, served in the Revolutionary army. His grandfather, John, and his father, George, were farmers. Dr. J. H. Swaving's children are lineal descendants of Stoffel Schlicher.

George Simon Bressler, born in Manheim, Germany, February 22, 1722, came to Pennsylvania and the Tulpehocken, 1749. He died, 1800, and was buried at Herold's church, near Pinegrove. He was one of the first settlers in Pinegrove Township.

Emanuel Christ came to Berks County about 1750. He was a Captain in the Revolutionary War, Continental Line. He had a son Emanuel, whose son Isaac came to Mahantongo Valley about 1786 when it was included in Pinegrove Township. He died 1837. The Christs were prominent in the Civil War. George M. Christ, of Ashland, and Colonel Benjamin Christ, of Minersville, were descendants of Emanuel Christ.

stead, erected 1715, is still in possession of one of the family, to Berks County, Pa., and from there migrated to Pike County, Pa., where Peter^5 was born. The latter settled near McKeansburg, removing subsequently to Womelsdorf and thence to Myerstown, Pa., where Peter^6 was born. Peter Helms, with his son, Peter D. Helms, of Pottsville, removed to Schuylkill Haven, 1852. Peter D. Helms married Elizabeth, daughter of Rev. Richard Edwards, a pioneer Welsh preacher, by whom he had seven children. Samuel^4 Helm was a soldier in the Revolutionary War.[1]

The descendants of Simon and other children of Peter^1 Helm are settled in Kentucky, New Jersey, Ohio, Pennsylvania, New York and other states. The Helms of the fourth generation were numerous in the War of the Revolution.

The Heplers, of Schuylkill County, are represented by five generations, in Eldred Township. They were of the earliest pioneers and came from Berks County, about 1780.

A. A. Hesser, deceased, station agent at Schuylkill Haven, was a son of Henry Hesser, and a direct descendant of Frederick Hesser, a drummer boy in the Revolutionary War, buried in St. John's cemetery, Orwigsburg, Pennsylvania.

The Potts family came to Philadelphia, about 1682, emigrating from England with William Penn. John Potts was born there. His son Thomas married Elizabeth Luken, 1750. He was a member of the Continental Congress, 1775. His son, Hugh H. Potts, was born in New Jersey, 1773. He was the father of George H. Potts and an officer in the first United States Army. In 1800 he married Elizabeth, daughter of Captain John Hughes, who was in the Revolutionary War during the entire struggle. George H. Potts was born in Delaware, 1811, and removed to Pottsville, 1829, where he engaged in mining operations. He married a daughter of George M. Cumming, a sister of Attorney Benjamin Cumming, Sr., and of Mrs. G. W. Snyder. He removed to New York, 1853, where he died. Joseph Harris, deceased, President of the Philadelphia and Reading Railway Company, a former resident, was married to two of his daughters. George Potts, of Pottsville, now of New York, was a son of George H. Potts.

William Audenried, son of Lewis Audenried, who emigrated from Switzerland, 1789, to Kutztown, Berks County, about 1810, was elected to the State Senate, 1824, having served as a Justice of the Peace for Brunswick Township for five years and as a member of the Legislature for two terms. To him is accredited having said, in that body, that "Schuylkil County had no coal, only a lot of black stone in its soil."

John Macomb Wetherill removed to Pottsville, from Philadelphia, 1846, at the age of eighteen years, engaging in the management of coal lands for the Wetherill family, who were large owners. His great grandfather, Samuel Wetherill, was a Quaker but discarded his religious tenets at the breaking out of the Revolutionary War and was at the head of the sect known as the Free or Fighting Quakers. He was never married and died in Pottsville, 1884.

Francis Wade Hughes, Attorney at Law, was born in Montgomery County, 1817. His father, John Hughes, was one of the family of that name who came over with the Penns. His mother was the daughter of Benjamin Bartholomew, who was a Captain of Cavalry during the Revolutionary War.

John Hoffman came from the vicinity of Heidelberg, Germany, about 1740 and settled in Lancaster County, afterward Dauphin, 1785. His wife was of Huguenot stock and six generations inter-married with the descendants of those who had left Alsace and Lorraine after the edict of Nantes was revoked. Peter, of the second generation, was a Revolutionary soldier. The paternal names of John and Peter have alternated all along the line to the present bearer

The Shoup and Putt family history shared by Jan Putt Neville.

Re-typed for Shoup and Putt family by Jane Curci

This is 1954 and is the hundredth year of the borough of Saxton, in the community of the once thriving place where I was born in the year of 1872.
I am now in my 81st year. Miles M. Blake

See Faust and Brumbaugh's Lists of Swiss Emigrants in the 18th Century to The American Colonies.
Sebastian and Elspeth had issue:
Elizabeth bapt 1734;
Hans Heinrich bapt 1735; (Could this be our Sarah (Shoup) Putt's father, Henry?)
Anna bapt 1739 Sissach;
Sebastian (see above) who m Margit Teegard[en] and who d 1792-1793 Saxton, Bedford Co PA + Fockler's Cemetery; and maybe others.

The brief history that Janet Putt Neville shared with us confirms that the author born in 1872 (119 years ago, approximately 100 years after Sarah was born) names Sarah as the wife of Henry Putt.

This is 1954 and is the hundredth year of the borough of Saxton, in the community of the once thriving place where I was born in the year of 1872.
I am now in my 81st year. Miles M. Blake
Also LDS records show that Sarah Shoup married Henry Putt.

across anyone who seems to have a handle on the whole family.
When you are reading this, keep in mind that I am not committed to all these ideas, but I am groping for possible answers and am open to suggestions.
Some of Benjamin Putt's family settled near Ft. Wayne, Indiana, by the way, and the wife of a descendant, Dawn Slater-Putt, has written about him.

Sincerely,
Carolyn Cripe

A HISTORY….

of the rise and fall of a little community that was located, partly in Huntingdon County and partly in Bedford County, along the upper Juniata River, known as the Raystown Branch of the Juniata River.

In order to introduce this history, we will have to go back to about the Year 1730. At this time there lived a family in Holland by the name of Shoup, and they had a son named Henry. This family was very poor, as they made a living by farming, and it was pretty tough going to eke out a living, as their Farms were very small. Henry, being grown to manhood and not seeing much chance of getting ahead in his native country, had heard of the new land of America and decided to try his luck there. He had also heard that a man by the name of Penn had a large grant of land, called Penn's Woods or Pennsylvania, and that he had sent out word that anyone who wanted to come and settle on this land, was welcome to take up land without any charge.

Young Henry was looking for adventure and a place to settle to start a life of his own. He married the girl of his choice and they started on their honeymoon for America to find a home in Pennsylvania that they had heard so much about. After several weeks on the water they landed at Philadelphia, and looking around, found that about all the land close around there had been taken up. They bought a camping outfit and started for the Susquehanna River, and finally came to where the Juniata empties into the Susquehanna.
They got a canoe and started to navigate the Juniata, and they pushed their way upstream, catching fish and shooting game to eke out their meals. They finally came to the South Branch of the Juniata, now called the Raystown Branch. Here they pushed their way up stream, where they found the fine fishing--catching many large salmon, pike and other fish, with plenty of wild game in the forests close along the stream. They made their way on upstream to where a small stream emptied into the Raystown Branch, so they stopped there to look around, and they came to the conclusion that here would be an ideal spot to settle down. There seemed to be plenty of rich land; the stream was alive with several species of fish; and in the forests there was an abundance of wild game. This was an important factor, as they would practically have to live on fish and game, along with a few berries and wild fruits, until they would get their ground ready to plant. They soon found a likely looking spot not far from the stream (which was later called Shoup's Run) with plenty of good pure drinking water, and here decided to build their future home.

First, they would build a rough cabin to live in, until they could build a better house. For many weeks and months they were very busy and happy, building their cabin; cutting the logs and dragging them by hand to the site of the cabin. They didn't have a horse, or yet even an ox, which was mostly used for that kind of work, and also for cultivating the new soil after it was cleared. After a lot of hard work, and not much pleasure, they finally had a rough cabin built. They were very proud and satisfied, and happy that now they had made a start in a life of happiness and contentment.

In the meantime they had heard of a settlement on the West side of the Mountain, which is now called Tussey Mountain. The South Branch of the Juniata River runs along close to the foot of the Tussey Mountain. Mr. Shoup decided to cross the Tussey Mountain into what is now called Morrison's Cove, and see if he could buy a horse or a yoke of oxen. His wife was to go with him, as he refused to let her alone at the cabin while he was gone. One morning they started to walk across the Tussey Mt. at a point now known as Raver's Gap. (The Raver's Gap Road crosses the Tussey Mt. about three miles Southwest of Saxton and comes out at Woodbury in Morrison's Cove.) At that time there were bands of roving Indians in this part of Pennsylvania.
Although they had been driven west of the Allegheny Mts., they often came back across the mountains in small bands to make raids on the farmers' stock; sometimes to kill some of the settlers and rob them of whatever valuables they had, then escape back across the mountains. Mr. Shoup, knowing there might be Indians hiding in the mountain, made sure to take his rifle and plenty of ammunition with him. He and his wife traveled all day and got to Woodbury late that night without seeing any Indians, however. They stayed that night in Woodbury and the next day started out to buy a horse or yoke of oxen. After doing a lot of traveling and inquiring, they finally purchased a yoke of oxen that a man had brought from Maryland and drove the oxen back to Woodbury.

At that time Woodbury was about the only Trading Post in this part of the state where you could buy produce and farming implements....

(I BELEIVE THE FOLLOWING PART TO BE GENERAL HISTORY)...

Mr. and Mrs. Shoup kept working hard to make themselves a home, and seemed to be happy and satisfied with what they accomplished, although they always had to be on the alert on account of the Indians, who often made raids from west of the Alleghenies. There were quite a few other settlers scattered along the east side of the Tussey Mountain in what is now called Woodcock Valley, and along the Raystown Branch of the Juniata River. Mr. Shoup visited these settlers and discussed the necessity of building a Fort in order to have a place to protect themselves in case the Indians made a raid in this section.

All the settlers agreed that it was a good idea and they set a day to hold a meeting at the home of Mr. Shoup to discuss ways and means, and a site on which to build the Fort. The meeting took place and all agreed to build a log Fort on a piece of land not far from Mr. Shoup's cabin. This site was on part of the land on which Mr. Shoup had settled and started to improve, and was situated about one-fourth mile, north west of Mr. Shoup's cabin along a slight raise of ground, about two hundred yards from the east bank of the River. There was a spring of water just at the bottom of this raise, which was most important, on account of having drinking water within the Fort in case of a siege. This Fort was almost directly north, about two hundred feet from the Borough line of what is now Saxton. The new road that leads they had made a start in a life of happiness and contentment.

In the meantime they had heard of a settlement on the West side of the Mountain, which is now called Tussey Mountain. The South Branch of the Juniata River runs along close to the foot of the Tussey Mountain. Mr. Shoup decided to cross the Tussey Mountain into what is now called Morrison's Cove, and see if he could buy a horse or a yoke of oxen. His wife was to go with him, as he refused to let her alone at the cabin while he was gone. One morning they started to walk across the Tussey Mt. at a point now known as Raver's Gap. (The Raver's Gap Road crosses the Tussey Mt. about three miles Southwest of Saxton and comes out at Woodbury in Morrison's Cove.) At that time there were bands of roving Indians in this part of Pennsylvania. Although they had been driven west of the Alleghény Mts., they often came back across the mountains in small bands to make raids on the farmers' stock; sometimes to kill some of the settlers and rob them of whatever valuables they had, then escape back across the mountains. Mr. Shoup, knowing there might be Indians hiding in the mountain, made sure to take his rifle and plenty of ammunition with him. He and his wife traveled all day and got to Woodbury late that night without seeing any Indians, however. They stayed that night in Woodbury and the next day started out to buy a horse or yoke of oxen. After doing a lot of traveling and inquiring, they finally purchased a yoke of oxen that a man had brought from Maryland and drove the oxen back to Woodbury.

At that time Woodbury was about the only Trading Post in this part of the state where you could buy produce and farming implements....

(I BELIEVE THE FOLLOWING PART TO BE GENERAL HISTORY)...

Mr. and Mrs. Shoup kept working hard to make themselves a home, and seemed to be happy and satisfied with what they accomplished, although they always had to be on the alert on account of the Indians, who often made raids from west of the Alleghenies. There were quite a few other settlers scattered along the east side of the Tussey Mountain in what is now called Woodcock Valley, and along the Raystown Branch of the Juniata River. Mr. Shoup visited these settlers and discussed the necessity of building a Fort in order to have a place to protect themselves in case the Indians made a raid in this section.

All the settlers agreed that it was a good idea and they set a day to hold a meeting at the home of Mr. Shoup to discuss ways and means, and a site on which to build the Fort. The meeting took place and all agreed to build a log Fort on a piece of land not far from Mr. Shoup's cabin. This site was on part of the land on which Mr. Shoup had settled and started to improve, and was situated about one-fourth mile, north west of Mr. Shoup's cabin along a slight raise of ground, about two hundred yards from the east bank of the River. There was a spring of water just at the bottom of this raise, which was most important, on account of having drinking water within the Fort in case of a siege. This Fort was almost directly north, about two hundred feet from the Borough line of what is now Saxton. The new road that leads out of the Borough to the north, runs almost directly through the center of what was the stockade of the old Shoup Fort.

In building the Fort, the settlers took turns cutting logs and hauling them to the site of the Fort. .....Etc.

About the last Indian raid that was made in this valley was about the year 1785. This was when Captain Phillips, with seven or eight of his scouts had come across the Tussey Mountain from the Cove at a point near where the State Road leading from Fredericksburg, intersects with the Woodcock Valley Road..... etc.

The Shoup's had several children by this time; the first a girl, and they named her Sarah; then two boys, Henry and John.

In Holland, Mr. Shoup's family had neighbors by the name of Putt, who also had a son named Henry. Young Henry had often heard his parents talk of the Shoup's who had gone to America, so he planned that when he grew up and had saved enough money to make the trip, that he would go to America also. When he was in his early twenties, he left for the new country, found his way to the Juniata Valley and the home of Mr. Shoup, and went to work on his farm. Eventually he married Mr. Shoup's daughter, Sarah. Mr. Shoup gave them a piece of his land along Shoup's Run on which to build their home.

Henry Putt was mechanically minded and knew a great deal about milling, as his father in Holland had owned a Grist Mill and was a Millwright. This new settlement was badly in need of a Mill to grind their grain, which they found would grow very easily in this country. Young Putt picked a spot along the stream where he thought would be a good location to build a Mill, and where he could turn the water form the stream into the Mill with the least amount of work; also with the least danger of the Mill being washed out in time of floods. The spot that he chose was at a point about one hundred feet east of the bridge that spans the stream and is crossed by the highway that leads from the Borough of Saxton through Puttstown (which was named for Mr. Putt) and on into Coalmont, Dudley, Broadtop City and over the Broadtop Mt.
Incidentally, the new road passes directly over the spot where the old mill used to stand.

Mr. Putt built a dam about three hundred feet up stream from the site of the Mill. Then a trench or millrace was dug to carry the water from the dam to the Mill. He then built what they called a head gate.

Etc....... I have skipped several pages

Henry Putt became the father of seven boys, whose names were: Henry Putt II, Michael, Abel, Jacob, Jonathon, Abraham and William. (William Putt was the writer's Grandfather.)

Mr. Putt built up a great trade in the milling business, and he had to find an outlet for the sale of his flour and feed, as there weren't enough people in the vicinity at that time to consume his surplus. He conceived the idea of shipping his surplus flour to Baltimore, which by that time was becoming a good market. But, to get his flour to Baltimore, which by that time was becoming a good market.

Etc.........I skipped several pages

Mr. Putt and his sons kept on in the milling business, and every spring they would make a grip to Baltimore with an ark load of flour. I heard my Grandfather, William Putt, tell about one trip in particular that they made to Baltimore. He said that when they got to Harrisburg, where the Juniata empties into the Susquehanna, and where they always camped for the night, they tied up close to the point where the two rivers come together, and they were getting ready for their evening meal, when a funny thing happened.
There was another party of men bringing an ark load of flour down the Susquehanna, and they had tied up on the opposite side of the point of land between the two rivers. One of the Putt boys, Abraham, by name, was a powerful, big man, weighing around three hundred pounds, and had arms as Large as a six inch stove pipe. He was the largest of the seven brothers, but was the biggest coward of them all. As he was getting ready for supper, and was rolling up his sleeves to wash his arms and hands, he happened to glance toward the point of land that lay between the two rivers, He saw the whole gang of men that belonged to the crew of the other boat, coming full tilt toward the Putt gang, but when they saw this mountain of a man rolling up his sleeves, they thought he was getting read to meet them, and they didn't like the looks of the big arms, so they backed out and ran. So the biggest and the most cowardly of the Putt clan scared the entire Susquehanna crew, and he didn't even know at the time what it was all about, but the Putt boys were never bothered after that.

The Putts kept on in the milling business, but branched out into wagon making. The first wagon they made was called the tar skein wagon, because they used pine tar to grease or lubricate the wooden skein or spindle....

Etc....I am skipping several pages ….

This particular section of the Juniata Valley grew to be quite a settlement by 1800. The little village on Shoup's Run Branch of the Juniata had become quite large, and could boast of a Grist Mill, Saw Mill, Cider mill, Cooper's Shop, Wagon-making Shop, Saddler's Shop and later on, about 1850, one of Henry Putt's sons built another Grist Mill about one mile west of the old Grist Mill. This mill stood about exactly on the spot where now stands the Pennsylvania Electric Plant. This mill was run for several years and then burnt down--never to be rebuilt. Shortly after that, another Mill was built about one-half mile southwest of the one that burnt, and was owned and operated by a man by the name of Isaac Little; and this Mill continued to operate until the present time. It was one of the first mills to be changed from the old type Burr Mill to the new roller type of mill.

Etc...Several pages skipped....

The branch road that was built to Dudley and other points southeast of Dudley was named the Shoup's Run Branch of the Huntingdon and Broadtop Railroad, in honor of Mr. Henry Shoup who first settled the little community of Puttstown.

And now, coming to a conclusion of this short history of all these happenings in connection with this community, I, the writer, would like to explain a little more of my family history. As I have explained before, my great-grandfather on my Mother's side was Henry Shoup, who settled the little community of Puttstown and Saxton. They, too, have nearly all disappeared out of the picture.

#####

My great grandfather on my Father's side, instead of coming from Holland, was from England. His name was William Blake and he was the son of Sir William Blake, who once was a great warrior and played an important part in saving England from Invaders who might have conquered England but for the good generalship of Sir William Blake. he and his armies kept the country from being overrun by invaders, and he was rewarded by the Crown of England with a gift of a great amount of land, of which most of it lay where the city of London now stands. Sir William had two sons; William and Bascm. His son William was a minister, but he didn't like the ways of the Church of England and decided to come to the New Land and start a church to suit his way of thinking. He and his brother left England and came to the New Country about 1700. William settled in Massachusetts, while Bascom settled at Philadelphia.

William started a church in Massachusetts called the Quaker Church, of which there are several branches today; The dunkards, Mennonites, and others.
William had learned all about the foundry business in England, so he decided to start a cast iron foundry in this country. He and a friend left Massachusetts and came to Pennsylvania and settled at what is now Woodbury, Bedford County, and there started a cast iron foundry, making stoves, iron kettles, ploughshares, and all kinds of cast iron implements that were needed in those early days. He continued preaching and helping to run the iron foundry until his death, about he year 1834. He had six sons; Thonas, William, Berdine, (who also became a preacher) Simon, Easton and Samuel; who was my Father. Five of these boys enlisted in the army during the Civil war and were mustered in at the place now called Loysburg, Bedford County, but at that time was the town of Pattonsville. Thomas and William never returned from the war. Whether they were killed in action, or what happened to them, no one ever knew. Easton had learned the foundry business in his Father's foundry, and on coming back from the war, decided to start a Foundry in Huntingdon. He built his foundry on the east bank, about 200 yards about the mouth of Stone Creek, which empties into the Juniata River. The foundry continued to run and turn out castings until Easton Blake's death, about the year 1888. when it was shut down, and some years later it was disbanded.

My father, Samuel Blake, was a plasterer by trade. He married Mary Putt at Martinsburg about the year 1864 after he had come home from the Civil War. They had nine children; six boys and three girls.

There was Frank, Oliver, (myself -- Miles), Simon, Charles, Samuel, Savilla, Margaret and Elizabeth. Of the six boys only two had children. The elder one, Frank, had two girls, no boys; and myself, Miles, five girls and one boy, Ralph, who is married to Arvilla Frederick. My son has no children, so you see, of the William Blake that migrated from England, Ralph Blake is the last of his descendants in this line.

There is supposedly a great fortune lying in the Bank of England form the sale of the property that was given to Sir William Blake for helping to save the Crown of England. This fortune is supposed to be as much as thirty-million dollars or more, and is laying there waiting for the Blake heirs to claim it, but up to the present time, no one has been aggressive enough to lay claim to it.

This ends my story of the rise and fall of a once thriving and prosperous community in the upper Juniata Valley. This is 1954 and is the hundredth year of the borough of Saxton, in the community of the once thriving place where I was born in the year of 1872. I am now in my 81st year.

The following extracts are from an old pamphlet, printed in 1802. Pages one to nine are missing. It seems to be a copy of the minutes of the Associate Reformed Presbyterian Presbytery of Kentucky:

"A Mr. Ervin was licensed at last meeting, and bids fair to be useful."

"Mr. McGill has not been long enough in this congregation to ascertain the number of families under his charge."

"In Mr. Porter's congregation there are 260 families and 520 communicants."

"Mr. James McAuley, probationer, went to the Carolinas and Georgia."

The Presbytery of Kentucky suspended Mr. R. Warwick. . . that our Academy in Lexington appears to prosper, we have a considerable large brick house, ready for the accommodation of students; about one hundred scholars now attend it, twenty of whom are studying the Latin and Greek languages. The funds for the support of this institution are 4,500 acres of land, which with the house and lot are deeded to the Associate Reformed Synod (worth about $10,000).

Rev. Thomas G. Smith suspended. The Presbyteries of New York and Washington constitute one Synod, called Synod of New York. The first Presbytery of Pennsylvania was divided into two Presbyteries, as follows: The one to consist of the Rev. Messrs. Robert Annan, Alexander Dobbin and Ebenezer Dickey, to be called the Presbytery of Philadelphia. The other to consist of the Rev. Messrs. William Logan, John Young, Thomas Smith, James Walker, James McConnel, William Baldridge and James Harper, Jr., to be called the Presbytery of Big Spring. The second Presbytery of Pennsylvania was changed to "Monongahela."

Their first Synod of Pennsylvania was held at Marsh Creek on Wednesday, May 25, 1803. The Synod of Sciota at Chelicothe in May, 1804; the Synod of the Carolinas in 1803. The Rev. Peter McMillan and William Dixon declined the authority of this Synod.

October 23, 1803.

The Rev. Thomas G. Smith declined to submit to the censure of the Synod. He joined the Reformed Protestant Dutch Church.

Alexander Proudfit, Clerk.

In 1801 Rev. John Mitchell Mason was sent to Scotland and Ireland, where he induced several young ministers of the Covenanter faith to go to America and preach. This was a period of great prosperity in the Associate Reformed Church of the United States of America. In Kentucky the congregations were very large. There was great activity among the ministers, who traveled over the country preaching in private dwellings and barns. There was a surprising number of ministers who were suspended for apparent trivial causes, and they almost invariably refused to make a public ackowledgement of their error, but were always ready to "argue the question." There are only a few churches in Pennsylvania of this faith now, where there were many eighty years ago. The present generation seldom hear of the "Covenanters." They have gradually drifted to the Presbyterian Church, which held to the same cardinal beliefs, and only differed in church government. SAMUEL EVANS.

EDWARD J. PUTT, M. D.

Edward J. Putt was born May 23, 1819, near Womelsdorf, Berks county, Pa.; died October 24, 1888, at Highspire. He was a descendant of Johannes Putt, who emigrated to America on the ship Halifax, landing at Philadelphia on the 22d of September, 1752. The doctor's grandfather was Jacob Putt, and the father of the late William Putt, who married Catharine Hoffman. The father came from Berks county in early life to what is now Oak Lane farm, owned by Col. James Young, in Lower Swatara township, and after discontinuing farming, resided for a few years in Middletown, from whence he removed to Harrisburg, where he was employed as prison watchman and afterwards superintendent of the Harrisburg cemetery. His children were:

i. Dr. Edward-J.
ii. Benneville, d. in Wormleysburg.
iii. Elvira, d. s. p.
iv. Alfred-H., residing in Halifax.
v. Frank, residing in Harrisburg.
vi. William-J., residing at Camp Hill.
vii. John-H., d. in Wormleysburg.
viii. Augustus-H.

Doctor Putt was a self-made man. He received his education in the common schools of his day and by private study until he was fitted to teach school, which profession he followed several winters, in the meantime reading medicine with his uncle, the late Dr. Jonathan Zerbe, of Sheafferstown. After graduating in Philadelphia in 1842, he located at Highspire, where he continued in the active practice of his profession about forty-six years. His professional life was an arduous one, and the range of his practice was quite extensive, reaching beyond the South mountain in York county. Dr. Putt married Cassia Oberly, daughter of Frederick Oberly and his wife, Maria Sheaffer, who, with three children, survive—Augustus, of Highspire; Dr. Moris-Oberly, a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, practicing medicine at Oberlin, and Alice. The first and last of his children are mutes. The funeral services were held on Saturday afternoon, October 27, 1888, in the U. B. church, conducted by Revs. E. L. Hughes and J. B. Doucherly. E. W. HECKEWELDER ON INDIAN NAMES.

[For the following transcript of an original manuscript preserved among the "Heckewelder Papers" in the Historical Society of Pennsylvania, we are indebted to Mr. John W. Jordan. This valuable series of queries and replies, although signed by Mr. Heckewelder, is undated and undressed, but it is believed the querist was his friend, Dr. Casper Wistar, of Philadelphia. It is given to our readers in precisely the form it was prepared, and is a verbatim et literatim copy.]

I.

Early in the present century, when there was a growing spirit of inquiry among men of science in our country, in the department of Indian archæology, it is no surprise to find that the Rev. John Heckewelder, who for near half a century was engaged in the Indian mission of the Moravian Church, was called upon to contribute to the world what had fallen within his observation and knowledge. His literary labors, therefore, began when he had long passed the meridian of a memorable life. At the request of the Historical and Literary Committee of the American Philosophical Society he contributed occasional essays, which were published in their transactions, and in 1818, under their auspices, he prepared his "Account of the History, Manners, and Customs of the Indian Natives who once inhabited Pennsylvania and the neighboring States." This work was translated into German by the Rev. F. Hesse, of Nienburg, and published in 1821 at Gottingen. A French translation by P. S. Du Ponceau, appeared in 1822 in Paris. In 1876 a new and revised edition, with an introduction and notes by the Rev. William C. Reichel, was published by the Historical Society of Pennsylvania. His "Narrative of the Mission of the United Brethren among the Delaware and Mohican Indians," appeared in 1820, and in 1822, his last literary effort, "Names which the Lenni Lenape, or Delaware Indians gave to Rivers, Streams and Localities within the States of Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Maryland, Virginia, with their Significations." In addition to the published works of Mr. Heckewelder there are many valuable journals and essays in manuscript preserved in the archives of the Moravian Church at Bethlehem, in the Historical Society of Pennsylvania and among his descendants. Two of the former have been annotated by John W. Jordan, and published in the Pennsylvania Magazine of History and Biography, viz: "Notes of Travel of William Henry, John Heckewelder, John Rothrock and Christian Clewell, to Gnadenhutten on the Muskingum, in the early summer of 1797," and "Narrative of John Heckewelder's Journey to the Wabash in 1792." This latter journal was published in Germany. "Johann Heckewelder's Reise von Bethlehem in Pennsilvania bis zum Wabash Fluss in Nordwestlichen Gebiet der Vereinigten Staaten, Nord-Amerika mit anmerkungen herausgegeben von M. C. Sprengel, Halle, 1797."

Questions Put to Friend Heckewelder—His Answers.

Q. How were you in bodily health since we saw each other last?

A. Subject to various changes—troubled much with rheumatic pains, especially at sudden changes of the weather, and in spring and fall seasons.

Q. How did you amuse yourself and spend your time; was it in piety and the fear of God, or was it in the pursuit of the things that afford enjoyment in this world?

A. In piety and the fear of God—yet paying every attention to the trust committed to me by the Directors of the Society. [American Philosophical Society.]

Q. How is the state of the mission among the Indians—do the number of converts increase; did you observe real Christianity in their conduct; can they love and forget injuries?

A. The mission is much at a stand; very few new converts—real Christianity with some do love and can forgive injuries.

Q. Is there anything more sincere in the conduct of those born of converted parents, and who receive instruction from their early infancy, than there is observable in that of the old converted warriors?

A. Old converted warriors make the best Christians. Some few born of converted parents, and who have received instruction from

In 1801 Rev. John Mitchell Mason was sent to Scotland and Ireland, where he induced several young ministers of the Covenanter faith to go to America and preach. This was a period of great prosperity in the Associate Reformed Church of the United States of America. In Kentucky the congregations were very large. There was great activity among the ministers, who traveled over the country preaching in private dwellings and barns. There was a surprising number of ministers who were suspended for apparent trivial causes, and they almost invariably refused to make a public ackowledgement of their error, but were always ready to "argue the question." There are only a few churches in Pennsylvania of this faith now, where there were many eighty years ago. The present generation seldom hear of the "Covenanters." They have gradually drifted to the Presbyterian Church, which held to the same cardinal beliefs, and only differed in church government. SAMUEL EVANS.

EDWARD J. PUTT, M. D.

Edward J. Putt was born May 23, 1819, near Womelsdorf, Berks county, Pa.; died October 24, 1888, at Highspire. He was a descendant of Johannes Putt, who emigrated to America on the ship Halifax, landing at Philadelphia on the 22d of September, 1752. The doctor's grandfather was Jacob Putt, and the father of the late William Putt, who married Catharine Hoffman. The father came from Berks county in early life to what is now Oak Lane farm, owned by Col. James Young, in Lower Swatara township, and after discontinuing farming, resided for a few years in Middletown, from whence he removed to Harrisburg, where he was employed as prison watchman and afterwards superintendent of the Harrisburg cemetery. His children were:

i. Dr. Edward-J.
ii. Benneville, d. in Wormleysburg.
iii. Elvira, d. s. p.
iv. Alfred-H., residing in Halifax.
v. Frank, residing in Harrisburg.
vi. William-J., residing at Camp Hill.
vii. John-H., d. in Wormleysburg.

in the meantime reading medicine with his uncle, the late Dr. Jonathan Zerbe, of Sheafferstown. After graduating in Philadelphia in 1842, he located at Highspire, where he continued in the active practice of his profession about forty-six years. His professional life was an arduous one, and the range of his practice was quite extensive, reaching beyond the South mountain in York county. Dr. Putt married Cassia Oberly, daughter of Frederick Oberly and his wife, Maria Sheaffer, who, with three children, survive—Augustus, of Highspire; Dr. Moris-Oberly, a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, practicing medicine at Oberlin, and Alice. The first and last of his children are mutes. The funeral services were held on Saturday afternoon, October 27, 1888, in the U. B. church, conducted by Revs. E. L. Hughes and J. B. Doucherly. E. W. HECKEWELDER ON INDIAN NAMES.

[For the following transcript of an original manuscript preserved among the "Heckewelder Papers" in the Historical Society of Pennsylvania, we are indebted to Mr. John W. Jordan. This valuable series of queries and replies, although signed by Mr. Heckewelder, is undated and undressed, but it is believed the querist was his friend, Dr. Casper Wistar, of Philadelphia. It is given to our readers in precisely the form it was prepared, and is a verbatim et literatim copy.]

I.

Early in the present century, when there was a growing spirit of inquiry among men of science in our country, in the department of Indian archæology, it is no surprise to find that the Rev. John Heckewelder, who for near half a century was engaged in the Indian mission of the Moravian Church, was called upon to contribute to the world what had fallen within his observation and knowledge. His literary labors, therefore, began when he had long passed the meridian of a memorable life. At the request of the Historical and Literary Committee of the American Philosophical Society he contributed occasional essays, which were published in their transactions, and in 1818, under their auspices, he prepared his "Account of the History, Manners, and Customs of the Indian Natives who once inhabited Pennsylvania and the neighboring States." This work was translated into German by the Rev. F. Hesse, of Nienburg, and published in 1821 at Gottingen. A French translation by P. S. Du Ponceau, appeared in 1822 in Paris. In 1876 a new and revised edition, with an introduc-

THE TAX RECORDS

The following information on the individual tax records used is included in this index to help make the researcher aware of the names of the collectors of the records included and of any other information that might have been included which we were not able to include in the index itself. In most cases this is only minor, but we felt that it would be of interest and perhaps in certain cases very helpful. In certain cases little information is available.

Many of the lists of this period began with the following printed heading (some are handwritten, some have no such heading):

"To (name of the collector) Collector of (township inserted here)

You being appointed Collector of the within Tax, are hereby required to demand of the Persons within mentioned, the several Sums wherewith they stand charged. But if any think themselves aggrieved with what they are rated, acquaint them that the Day of Appeal is the (date) Day of (month, followed by the place).

But if you cannot meet with the Person of whom Demand is to be made, leave Notice in Writing with some of the Family, or at the Place of their last Abode, signifying the Day of Appeal; at which Time you are to attend with this Duplicate, and the Names of such Persons in your District as You find omitted herein. Fail not at your Peril. Dated the (date) Day of (month) Anno Domini, 175( )"

The dates of appeal varied and were held at the Court House in Lancaster or at the tavern of Mathias Slough. There are those lists from time to time that mention a person who felt his taxes were too high.

BART--The first record is for 1751, taken by John Lingerfield (also Lingfeild). The next record available was for the year 1754. This was taken by William Laughlin. Bart was erected from Sadsbury and the records are mostly Scotch-Irish names, with a few Quakers and Germans.

BETHEL--The first record here is apparently for 1750, although the date is hard to read. It was apparently taken by Constable Martin Crom (perhaps Martin Krem in the list, although more likely Martin Cromer who appears in the following year) as his name appears under the notation "Return of Bathel Township". At the end of this list is a separate notation: "More setlers of Bathel Township which came In afther wards." Nine men are listed and these are noted with a similar comment line in the index. The next available year is 1751, taken by Henry Sowder. It is interesting to note that Martin Cromer's name is crossed off as the collector and Sowder's is inserted instead. We felt it necessary to include the 1756 list for Bethel Township also as it contains some extremely interesting information. The Colonial Indian Wars were taking their toll on the area and this is quite apparent in this particlar record. The collector was the constable of the township. The notation is found at the end of the list:

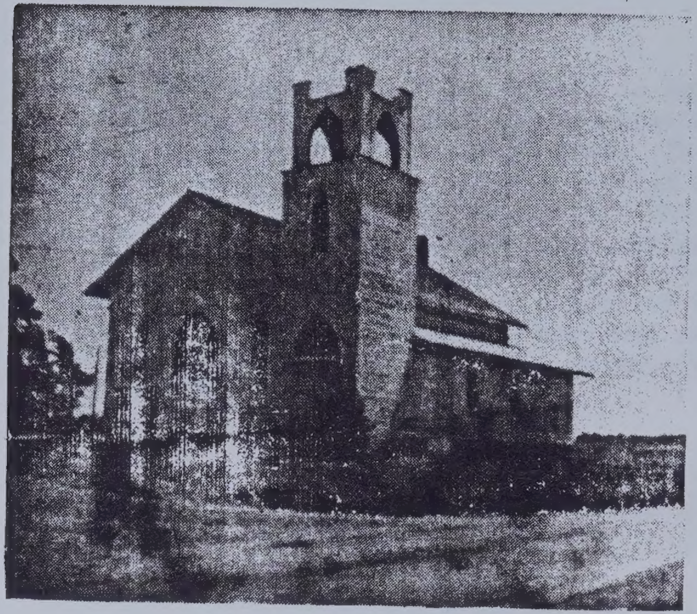
St. John's United Church of Christ

Centennial Program



July 26, 1970

Hudson, Indiana

The congregation of St. John's is happy that you have joined us today in the celebration of the 100th anniversary of our church home. In this program booklet we have compiled a brief sketch of the origin of our church denomination and have put together a short history of our congregation. We know that as you are with us today in our centennial celebration you also have been a part of the community that has sustained and nourished us for these 100 plus years, and as such have an interest in our church community.

ORIGIN OF THE DENOMINATION

In the early part of the 1500's many were reelling against the "divine rights in things spirital" of the Roman Catholic Church. They believed hat justification came through faith and not through eremony; faith was not subscription to the dictates f the church, but "by the hearts uttering trust in hrist". Due to this disagreement in 1529 Luther rote his Longer and Shorter Catechisms. The next ear the Augsburg Confession was written by Luther's ssociate Philip Melanchton. During 1537 the Schmalald articles of Faith were drawn up by Luther, Melnchthon and other German Reformers.

The Reformation resulted not in a united Protestntism, but in a Protestantism of two branches: Evanelical Lutherism with Martin Luther and Melanchthon s leaders and the Reformed branch led by Calvin, wingli and John Knox.

Reformed churches had their base in Switzerland nd spread to Holland and Germany as Reformed Churches, o England and Scotland as Presbyterian, to France as Huguenot and others in Bohemia and Hungary used national names. As these churches moved overseas to America they formed into four groups; two from Holland became the Reformed Church in America and the Christian Reformed Church, one from the German Palatine became the Reformed Church in the United States, (later to be the Evangelical & Reformed Church), the fourth from Hungary became the Free Magyar Reformed Church in America. All were Calvinistic and conservative, basing their doctrine on the Heidelberg Catechism, the Belgic Confession, Canons of the Synod of Dart and a modified Presbyterian form of government.

We find that in the early 1730s more than half of the Germans in Pennsylvania were of the Reformed persuasion. Their congregations were widely scattered and lacking ministers; they often employed school teachers to lead their services. Three ministers were influenced greatly by Michael Schlatter who had been sent to America by the Dutch Reformed Church of Holland. This group formed a synod in Philadelphia in 1747 which was directly responsible to, and in part financially supported by, the synod in Holland. Of local interest we find that in this same year, 1747 an ancester of several of the St. John's congregation, Stephen Ransburg, gave a tract of land in Fredricksburg, Maryland for a Reformed Church. In 1793 this group declared it's independence from the Holland Synod and took the name of the German Reformed Church and reported 178 congregations and 15,000 communicants The word German was dropped in 1869 and from that time on the denomination was called the Reformed Church in the United States. Missionaries went across the Alleghenies into Ohio and North Carolina. An overall synod of the church divided the country into eight districts or classes. Franklin College (now Franklin and Marshall), was founded at Lancaster, Pennsylvania with the support of Benjamin Franklin. A theological seminary was opened at Carlisle then moved to Lancaster. An academy later known as Marshall College was established in 1836. Heidelberg University at Tiffin, Ohio was founded in 1850.

In 1934 a merger of the Reformed Church in the United States and the Evangelical Synod of North Carolina was effected. The Evangelical Church was also of the Swiss and German background and was a result of a meeting of six ministers in St. Louis in 1840. These ministers were of Lutheran and Reformed Churches in the Evangelical United Church of Prussia. As the movement spread through the west to German speaking Lutheran and Reformed people resulting mergers were effected with four other Evangelical Synods: German Evangelical Church Association of Ohio, German Evangelical Synod of the East, Evangelical Synod of the Northwest, and the United Evangelical Synod of the East These four resulted in the forming of the Evangelical Synod of North America with a membership of 281,598 in 1934. At the time of this merger the Reformed Church in the United States listed a membership of 348,189 largely concentrated in Pennsylvania and Ohio. These members were directing foreign missionary work in Japan, China, and Mesopotamia, twelve institutions of higher learning, three theological seminaries, and three orphanages. Few difficulties were encountered at the time of the union of the two churches. Both were German Calvinistic and based historically on the Heidelberg Catechism, Augsburg Confession and Luther's Catechism. These three standards of historical faith were united into one constitution of the Evangelical and Reformed Church. It is interesting to note that while the union came in 1934 it was not until 1940 that the new constitution was put into effect and the boards were not unified until 1941; however, the procedure of uniting was completely democratic. A plan of union was considered by both churches before the constitution, statement of doctrine, and Book of Worship were adopted with this being the first time such a plan of procedure had been used in the history of Protestantism.

In 1949 there were 714,583 members and 2,754 churches. These members were involved with home missions in the Ozarks, American Indians, Volga Germans, Hungarians, Czecks, and Japanese in various cities and rural communities. The foreign missions were maintained in India, China, Japan, Honduras, Iraq and Africa. There were eight colleges, three theological schools and two academies. The leading denominational paper was "The Messenger" and one periodical in the German language.

On June 25, 1957 the Evangelical and Reformed Church and the General Council of the Congregational Christian Churches of the United States united to form the United Church of Christ. This church is composed of local churches, associations, conferences and the General Synod. The Congregational Christian Churches and the Evangelical and Reformed Church joined as the United Church of Christ without breaking historic continuities and traditions. At the present time there are 2,032,648 members and 6,866 churches which are directing over 45 academies, colleges, universities and seminaries, over 70 health and welfare institutions including hospitals, homes for the aged, services to the mental retarded and children. Missions are being served world wide. Through the World Mission Committee $10,000. was put to use in our nearby community after the tragic Palm Sunday tornado in 1965.

The United Church of Christ is "One in spirit, united in essentials and encourages the healthy diversity of responsible freedom." It is a united and uniting church, a church of Christ, a free and responsible church, and a church of the people.

HISTORY OF ST. JOHN'S CONGREGATION

During the early 1800's the infant United States was a land of turmoil. The government was new and going through a testing period. Communication and transportation were slow, but perhaps most important, the ideas and traditions of the population were in great conflict. Slavery was an accepted way of life for many, but quite distastful for others. Freedom of worship was of great importance to some, while mode of worship was less important to others. Methods of farming, trading, milling, even home life were different among the immigrants who were coming to the "new land" by the thousands. We can understand the reason that some of the people coming to America in these years would journey on westward and not want to become entangled in the strife that was soon to erupt as the Civil War.

These immigrants, mainly German and Dutch, were the backbone of the development of our community. These were hardy people who had to live almost independently of others, as many miles would seperate neighbors, but neighbors they were in the true sense, whenever sickness, fire or other tragedy would strike each family would help another as they knew that only through cooperation and numbers could they succeed.

We have no idea how many people there were in the community in the 1830's, we have a figure of 1558 in Fairfield township in 1880, so assume there were far less in 1836 when we have recorded the first circuit preacher; Benjamine Alton, coming to serve the community. He was of the Disciples, or Cambellite Church who spent the week clearing land for the settlers to earn his keep and changed to a black coat on Sundays to preach. It is recorded that during the summer months he would wear rough pants and one shoe and one boot, but was considered fortunate, as many of the settlers would not even have one shoe.

By 1850 ministers of the Methodist, United Brethern and Lutheran faiths had joined Mr. Alton in serving this community. Around this time we are told of a Sunday School group meeting at the Abraham Buss residence in Fairfield township which was the foundation of our congregation. Of this we have no definite record. In any case, we have recorded the organizational meeting of St. John's congregation on August 10, 1854 conducted by Rev. John George Kissell, an Exploring Missionary of St. Joseph Classis, Synod of Ohio and Adjoining States, being the Western Synod of the German Reformed Church of the United States of America.

At the time of organization of St. John's German Reformed Church there were 15 members eligible for communion. The first church officers were: George Anstett, Charles Schimpf and John Leas serving as elders and John Leas, Jr. and Peter Frantz as deacons. We have no record of where the first meetings were held, but assume they were in various homes. We do know that there was a log church built prior to the building in 1870. This log church stood in Steuben County, across the road from our present one and to the west, on what is now the Harold Rowe property.

Another Reformed Church, Trinity, was organized September 9, 1854 by the same Exploring Missionary, Rev. Kissell. These two churches were served jointly by the same pastor to make up the "Hudson Charge". During the ensuing years other churches were added to the charge and others dropped. These churches will be discussed in detail a little later.

There is no complete record of the early pastors. There is recorded a meeting called in February 1857 because the agreed upon salary of $50.00 per year had not been fully paid to Rev. Kissell. This is a startling figure to us today, but we must remember much of the food of the pastor and family was donated by the congregation along with hay for the horse and wood for the stoves. Garden and farm produce were used as barter at the stores, due bills were given by the storekeepers for credit on future purchases if a customer did not trade out the value of his produce on the first visit.

Minutes of the consistory meetings were kept by Rev. George Weber in 1859, followed by Rev. Henry Bair, who made entries in the council book from May 1867 until 1872. During this same period it seems a Rev. Jacob Burkholder served with Rev. Bair for a time. We know that the charge at this time consisted of at least three churches; St. John's, Trinity and Waterloo and perhaps more, which would account for the need of more than one pastor. Following is one of the excerpts from the record book in Rev. Bair's handwritin "The Lord's supper was administered to a large number of communicants. The church was quite full. May the much good be accomplished yet, in the name of the Lor Jesus Christ. The collection amounted to $3.86. Oct 13, 1872". During this period there were 67 names on the communion roles. It was the practice for the to sit on one side of the church and the women on the other. If there was a large crowd the children woul be seated on the platform, with the minister, facing the congregation. Services were conducted in Englis and then would be repeated in German for those wishi to stay. Early in the days of our church preparato services were held on Saturday for the communion service on the following Sunday, thus making a double church service for the rite of communion.

As the town of North Benton, now called Hudson, was growing we find also St. John's was gaining. In April 1876 Rev. W. H. Fenneman was listed as pastor 102 members were listed on the books. In 1879 Rev. Bair returned for a year and we find this notation in the record: "I supplied the St. John's congregat one year. During this time I baptised 4 children, ceived 11 members into full communion with the chur 10 by rite of confirmation and 1 by renewal of profession. Collected $18.71 for Benevolence and $217 for local purposes. The congregation has good pros for an increase of membership as there are so many young persons growing up that are members by baptis May the blessing of God continue to rest upon the c gregation is the wish and prayer of Rev. H. Bair."

During the next several years the charge was served by Rev. E. R. Williard, Rev. Winter, Rev. F. F. Christine, Rev. J. C. Beade and Rev. L. B. Clayt In November, 1892 Rev. J. W. Albright came to the community and during his 5 year stay the parsonage was built, being constructed in 1895. The average collection during this period was six to eight doll Following Rev. Albright we were served by J. A. Se and Rev. Lautzenhiser. It is recorded in 1899 that repairs were made as follows: Roofing $80.00, ins redecoration $75.98, outside painting $50.00 and lamps $13.00.

In December 1909 Rev. Wm. B. Werner accepted the call to the joint charge. During his stay "The Herald" was published which was a directory of the churches that he served, which included St. Johns, Trinity, Emanuel at Edon and Zion at Millersburg. This directory contained a complete listing of all members and the financial report of all treasuries. Rev. Werner owned a printing press on which he, with his wife, put out some very fine work. The charge was served by two students following Rev. Werner's departure, they being J. Schulz and J. K. Wetzel.

In January of 1915 Rev. H. L. Hart began a ministry that was to last 7 years with the exception of 1915 when W. H. Schroer filled in. During this period $350.00 was the pledged salary to the minister. In 1916 a complete remodeling project was undertaken. Plans were made to move the church 10 feet east and 25 feet south, put a basement under and build a vestibule on the northwest corner and a recess on the east side. Plans were also included to reroof the church, put in new art-glass windows and reseat it. The building committee consisted of: Irvin Bair, Ernest Fiffer, Len Shipe, C. T. Elson, Frank Henney, A. B. Goodrich, Albert Higby and the Rev. Hart. The total cost of the project was $2700. The church was dedicated on December 10, 1916 with morning, afternoon and evening services. Dinner and supper meals were served in the basement. Rev. Wm. S. Adams of Akron was the guest speaker. The unprovided $1100. of the building costs were pledged in 31 minutes on the day of the dedication, which gave much credit to the congregation as average collections were fifteen to twenty dollars.

Following Rev. Hart, Rev. R. H. Redinbaugh served, being followed by John H. Albright, serving from 1929 to 1932. Rev. John M. Michael served for two years coming in March of 1935 when we find collections amounting to two to five dollars, clearly showing the strain of the times. Rev. Carl Grimm served from June 1937 to February 1939 preceding Rev. Thomas L. Heffley who served from June 1939 to 1944 and was the last minister to serve the combined charge of Trinity and St. John's.

After the departure of the full time minister the church was served by various supply pastors, among them were Rev. Ira Franz, Rev. Worthman, Richard Brueseke a student of South Bend, and a group of the young people of the Berne Reformed Church, who were a great help in maintaining regular church services. In January of 1956 Rev. A. W. Garrigus came to serve us and lived, with his family, in the parsonage for a period of 4 years. He th left to accept a call to the church of his training, the Christian Church. During this time the church wa the recipient of memorial bequests from the families of Ida Shook and Mose Stomm which were used in part for pulpit furnishings and the sign board.

In 1961 Rev. E. O. Davis served us for a time and then we were again helped by supply and student pastors, namely; Rev. Buckner, Walter Helmuth, Rev. Krehler and Rev. Snyder. During this period much was accomplished in improvements to the church. A well was drilled, a new oil furnace put in and the church was rewired and completely redecorated.

In June 1964 we welcomed a semi-retired minister, Rev. Russell Beckett, who gave his full attention to the work of our church and was instrumental in reorganizing the youth choir and was very pleased with the addition of the organ, purchased by the Ladies Guild, for use in the services. Rev. Beckett was a source of much strength to our congregation until his untimely death in September 1965.

A student from Fort Wayne, Philip Rice, very effectively served us until July 1966 when Rev. K. David Schlundt came to St. Johns. During the four years that Rev. Schlundt has been with us rest rooms and a class room have been added on the west side of the church, beginning south of the bell tower and extending to the south end of the present structure, at a total cost of $3000.00. The sanctuary was also redecorated. Much of the labor of these projects wa donated by members of the congregation. This addition was dedicated July 14, 1968

At the present time we are planning the carpetin of the sanctuary of the church, having just complete a remodeling program in the kitchen, and are looking forward to gaining as a congregation.

CHURCHES INVOLVED IN HUDSON CHARGE

As mentioned previously there have been many churches involved in the charge served by the minister over the years. As we begin we find St. John's and Trinity being organized only one month apart by Rev. Kissell. Trinity originally held it's meetings at the Mt. Zion Church near Golden Lake, then in 1885 built a church on the Noll property east of Salem Center. We are confident that these two churches were the original "charge".

There was a congregation in Waterloo made up jointly of German Reformed and Lutheran Churches in 1865 and find that in 1866 the German Reformed church bought out the Lutheran interest in the church building, but can find no record that this congregation had any connection with St. John's as the ministers recorded as serving this Waterloo Church are not listed in our record books. However, there was a Reformed Church in Waterloo, known as the English Reformed Church, built in 1872 on the corner of Center and Union streets at a cost of $5500. There was a parsonage adjacent to it which is still standing and has been remodeled, the church is no longer standing. This church listed Rev. Bair, Rev. Fenneman and Rev. Christine as ministers, which would have put it in the charge with Trinity and St. John's. At this time it was common to use both German and English in the services and we conclude that only the English was used in this church, hence the title "English Reformed Church".

There was also the "Ridge" or "Tamarac" church about 3 miles north of Auburn on the Auburn-Ashley road. Little is known about this church, but the cemetery can still be seen off I-69. Early there was a church built west of Turkey Creek, 1½ mile north and 2 miles west of Helmer known as the Pleasant Chapel Church and was jointly owned by the Church of God and Reformed people. When the town of Helmer was built and churches started the "Chapel" congregation began to disband and the building was used only occasionally for a funeral. Rev. Lautzenhiser was believed to have been the last minister to serve the Chapel. Several years ago the Nazarene people purchased the building tore it down and rebuilt the church just north of us.

According to the directory Rev. Werner published in 1910, he was responsible for four churches; St. John's, Trinity, Emanuel at Edon and Zion at Millersburg. Services were held on a rotating basis due to the distance between congregations. Normally services were held every second Sunday and one Sunday of the month would have morning services and the other Sunday would have evening services. At this time train transporation was the mode of traveling any distance and Rev. Werner would commute between churches by train. Each church in the charge would hold it's own responsibility towards the up-keep of the ministe

In 1934 the Dutch Ridge Church on the Allen County line asked to consider uniting with St. John's and Trinity to help relieve each congregation in the strenuous times, of any excessive financial burden. This worked for a time, but ultimately failed due to the distance between the churches. This church has since been disbanded.

As you can see, many churches have joined with St. John's and Trinity over the years and have gone their own ways, or disbanded, leaving these two to stand alone in their support of a pastor. After 1944 when the charge was without a full time minister, and due to the move out of the community of several of the Trinity families, this little country church closed it's Sunday School in 1948. The church has been kept in repair by the Ladies Aid Society which i still active, and is opened every summer for cleaning and a homecoming gathering. The cemetery adjacent to the church is kept well maintained.

This leaves St. John's and Millersburg still remaining active of the eight Reformed churches that had been united over a period of years. Their continued support and growth relies on you, the congregatic

Over the 116 years the St. John's congregation has been established many have served as Elders and Deacons and given of their time and energy to sustain the church. We feel that a history of the congregation would not be complete without a listing of these men.

Many of these men have held both offices of Elder and Deacon and served several terms of office. Quite likely L. W. Bonbrake would take the honor for servitude as he has spent over fifty years serving on the church board. Much credit is due Mr. Bonbrake for his time spent in church guidance.

LADIES SOCIETY

There is no record of when the ladies society began, but we assume it was soon after the organization of the church. It originally was entitled the Woman"s Missionary Society. There were also provisions made for Mission Bands, which was the organization of the children and youth of the church.

The Ladies Aid, as it has been known, or the Guild as it is now called, has been an important working force throughout the years. Many years ago, mainly due to the transportation and distance, the meetings were all day meetings with, often times, th whole family in attendance. These were held monthly or semi-monthly, at the discretion of the group. Dues were five cents per month and usually a bowl wa set in the center of the table during the dinner for any one wishing to donate to the dinner collection.

We have recorded a joint meeting of the women of the Trinity and St. John's churches in 1931 where a jello selling contest was being held. Trini went on record as winning the contest and we find that yet today, the St. John's women are selling jel

When the church was remodeled in 1916 the ladies were able to contribute $600. from their treasury to the building fund. At the present time the Guild Society is very active and serve meals to the local Lions Club and Gideon organization, conduc bake sales, carry cards and jello for sale, and spon sor a very successful Harvest Sale in the fall which accompanies a carry-in dinner and is looked forward to by the community. In the past eight years the Guild has made over $3000. worth of improvements to the church. They were solely responsible for the purchase of the organ and it's maintenance, the kitchen remodeling, and can always be relied upon to help when the church treasury needs a boost.

A church with as industrious an organization as the Ladies Guild has a promising future.

Lake patrol boat OK'd by council

Commissioners give nod also for sheriff's marine equipment

By Colleen Anspaugh
Senior reporter

A boat for the Steuben County Marine Patrol has been approved.

Nixed by the Steuben County Council in April, the idea was OK'd Tuesday.

Faced by 25 adamant lake residents, the council found $15,000 in the commissioners' budget for vehicles and voting machines, setting it aside instead for a boat and trailer.

Moments later, county commissioners approved the purchase.

And lake residents pledged to continue the battle to get the state legislature to pass laws governing the distribution of boat registration fees to be used for patrol purposes.

"I'll be even louder there than I was here," promised Snow Lake resident Al Patterson.

Boat registration fees currently go to the county in which the owner lives, not the county where the boat is used. Area residents worked on getting changes in the distribution, but the legislation failed.

As might be expected, the Steuben County Lakes Council lent its full support of the boat proposal because of the lakes' impact on the local economy.

The volunteer marine patrol members are an arm of the sheriff's reserves.

Lake James resident Chuck Kensill said he and other patrol members have undergone many hours of training in law enforcement, first aid, hazardous materials and self defense. Members spend their own money on equipment and uniforms, he said.

In April, the council didn't dispute the need, but told Sheriff Mike McClelland to budget for it next year. McClelland didn't budget for it this year because he expected state legislation.

Last year, a boat was loaned to the marine patrol by Midwest Correct Craft, rural Angola.

Associations on a couple of the larger lakes provide their own boats and the town of Clear Lake provides police protection there.

Angola man indicted in interstate drug ring

By Rick Martinez
Editor

FORT WAYNE—An Angola man has been indicted by a federal grand jury for charges of heading up an interstate marijuana dealing operation.

James W. "Corky" Codling, 40, 640 N. Wayne St., had his initial hearing Friday in federal district court after being arrested late Thursday night on five drug dealing-related felony counts. Federal magistrate Roger B. Cosbey released Codling on his own recognizance after a hearing Friday.

Trgovich said.

Also indicted were Lonnie Caldwell, 49, of rural Arjay, Ky., and James H. "Jamie" Phillips, 29, of West Monroe, La. There were unindicted co-conspirators involved, according to court documents.

The indictments charge that Codling oversaw an illegal operation using Federal Express, Western Union and couriers to transport money and marijuana. He worked mostly out of northeast Indiana, with deals going to El Paso, Texas, and Louisiana.

The transactions involved at least a half million dollars and slightly more than a half ton of

Prayer of St. Francis of Assisi

Lord make me an instrument of Thy peace.

Where there is hatred, let me sow love.

Where there is injury, pardon.

Where there is doubt, faith.

Where there is despair, hope.

Where there is darkness, light.

Where there is sadness, joy.

O Divine Master; grant that I may not so much seek to be consoled as to console; to be understood as to understand; to be loved as to love; for it is in giving that we receive, it is in pardoning that we are pardoned and it is in dying that we are born to eternal life.

Twenty-Third Psalm

The Lord is my shepherd, I shall not want.
He maketh me lie down in green pastures:
He leadeth me beside the still waters.
He restoreth my soul: He leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for his name's sake.
Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil:
for thou art with me; thy rod and
thy staff they comfort me.
Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies:
thou anointest my head with oil;
my cup runneth over.
Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life:
and I will dwell in the house of the Lord forever.

Lorna Lee Putt and Vernon Virgin Wed

The altar of the First Methodist Church, decked with white mums, delphinium, and greenery, was lighted with tapers from three candelabra, entwined with fern and hung with white satin streamers, as Miss Lorna Lee Putt, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Putt, Summerfield, became the bride, last Saturday evening, of Vernon C. Virgin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Virgin.

Mrs. Frank O Kruh presented an organ musicale as the guests assembled, and played soft background music during the ceremony. Miss Julia Watson, Portland, Mo., a college friend of the bride, gave Elizabeth Barrett Browning's forty-third sonnet, "How Do I Love Thee," with a background of organ music. Virgil Church sang Grieg's "I Love But Thee." The Rev. Wayne Burkey performed the double-ring ceremony.

Mary Elizabeth, Peggy Ann, and Jo Ellen Putt, sisters of the bride, served as junior bridesmaids. Their frocks, originally designed, were fashioned identically of white imported Swiss organdy over taffeta of primrose yellow, seafoam green, and morning glory pink respectively. Their bouffant skirts, worn over hoops, were topped with tiny bodices featuring miniature pearl buttons down the front, tucked Peter Pan collars and cuffs, and narrow matching ribbon sashes.

Miss Angie Lou Putt, her sister's maid of honor, wore a gown fashioned of the same white organdy material over heavenly blue taffeta. Its lines were similar to those of the bridal gown, but the sleeves were short and tucked. The snug bodice featured miniature pearl buttons down the front and a low round neckline. A tucked Peter Pan collar marked the guimpe worn under it. The bouffant skirt was held out by hoops.

All the maids carried straw baskets of pink briar rosebuds and white mums.

Master James Rehberger, nephew of the groom, preceded the bride to the altar, carrying the rings on a small white organdy pillow.

The bride, approaching the altar on the arm of her father, was petite in her gown of the same imported material as those of her maids, but worn over white taffeta. Its tiny bodice with round, low-cut neckline, was set with a guimpe of tucked organdy with tucked Peter Pan collar. A row of baby pearl buttons extended from the neckline to the waist. The full-cut sleeves ended in points over the hands. The voluminous circular skirt, cut on princess lines, billowed gracefully over hoops. Her chapel length veil of nylon tulle extended from a small cap of tucked organdy. She carried an arm bouquet of pink roses and white delphinium.

Dr. Harold T. Virgin of Highland served as his brother's best man. Dr. L. P. Rehberger of Highland and Everette McKee of St. Louis, brothers-in-law, acted as ushers.

Mrs. Putt chose for her daughter's wedding a draped gown of silver blue summer satin with a matching hat and a white mum corsage.

The groom's mother appeared in a gown of dusty blue with white accessories, and also wore a corsage of white mums.

Assisting with the refreshments at the reception in the church parlor following the ceremony were Mrs. L. P. Rehberger, Mrs. Harold T. Virgin, and Mrs. Everette McKee. The bridal party greeted their friends before the flower and fern bedecked fireplace. Later, a buffet supper was served to the immediate families at the Putt home in Summerfield.

The bride's going-away dress was of shell pink shantung.

Mrs. Virgin, a 1950 graduate of the Lebanon Community High School, received her bachelor's degree, last month, from Washington University. The groom, a 1949 Lebanon Community High School graduate, is engaged in farming. He is the leader of the Lebanon Junior Farmers and is active in youth and Grange work.

The couple will reside on rural route 2, Mascoutah.

Evelyn Putt

KENDALLVILLE — Evelyn Irene Putt, age 96, of Kendallville, died on Monday, June 27, 2016, at North Ridge Village Nursing Center in Albion, Indiana.

Mrs. Putt

Mrs. Putt

Mrs. Putt was born in DeKalb County, Indiana, on November 19, 1919, to the late Harry and Hazel (Brew) Foster.

She graduated from Ashley High School in 1936 and later received her registered nurse diploma from the Lutheran School of Nursing in Fort Wayne.

She married Allen O. Putt on March 5, 1943, in Norfolk, Virginia. Allen preceded her in death on Sept. 12, 1995.

Evelyn was a registered nurse for more than 40 years. She started her nursing career in New Orleans in 1943, moved to Norfolk, Virginia, where Allen was serving in the Navy, and spent more than 30 years working at McCray Hospital in Kendallville.

Evelyn loved the sunshine and spending her days outdoors. They always put out a big vegetable garden every summer. She also grew rhubarb and red raspberries and loved selling her produce at her roadside stand. She also enjoyed quilting and crocheting.

Survivors include two daughters, Deedra and Doug Atz of Kendallville and Alana and Richard Sibert of Kendallville; seven grandchildren, Jacob and Rachel Atz of Bloomington, Abigail and Jeremy Creigh of Fort Wayne, Gabe Atz of Indianapolis, Sadie and Alex Deig of Mt. Vernon, Tim and Laura Sibert of Kendallville, Jenny and Shaun Loveless of Huntertown and Steve and Angie Sibert of Kendallville; and seven great-grandchildren, Ella Creigh, Treven Creigh, Ruby Deig, Nick Sibert, Sam Sibert, Kane Sibert and Taylor Sibert.

She was also preceded in death by her sister, Arlene Poppy, and her brother, Donald Foster.

Graveside funeral services and burial will be Friday, July 1, 2016, at 2 p.m. at Lake View Cemetery in Kendallville. Officiating the funeral service will be the Rev. Dan Barker.

No visitation is scheduled.

Memorial donations may be made to Noble County Humane Society.

Hite Funeral Home in Kendallville is in charge of arrangements.

PARENTS OR GUARDIAN PLEASE READ

Each school month this report will be filled out by the teacher and sent to you for inspection. If this report is not presented at the proper time, kindly notify the teacher.

If a pupil receives below 75 on any subject, it should be made a matter of immediate inquiry. Possibly it is to be attributed to lack of study, to too many outside engagements, irregularities in attendance or to some other cause which may be removed.

Special attention is called to the serious consequences of Irregular Attendance. It is important to remember that the loss of even a portion of a school session often proves to be a serious interruption to progress, and tends to produce a lack of interest in the school work. Excuses showing good cause for the absence or tardiness should always be sent promptly to the teacher on the return of a child to school. Neglect of this may cause the child to be sent home after the excuse.

We suggest that you talk over this report with your child each time it is received, and if it has any peculiar needs which are indicated to you by the marks on this card, that you confer with the teacher or superintendent regarding it.

If the parents could show their interest in the child and school by occassional visits to the school, it would prove a great source of inspiration and help to both pupils and teacher.

Your hearty co-operation is solicited in the endeavor to secure the best development of your child.

PARENTS OR GUARDIAN PLEASE READ

Each school month this report will be filled out by the teacher and sent to you for inspection. If this report is not presented at the proper time, kindly notify the teacher.

If a pupil receives below 75 on any subject, it should be made a matter of immediate inquiry. Possibly it is to be attributed to lack of study, to too many outside engagements, irregularities in attendance or to some other cause which may be removed.

Special attention is called to the serious consequences of Irregular Attendance. It is important to remember that the loss of even a portion of a school session often proves to be a serious interruption to progress, and tends to produce a lack of interest in the school work. Excuses showing good cause for the absence or tardiness should always be sent promptly to the teacher on the return of a child to school. Neglect of this may cause the child to be sent home after the excuse.

We suggest that you talk over this report with your child each time it is received, and if it has any peculiar needs which are indicated to you by the marks on this card, that you confer with the teacher or superintendent regarding it.

If the parents could show their interest in the child and school by occassional visits to the school, it would prove a great source of inspiration and help to both pupils and teacher.

Your hearty co-operation is solicited in the endeavor to secure the best development of your child.

Dear Naomi:-

It seems that on one other occasion I struck on an unlucky(?) 12 (not 13) but, if at first you don't succeed, try, try again. So here goes! Would it be possible(or convenient) for you to go maybe some night between Oct. 26 and Nov. 1?

Now I have been promoted to a position as Pres of Polecat University. Ha! Ha! In other words I am trying to teach Skunk Hill School, a rough old place with woods all around. The stove, which was ready to fall apart when Ring was a pup, has the smoking habit. but we have a lot of fun anyway.

Well, I have written all I know, maybe more, so I will close.

Maybe I will hear from you soon ? ? ? ?

Alana Putt Says Vows With Richard Sibert

Miss Alana Evan Putt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Putt, R. R. 2, Kendallville, became Mrs. Richard Lynn Sibert in an evening service Saturday in the First Presbyterian Church in Kendallville. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Donald Sibert, Kendallville, and the late Mr. Sibert.

Mrs. Richard Lynn Si

The bride approached the altar in a gown of white linen fashioned with a scoop neckline. Venice lace bordered the elbow-length sleeves and circled the Empire bodice. The square train, topped with a flat tailored bow, was bordered with lace, as was the hem of the A-line skirt. The bride carried a single white rose.

Miss Deedra Putt, Kendallville, was her sister's maid of honor. The bride was also attended by Miss Jan Jollief and Miss Cheryl Charles, both of Kendallville.

The bodices of the attendants' floor-length gowns of orchid linen were fashioned with a round neckline and semi-belled elbow-length leeves. The A-line skirts with a wrap-around fect were accented with a tailored bow at the e of the fitted bodice. Headpieces of plum orchid flowers completed their ensemble.

Dear Aunt Naomi and Uncle Raymond,

Thank you for the floral tribute from the Putt family. It was very meaningful for us to use the flowers from Daddy's family on the church altar between the candles. It remained there for the Sun. morning service as a memorial to Mother.

Love,

Mrs. Putt dies at 78, funeral Sat.

Services for Rachel Dole Putt, 78, will be held on Saturday afternoon, Dec. 2, 1989, at 2:00 p.m. in the First United Methodist Church, Lebanon. Grandsons will be pallbearers, and burial will be in College Hill Cemetery.

Friends may call at the Meyer Funeral Home after 4 on Friday and until 11 on Saturday morning.

Mrs. Putt died at 8:30 Monday evening in the Emerald Gardens Health Care Center, where she had resided for the past 15 months, following four years as a homebound semi-invalid.

Rachel was born in Guthrie, Okla., the only daughter of Arthur and Martha Dole. Her only brother, Marshall, predeceased her. Her father was a supervising architect of public buildings, so the family moved from place to place in her youth, and eventually settled back in their place of origin in northeastern Indiana. There Rachel was graduated from Ashley High School and went on to attend one year at Albion College in Albion, Mich.

Marriage to Dwight Putt, a teacher, took place in Hudson, Ind., Dec. 31, 1931. As a consequence of World War II, the young family was transplanted to the Lebanon area. After the tornado of 1956 in Summerfield, they have made their home in Lebanon. A homemaker, Mrs. Putt was active in church, school and Grange affairs. Dwight Putt's death came in 1973.

Surviving are five daughters: Lorna Lee, wife of Vernon Virgin of Lebanon; Angie Lou, wife of Howard Perry of Carthage, Ill.; Jo Ellen, wife of Neil Lightle of Independence, Mo.; Peggy Ann, wife of David Barton of Annandale, Va., and Mary Elizabeth, wife of Donald Schilling of Granville, Oh.

Descendants include eight grandsons, one of whom is married, and seven granddaughters, four of whom are married, plus one great-grandchild.

Memorials may be made to the First United Methodist Church of Lebanon, of which she has been a member since 1942.

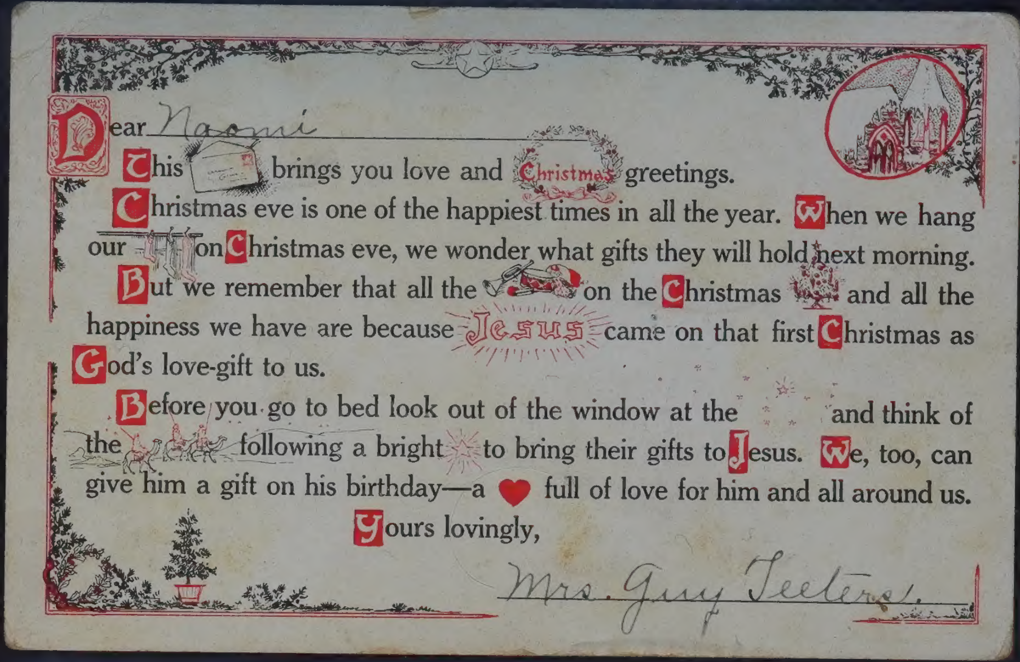
Christmas Greetings



Dear Naomi

This brings you love and Christmas greetings.

Christmas eve is one of the happiest times in all the year. When we hang our on Christmas eve, we wonder what gifts they will hold next morning. But we remember that all the on the Christmas and all the happiness we have are because Jesus came on that first Christmas as God's love-gift to us.

Before you go to bed look out of the window at the and think of the following a bright to bring their gifts to Jesus. We, too, can give him a gift on his birthday—a ♥ full of love for him and all around us.

Yours lovingly,

Mrs. Guy Teeters.

The Twenty-Third Psalm

The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want.
He maketh me to lie down in green pastures:
He leadeth me beside the still waters.
He restoreth my soul: He leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for His name's sake.
Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil:
for thou art with me; thy rod and
thy staff they comfort me.
Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies:
thou anointest my head with oil;
my cup runneth over.
Surely goodness and mercy shall follow

APPRECIATION

On behalf of the family, we wish to express our gratitude for your many kindnesses evidenced in thought and deed, and for your attendance at the memorial service.

Club, 1941

'Twas thirty-four years ago today,
The sun shone brightly with very warm rays;
Seemed more like May than twelfth of December,
I entertained the club--how well I remember!

Sad indeed--I didn't feel well--
I smiled my best, for I didn't dare tell.
To complain to my guests would be in bad taste,
So I held my tongue and continued my pace.

Early that morning I arose;
I didn't take time for that extra doze.
I hurried the boys right out to the barn,
Many were the chores there on the farm.

There were so many tasks I had to do--
Breakfast to get; school lunches too;
Five children to ready for the school bus,
'Cause we didn't want the bus driver to fuss.

I hurriedly washed the breakfast dishes,
Hoping a good fairy might grant me three wishes.
One to peel the potatoes and roast the meat,
Another--Oh, what is the use? I'm already beat!

I caught up the broom to sweep the floor
But stopped in my tracks, there's a knock on the door.
About I turned and rushed out there,
Taking a glance at Janet's uncombed hair.

Thinking it's an agent with magazines to sell,
In my rush and confusion over a toy I fell;
Picked myself up and opened the door,
Muttering under my breath, "Anything more??"

There stood Naomi, looking so cool;
Raymond had left her on his way to school.
"I had to come early," she said with a smile,
"So please let me in to help you awhile."

Thank you, dear God, I breathed with relief;
No time for formalities, I had to be brief.
I had had hired girls, but she was the best,
By early noon we were ready for guests.

A "good Samaritan" she proved to be--
I thank you, Naomi, for your kindness to me!

CROSSING THE BAR

Sunset and evening star,
  And one clear call for me,
And may there be no moaning of the bar,
  When I put out to sea.

But such a tide as moving seems asleep,
  Too full for sound and foam,
When that which drew from out the boundless

  Turns again home.

Twilight and evening bell,
  And after that the dark!
And may there be no sadness of farewell,

Nov. 6, 1911-Nov. 30, 1989

Former Hudson resident, Rachel Dole Putt, 78, Lebanon, Ill., died Thursday, Nov. 30, at Emerald Gardens Healthcare Center after an extended illness.

She was born Nov. 6, 1911, in Guthrie, Okla., to Arthur and Martha Dole.

Surviving are her husband, Dwight Putt who she married on Dec. 31, 1931; five daughters, Lorna Lee Virgin of Lebanon, Ill., Angie Lou Perry of Carthage, Ill., Jo Ellen Lightle of Independence, Mo., Peggy Ann Barton of Annandale, Va., and Mary Elizabeth Shilling of Grandville, Ohio; 15 grandchildren; one great-grandchild.

Funeral services were held Saturday, Dec. 2, in the First United Methodist Church of Lebanon, Ill.

PUTT AND SHIPE SCHOOL

A One Room Schoolhouse

There was a Putt one room schoolhouse on the corner across the road from the Reinoehl farm. This is where Frank Putt attended school. Maude, his wife, attended school in Oviatt, Michigan. When Frank's children were ready for school, there weren't enough children in the area to keep the schoolhouse open so they were transferred to Shipe School.

Shipe School was a brick, one-room schoolhouse with an entry hall. This entry had shelves for dinner pails and hooks on the wall to hang our coats and caps. Our winter boots were placed on the floor under our coats.

There was a closet with a door that could be locked and this is where the ballot box for voting was kept. There were shelves for sports equipment, baseballs and basketball. All cleaning equipment was stored in this closet.

The girls used one side of the hall and the boys the opposite. The boys' side had an alcove where a pottery water cooler with a faucet was kept. We had our own marked tin cups for drinking. Also in this alcove was a bench with washpan, soap and towel, pails for carrying water from the adjoining farm and a pail for waste water. The boy's side had shelves for dinner pails and the same hooks for clothing.

In the center of the hall was the bell with a rope hanging down. This bell was used in the morning, and at recesses. We all had our turn "ringing the bell."

The main school room had a wood and coal heating stove in the center of the room. Wood was stacked outside in the corner of the schoolhouse and a load or two of coal on the ground. This was carried in by the students.

There were rows of desks on each side of the stove. These desks were large enough for two children to sit. In front of the desks, facing the teacher, was a "recitation seat" which was a long-backed seat similar to a church pew. The teacher's desk and chair were in front of this. Back of this desk was a wall covered with a slate blackboard with a ledge for chalk and erasers. Above this blackboard was the clock, the flag and framed photos of George Washington and Abraham Lincoln.

At one end of the front wall there was a large map-case with pull-down maps, a hanging oil lamp, a large dictionary and stand, an encyclopedia and a phonograph.

To begin the school day, we had "morning exercises". These activities varied. We did exercises, marched to Sousa records, or the teacher would read a book to us.

One of my teachers put up a basketball hoop and by pushing his desk back, we could play basketball. In winter we brought our sleds to school and back of the schoolhouse was a hill to slide down and curve down around some maple trees. Some noon hours we went to a pond and ice-skated. Our noon hour was extended for this.

We had a good library, well stocked with books and I remember reading Zane Grey and Gene Stratton Porter books. There was a special fund for books and art materials. This fund was from the Halloween Socials put on by the parents. The social had different booths where candy, popcorn, fishing for prizes and various other things. A box supper was held after this, then couples danced in a circle around the stove. We also had Christmas programs well attended by the parents.

Our last day of school in the spring was one of my favorite times. We went to Krueger's woods and had a wiener and marshmallow roast. Our teacher would give us a memento, a little booklet with the students' names in it.

The floor of the school was worn hardwood, bare wood, and was oiled to keep the dust down. One board had a knot-hole in it and the boys could stand above it and see if they could drop pennies through it. In later years, when the small schools were consolidated, Shipe School students were bussed to Fairfield Center School. Shipe School was torn down and the land reverted to the original land owner. Students all rode on a bus.

When I attended school there as a transfer from Putt School, I rode in a horse drawn hack. The seats were along each side and there was a small coal furnace about the size of a large box in the center aisle to keep us warm when it was cold. Some years we rode in a car.

I think I had a good grade school education and don't feel that I was underprivileged. We had time for games and fun along with learning and live wasn't so rushed.

Grandma's House

Grandmas house was a fascinating place to my brother Allen and myself. As children we would often ride on a wagon with our father who farmed the farm. We would go in the house to see Grandma. Sometimes we walked accross fields our short-cut or rode a bike on the road. Grandma's house was back a lane from the road.

Her house larger than ours with a family of five seemed big to us. She had a summer kitchen with a cool cement floor, an oil stove and a wash stand. I have her wash stand to-day. It is full of nails. When the boards warped they nailed it down.

She had a room she used as a combination living and kitchen. This had a quaint wood burying stove that she could cook on as well as heat the room. Also in the room was a square oak table, straight chairs and two rocking chairs. On the walls were a calendar a combination mirror and comb case and the center of our attention the clock. This clock is in the possession of her grandson Allen to-day. We learned to "tell time" with this clock. Our mother would tell us to start for home when the little hand was on 3 and the big hand on 6.

Off the kitchen area was a pantry that had cubboards on each side ceiling to floor. One of the cubboards had glass doors and was full of rose color patterned china and a set of "tea-leaf" china.

The cupboard on the opposite wall had one thing that interested us and that was a candy jar. Grandma always gave us a piece of candy each time we came.

There was parlor off the kitchen that was used for special company. We were allowed to tip-toe into this room but not to touch things. This room was furnished with a walnut pump organ with little shelves to hold photo's. The most interesting thing to us was the Edison phonograph with a blue morning-glory horn. One day during our visit grandma played the cylinder records for us on the phonograph. It was magic. We didnt have anything as fine at our house. There was a small bedroom with a bed and chest of drawers. One time she let us peek at a room upstairs. It was furnished with a bed and chest of drawers I never did see her cellar.

Grandma was a small woman. She wore her straight hair parted in the middle and done up in a knot. She wore long dresses all the same style and sensible shoes. She had a "dutchy" accent and I have probably picked up all the dutchy expressions I use from her.

One day we ask grandma if she wished she had married again. She answered "Yes, its a long time to live alone."

Grandma was the youngest child in the Anstett family. and the time I can remember she didnt have any living sisters or brothers

Each year there was an Anstett reunion. My parents were responsible to see Grandma was there. Grandma would sit in a chair on the lawn and all the relatives would greet her. She was "Queen For A Day" They called her Aunt Harriett. I couldn't understand all the fuss over grandma.

As Allen and I grew older there were family problems and we werent allowed to go to Grandma's anymore

When she died in 1940 I was married and recovering from surgery. I went to her funeral and sit with a lump in my throat and thought how things could have been different

My Aunt Sarah Doty was too ill to go to her mothers funeral. The next day she hired a truck and stole all of the beautiful antiques from the house and sold them. The farm had to be sold to settle the estate. Two farmers bid on the farm and John Brand had the highest bid so he got the farm.

John tore down the house and barn and to-day there is no indication of where Grandma's lane, house or barn stood.

George Washington Putt

George Washington Putt was born 19 Nov. 1814 Berks Co. Pa. His parents Jacob Putt and Catherine Shaffer

George was a teamster and probably hauled iron ore for the Robesonion Iron Co. in Berks Co. Pa. Legend is that he drove Conestoga Wagons and helped people moving from Pa. to Ind + Ohio In 1835 he settled in Lebanon Co. Pa. He married Sarah Ann Getz 15 Nov. 1935

In 1841 he moved to Stark Co. Ohio (Did he go there first because John W. Putt, Ft. Wayne line lived there?) Eleven months later in 1842 he came to Fairfield Twp., DeKalb Co. Ind. and "entered" 40 acres of land that was dense timber. He then bought 40A more and cleared land and built a log cabin, then bought 40 more. 120 Acres in all. The Putt schoolhouse was built on his land. This was located accross the road from the John Reinoehl farm. Paul Reinoehl's son built a home on the old site 1989 or 1990.

The Frank Putt home where he raised his family was part of this acreage as was the Mose Stomn property and Noah Erwin property It is beleived that the Erwin house is part of George Putts orginal house - log cabin?

George and his wife Sarah Ann were member of the St. John Reformed Church, Hudson, Ind. They lived the remainder of their lives in DeKalb Co. Ind.

Levi Putt

Levi Putt son of George Putt was born 24 June 1840 Lebanon Co. Pa. He was a teamster like his father and also a farmer.

During the civil war his brother-in-law a Doty came home with a crippled arm after serving in the army. Levi said he wasn't taking a chance on that happening to him. He went west and helped families over the mountains to California. He was paid in gold coin for this service. Levi didnt beleive in banks and buried his money. He buried money to bury him in his cellar and buried the gold somewhere on the farm. It was never found.

Levi inherited land from his father George and gave each of his living children land.

The 40 acres where his son Frank lived was given to him. This is where Frank built his house and barn and raised his children. There was some acreage on this farm that hadn't been tilled. Frank cleared this land and it was refered to as "the new ground."

An Anstett family lived accross the road from the Putts. They had a daughter Caroline Anstett who Levi made know his wish to marry. Caroline didnt want to marry him so she fled to New York to live with an aunt. This made Levi angry so he said Harriett Anstett had to marry him.

PUTT, LEVI
B 24 JUNE 1840
D. 18 AUG. 1914

Levi was a stern man. He didn't beleive in wasting money on Christmas gifts for their children. Hairiett would buy gifts and hide them. Levi would hunt untill he found them and get very angry. In his last years he was confined to a wheel chair after suffering a stroke.

Caroline Anstett who fled to New York to live with her Aunt Catherine met and married David Irish. In 1870 they were living in Steuben Co. Ind. and they are buried at the Steuben-DeKalb County Line Cemetery.
They had 4 children Elizabeth b. 1869, Elnora b. 1870 and twin girls Ella + Etta b. 1874. Caroline died in 1876 at 32 years.

Levi died at 74 years. He was a pioneer and helped his father clear land that was a wilderness when he came to Ind.
He is buried in Circle Cem.
Hudson, Indiana.

PUTT, JACOB

Jacob Putt

Prob. not

Jacob Putt, native of Germany came to America when he was fifteen years old. Berks Co. Pa. History
It is quite likely that he came with his parents. Also that his father was related to the Benjamin Putt that lived in Maryland. Benjamin's son John W. who married Mary Wiest moved to Stark Co. Ohio. John was born in Washington Co. Md., married Mary Wiest in Stark Co. Ohio. John W. was a Wagon Maker in Stark Co. He moved to Allen Co. Ind. ca. 1853 and was a farmer

Jacob worked as a teamster hauling charcoal and iron ore. All of his sons followed him in the same business. Believe this to be the Robesonia Iron Co. Berks Co. Pa.

Jacob and his wife Catherine Shaffer died in Berks Co. Pa and are buried at St Daniel's Corner Church, Berks Co. Pa.

Sources: 1. Berks Co. Pa. Hist 1906 p. 733 (There are 2 volumes)
2. Whitely & Noble Co. Hist (Ind.) by Weston & Goodspeed 1882 p.p. 399

This needs more research – Benjamin Putt from Maryland
Stark Co. Ohio, Allen Co. Ind.

Jacob Putt b. Germany
